Ag preservation group formed

By SALLY BAIR
Staff Writer

LANCASTER - The Lancaster County Commissioners have taken a firm stand in favor of the preservation of valuable farmland in this county. On Wednesday, the Commissioners announced a 14-member Agriculture Preservation Task Force to study how deed restrictions could be used by farmers to ensure that their land will remain in agricultural production, and to make specific suggestions for financing and implementing the program.

In announcing the task force, the Commissioners showed their deep concern for the loss of prime farmland in this county which now amounts to 7,000 acres annually. A prepared statement said, "The County would strive to protect much of its prime agricultural land by having it put under deed restrictions which would prevent its development. It is anticipated that the deed restrictions would most often be established when agricultural land changes hands."

In a telephone interview with Lancaster Farming, Board Chairman Jack F. Tracy, himself a member of the new committee, said, "We've got to take positive steps to save that which can't be replaced - our wonderful farmland. It can get cold and people can go without gas and oil, but if there comes a time when there is no food, we will face an uncontrollable crisis." He said that Lancaster County agriculture is a productive part of the society and it must be preserved.

Tracy said the Commissioners have been concerned about the problem for some time and have had extensive discussions about it. He credited Aaron Z. Stauffer, Amos H. Funk and Charles S. Conrad, Jr., with being "three of the motivators behind the idea. The simplicity of it overwhelmed us. We know there is a lot of the agricultural community that wants to preserve the land, and a certain sector is willing to preserve it voluntarily. There is stability in farmers who want to remain farmers."

The proposed report, which is due in February, is intended to give those people who are looking for it a means to preserve their land. "We want to lock in the land for future generations." He said he hopes the task force will serve as a motivation for the agricultural community and industry.

Tracy, although raised as a city boy, worked on a farm as a young boy, and said he wishes more youngsters could have the experiences he had.

Turkeys are a full time concern

By JOYCE BUPP
Staff Correspondent

ABBOTTSTOWN -- Although there's a reported turkey shortage this year as the Thanksgiving holiday approaches, you're hard put to believe that when you drive into the Pigeon Hill Farm at Abbottstown R2.

As York County's largest turkey producer, the Pigeon Hill operation grows out 1,000 of the big birds annually. The entire production of the meaty Nicholas strutes is under contract to Pound Hill Foods, a local processing concern located nearby in the quiet Route 30 village of Abbottstown.

Pigeon Hill, also known for top quality Hereford breeding stock, is owned by Dr. F. Malcolm Wright, head surgeon at the Hanover General Hospital. Both the turkey and cow-calf herd are directed by Terry Shearer, farm manager who's overseen the operation for six years. He's assisted by one full-time man, his cousin Douglas Shearer.

"Turkeys are a full-time concern," says Shearer. "They're the first thing we check in the morning and the last thing at night."

Seven long growing houses over the hills of the 200 acre farm, located on the York-Adams county line, with most of the land on the York side. After purchasing the Foothills property ten years ago, Wright put in the first turkeys, finishing them out on the range.

Crops may be future fuel source

By DIETER KRIEG

LITITZ — An energy program which will give farmers an extra outlet for farm products is surfacing in various parts of the country and is being introduced in the East. The idea is to produce alcohol from crops such as corn, wheat, barley, timber, sugar beets, etc., and mix the fluid with conventional fuels.

According to Mo Campbell, a marketing consultant for some of the top motor racing talent in the country, and a partner in Mar-Cam Industries, Inc., the renewable fuel – termed "gasohol" is already being produced and used in the Midwest and South. His company is vying for marketing rights in the East.

Gasohol is considered by some to be America's answer to offset the high-priced oil imports from the Arab nations and as such considerable support for such programs is surfacing in the nation's capital, as well as vast stretches of farmland.

Dick Merritt, for example, represents the Nebraska Gasohol Commission in Washington, D.C. Some midwestern farmers have gone so far as to form cooperatives for the production and marketing of the product. In the South, too, a farmers' cooperative is mixing gasohol with common fuels in its vehicles.

According to Campbell, gasohol is an up and coming fuel for the nation. He predicts that it's just a

LANCASTER — In what has become routine for him, former USDA Secretary Earl Butz hit the government with another merciless public tongue lashing on Thursday night. It was the third time in less than two weeks that the fiery, controversial Butz had an occasion to speak his mind in this part of the country.

He did just that when he appeared on stage before the sixty-first annual banquet of Inter-State Milk Producers Cooperative. Earlier this month Butz spoke at a Delaware gathering and on Tuesday he addressed the 65th annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Farm and Power Equipment Association.

Wherever he goes, Butz attracts crowds and declares

By KENDACE BORRY

LANCASTER — Lancaster County's 4-H champion steer, shown by Darlene Huyard, 15, of Lancaster, was named the top animal in the Southeast District 4-H Baby Beef Show held Tuesday of this week.

Her purebred Angus steer named Sarge topped the 72 other entries from Lancaster, Dauphin, and Chester County.

This is the young lady's first purebred Angus and first champion. The steer competed in the heavyweight division, weighing 1325 pounds.

Named reserve champion at the district show was Bill Wylie's Simmental-Charolais-Angus crossbred. The Nottingham R2 youth's steer had placed second in its class behind Miss Huyard's animal.

It was a double winning day for Wylie as he was also

RAPID EFFICIENT GAIN

PENNFIELDS NEW PENN GAIN BEEF FEEDS ARE FORMULATED FOR RAPID EFFICIENT GAIN

Successful cattle feeders know and understand the importance of proper beef cattle management. A conscientious manager is quick to adopt new and proven management techniques, especially during periods of high feeder calf prices and unpredictable fat cattle markets. For this reason Pennfield Corporation is commited to pursuing the never ending research findings associated with nutritional requirements of beef cattle. With this commitment in mind, Pennfield has just introduced a new line of beef feeds which incorporate nutrient benefits known to aid in the production of beef at the lowest possible cost. Pennfield's new PENN-GAIN beef feeding programs are individually designed to maximize profits in all beef feeding operations.

For more information about Pennfield's new PENN-GAIN Beef Feeds call or write Pennfield Feeds, 711 Rohrerstown Road, Lancaster, PA 17604. Local calls: Lancaster 299-2561, Red Lion 244-4511. In 717 and 215 areas dial toll free 800-732-0467.

Omaha Cattle

November 16, 1978

Weekly 51, cattle, compared with previous week's close.

Closing prices on slaughter steers and heifers were 75-1.00 higher, few late sales 1.25-1.50 up. Cows closed 50-1.00 lower, and bulls were fully steady.

Four day receipts 13,400 as compared 13,700 previous week and 14,000 a year ago. For the first time in four weeks, closing prices on slaughter steers and heifers were higher than at the end of the preceding period. The upturn was registered mainly on an active mid-week session on small supplies, apparently in at least a partial reaction to the latest "Cattle on Feed" report. Most interests came into the period in need of cattle for immediate requirements, but there was little encouragement from the carcass trade until midweek when prices trended sharply upward. The overall finish of the steer and heifer supply was attractive, with a liberal percentage choice and a moderate volume choice and prime; however, many consignments were mixed 3-4 yield grade and the number of yield grade 4 animals in the lot was often a major price determining factor. Slaughter steers made up approximately 32 per cent and heifers 34 per cent. Cows comprised 9 per cent and feeders 21 per cent.

STEERS: In late trading, load choice with end prime 3 1085 lbs. 55.00. Closing at week's high time, choice 2-4 1000-1325 lbs. 53.25-54.50. Mixed good and choice 2-3 975-1250 lbs. 52.50-53.50. Good 2-3 48.00-52.50. Few standard and good 2-3 47.00-48.00.

Average of LS-214, detailed quotations, for choice 900-1100 lb. steers this week 53.40; choice 1100-1300 lbs. 53.50. Average weight steers first three days 1165 lbs. as compared 1162 lbs. previous week. Average weight heifers first three days 1014 lbs. as compared 1018 lbs. previous week.

HEIFERS: At midweek, two loads and part load choice and prime 3-4 1025-1075 lbs. 53.25-53.50. Choice 2-4 900-1100 lbs. closed 52.00-53.50. Mixed good and choice 2-3 850-1050 lbs. 51.00-52.00. Good 2-3 48.00-51.00.

COWS: Utility and commercial 2-4 37.50-39.00, few 39.50-40.00. Cutter 36.50-38.00. Canner and low-cutter 34.50-36.50.

BULLS: 1-2 1400-2000 lbs. 45.00-50.00, individual 1 51.00-52.00.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS By DIETER KRIEG, EDITOR

Public relations is a 2-way street, people pressures can be depressing

Farm City Week is being observed. It's a great idea and program, the ideals of which should be noted not just one week out of the year, but throughout the seasons

Farm City Week is vital to the public relations program that must be developed between those who work to produce food and those who just consume it.

Obviously, the entire concept is a two-way street. Although agriculture is the foundation of any society and economy, farmers and agribusiness have to work hand in hand with others.

While much is already being done to improve relations, much more could and should be done

One area which bothers me considerably - even though I have no farmland that is being abused this way - is the fact that a number of non-farmers living in cities and towns as well as rural areas have no or little respect for the farmer and his property

Every year, especially during hunting season, the carelessness of some hunters is evident in fields and meadows

Each day too, some inconsiderate motorist tosses cans, bottles, paper, and other trash into fields Sometimes they dump entire loads of trash or even bulky items such as an old stove or refrigerator. It's disgusting.

Such people need more than a Farm City Week to bring them to their senses. Their inconsiderate actions not only distract from the beauty of the land, the results also often include poisoned livestock, punctured tractor tires, and machinery breakdowns All because some thoughtless individual tossed his trash in a farmer's field or meadow.

Also disgusting is the fact that some teenagers in the country ride trailbikes across and into fields, occasionally ruining acres at a time There is no excuse for such misbehavior, however parents seem to let them get away with it and farmers are powerless to enforce their rights A polite explanation or mild warning may or may not cure the problem Stronger defenses could result in retaliations from the youngsters in the form of cut fences, a flaming barn, or sabotaged equipment The consequences are many. The safeguards few It's a shame

What can Farm City Week do to help solve these and other related problems?

Probably not much, and in any case, not enough

But it is worthy to note that whatever can be done should be done - either through good public relations, legislation, and education Whatever is done might just be a small step, but these are, assuredly, steps in the right direction.

PRICELESS

Lesson for November 19, 1978

Background Scripture:
Exodus 20:15, 17;
Mark 12:41-44;
Luke 12:15-23
Devotional Reading:
John 15 18-27

One day during the Second World War, Prime Minister Winston Churchill hailed a cab to take him to the BBC studios where he was to make an important radio address to the world. When the Prime Minister told him the destination, the driver, not recognizing Mr. Churchill, replied, "Sorry, sir, but you'll have to get another cab. I can't go that far."

Surprised, the Prime Minister wanted to know why he was limited in his range and the cabbie replied that tonight was an exception: "You see, sir, Mr. Churchill is to braodcast in an hour and I want to get to my home in time to hear him." The Prime Minister was was so pleased that he gave the driver a one-pound note. When he saw the large sum, the driver changed his mind, exclaiming· "Hop, in, sir, to blazes with Churchill!"

Empty Treasures

Churchill, it is said, long remembered that incident as an illustration of the oft-repeated maxim that "Every man has his price." Much of the work and play of our society is predicated on the belief that anyone can be bought if the price is right. It is assumed that in a contest between material and spiritual values, the latter will always win out in the long run.

It is our love of things – usually someone else's things – that is perhaps our greatest and most pervasive human weakness. Two of the Ten Commandments are concerned with this reality: "You shall not steal" (the eighth) and "You shall not covet..." (the tenth) (Exodus 10:15, 17).

Nothing, not even alcohol, has the ability to intoxicate us and deceive us as money and material goods Nothing seems to be so powerful in causing us to take leave of our senses. Viewed through the perspective of material gain, the world and all it means is distorted. What we think is valuable is often worthless and often that which we believe to be worthless is what Jesus called "the pearl of great price."

Rich Fools

This is what happened to the "rich fool" in Jesus' parable of the man whose crops were so successful that he pulled down his barns and built bigger ones. This man thought that his security was in his barns of ample goods. But, as the parable goes, the man suddenly died and then God received him with these words "Fool' This night your soul is required of you and the things you have prepared whose shall they be?" (Luke 12:20).

His money had bought him material goods, but not treasures that lasted. As someone has noted, "Money will buy a pretty good dog, but it won't buy the wag of his tail.'

As the parable of the widow's mite illustrates, the things that last when all else is gone cannot be bought, for they are priceless.

TO IMPROVE PUBLIC RELATIONS

Farmers are a very important group of people in our world today. Farm-City Week is a very good time to take a look at the importance of farming. It has been said that, "never before have so many been dependent upon so few" Farmers not only feed themselves but about 56 other people Non-farm folks should take this chance to learn more about their farm neighbors.

There will be several opportunities during Farm-City Week. Also, I'd like to urge farmers to invite their non-farm neighbors to their farm and into their homes; this should improve and maintain good relations between the two groups. Communities today are mixed between farm folks and non-farm families. There is need of a better understanding of the lives and problems of each other.

TO CONTROL LIVESTOCK PARASITES

The fall of the year is a good time to eliminate parasites from all types of livestock. Even local animals can be infested with either internal or external parasites. Many head of feeder cattle have been imported into the county in the past few months. In the case of beef calves or lightweight cattle, of local sheep are often infested with stomach worms. In order to get good feed efficiency and good production, these parasites should be eradicated.

Your local veterinarian can be of great assistance in determining worm infestation. Don't try to manage a livestock operation including parasite infection.

TO CONSIDER CORRESPONDENCE COURSES

The Pennsylvania State University offers a number of Correspondence Courses in Agriculture and Home Economics. These courses are given by mail and are very practical Hundreds of Pennsylvanians have taken these courses and learned more about their particular business. These courses include a nominal charge and will vary between the different courses

The big advantage of learning this way is that you can continue daily routine and stay on the job. A bulletin describing the offerings is available at any Extension Office. We suggest that more local folks could take advantage of this learning method.

TO "PUSH THE PENCIL"

Farm records are a very important part modern farming; they are needed for tax purposes and for the benefit of farm planning. Since we are nearing the end of the cropping season, and the end of the calendar year, it might be a good time to so some office work and determine the best enterprises for the past year.

Time spent in analyzing farm records, and in planning the future based upon these records, should be very worthwhile. Major decisions are hard to make but are very important in today's farming. We hope that good farm records can contribute in these decisions.

SAY! HOW CAN THOSE COWS GRAZE ON A STEEP HILL LIKE THAT?
OH THAT'S A SPECIAL BREED. THEIR LEGS ARE SHORTER ON THE ONE SIDE SO THEY CAN STAND ON A HILL AND NOT BE LOPSIDED
IT'S AMAZING WHAT MODERN AGRICULTURE HAS ACCOMPLISHED.
WHAT HAPPENS IF THEY TURN AROUND?

STEIGER® Get more tractor!

STEIGER DELIVERS MORE OF THE HORSEPOWER YOU PAY FOR.

Steiger's 4WD tractors consistently transfer more engine horsepower to the drawbar — where you need it.

In recent independent tests, Steiger 4WD tractors delivered the highest percentage of engine horsepower to the drawbar pin. By comparing each model's advertised gross engine horsepower to the highest drawbar horsepower attained in the tests, Steiger tractors placed above all others. Steigers delivered an average 84.08% of the engine's power to the drawbar pin. The competition averaged only 75.81%.

WHAT'S NEW

PIPE INSULATION

A new do-it-yourself pipe insulation that can help homeowners conserve energy has been developed by Armstrong Cork Company's Industry Products Division.

Armstrong Do-It-Yourself Pipe Insulation is designed to help homeowners lower their fuel bills and conserve energy in hot-water systems by reducing heat loss through pipes. It also helps to control messy condensation on cold-water pipes during humid summer months.

The new pipe insulation is a flexible elastomeric thermal insulation supplied as flanged slit-tubing for fast and easy application. The pipe covering is snapped over the pipe and then held in place with easy to install metal clamps that fit right over the flange to provide a tight fit.

The D-I-Y Pipe Insulation is available in three common home piping sizes: 1/2 inche copper tubing, 3/4 inche copper tubing, and 1 inche copper tubing.

Armstrong is offering the insulation in a special display carton through hardware and building supply stores. Individual packaged units in the display carton will retail for approximately $6. Each package contains six three-foot lengths of pipe insulation and metal clips.

Kerry Boyd shows barrow champion

Augsburger, Shenk and Huber show winning capons

Wayne Huber. Conestoga R1, holds up his winning capon entry, while Ruth Ann Miller displays her reserve champion capon at the Lancaster 4-H Capon Round-up. The Round-up was held November 14 at the Kiwanis Club of Lancaster

LITITZ — A record price of $9 per pound went to Scott Augsburger for his grand champion capon at the Lincoln 4-H Capon Club Round-up. The evening before, Jeffrey Shenk received $2.60 a pound for his champion capon at the Lititz-Manheim-Elm-Penryn 4-H Capon Special show, and Wayne Huber won grand champion with Ruth Ann Miller capturing reserve champion with their capons at the Lancaster 4-H Capon Round-up.

The Lincoln 4-H Capon Club Round-up was held on November 15 at the Ephrata Rotary Club in Ephrata.

David Eaby, a Rotary member from Ephrata, was the top bidder on Scott Augsburger's grand champion capon. Eaby paid a total of $92.25 for the 10¼ pound bird. Scott is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Augsburger, Reinholds R1.

The second place, reserve champion pair went to Tim Pfautz of Stevens R1. Tim, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Pfautz, sold his 12 pound capon for $4 a pound.

Other participants in the round-up were Anita Augsburger, Reinholds R1, Eric DeFrees of Reinholds R1, Andy and Marcie Gehman of Stevens R1, and Michael Pfautz, Stevens R1.

The club leader is Elmer Boyd of Ephrata R5.

The Lancaster 4-H Capon Round-up was held on November 14 at the Kiwanis Club of Lancaster. Wayne Huber, showed the winning pair of capons.

Wayne showed the reserve champion capon last year at the Kiwanis sponsored round-up. Wayne said it was "experience" of the owner that made the winning capon. Wayne has had the project for four years. He learned on his own, and his father gave advise from his experience of working on a chick farm. "You have to watch how you butcher and check for blisters and diseases" Wayne said. Way, 14 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Huber of Conestoga R1, received $1.25 a pound for his champion capons.

Ruth Ann said her secret to successful capon raising was to "give them all the shelled corn they want". She raised over 200 capons on her own, with her father and brother helping our with the heavy work. Ruth is the 11 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles N. Miller.

Glenn Shenk, II, of Lititz R2, received first place for his combined project and capon exhibit.

Placing third with his capon, and also in his

Steve Kearns wins Ayrshire calf award

ELVERSON - Steven Kearns, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Kearns, Morgantown R1, was named the winner of the Southeastern Pennsylvania Ayrshire Club's annual calf award, at their fall banquet on November 10.

Steve is a member of the Twin Valley Chapter of FFA and has shown a dairy heifer this past year.

The annual calf award is open to FFA members from throughout Southeastern Pennsylvania. It is presented by the club to stimulate interest in Ayrshire dairy cattle. FFA members must submit a written application for the calf - including such things as a list of their high school and Community activities, a list of dairy activities, a detailed plan for raising the calf to freshening, a budget for raising the calf to freshening, a story of the contestant's aims and plans for the future, a three generation pedigree for a well known Ayrshire cow or bull, a description of the important points to consider in classifying a dairy animal, etc. All contestants must also submit their current project book and attend an interview.

The Aryshire Association is headed by Mr. Harold Kulp of Pottstown, Mr. Charles Gable of Elverson served as chairman of the calf award committee. The calf was donated by Mr. and Mrs. Mentzer of the Mentzer Homestead, New Holland.

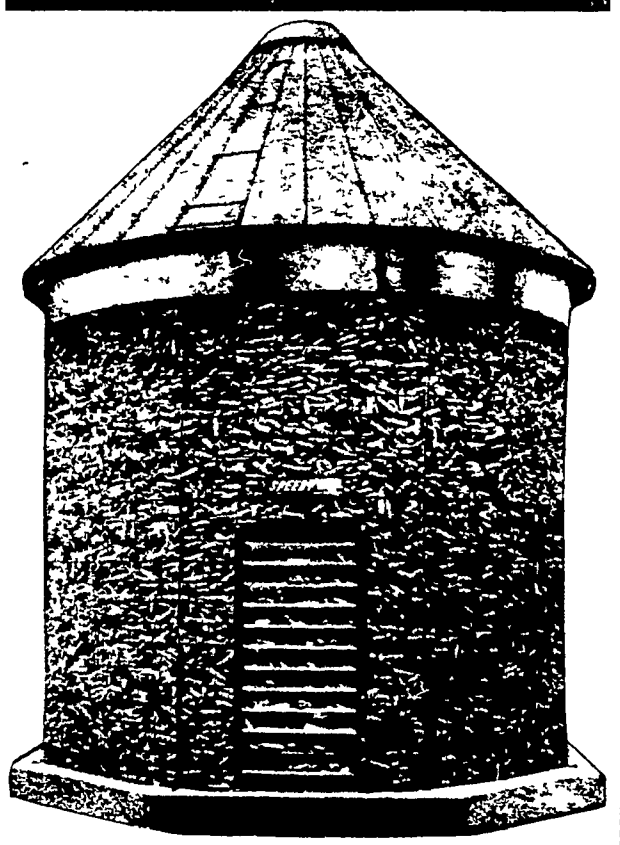
UFT SPEEDY

BAR-LOK CORN CRIBS!



THE ADVANTAGES OF SPEEDY CORN CRIBS

1 Easy to Erect
Speedy s Corn Crib goes up fast and easy because of roof rafters and Bar Lok side panels The steeply pitched roof pushes the corn to the edges — NO WASTED SPACE!

Step 1 Bar Lok Construction saves you time — gives you a strong sturdy crib Crib wire panels are interlaced to form an eye A 13 x3/8 rod is then inserted through the eye and pushed down to the foundation Easy simple fast construction

Step 2 Rafters are bolted to assembled rafter ring Now you re ready to put the roof panels on Rafters assure you of proper roof panel placement the first time No wooden framework to build

2 Wide Selection
There is a Speedy Crib for every farm need priced right for every budget
- Choice of 900 1200 or 1700 Bushel Sizes
- 5 or 2 Gauge Wire Mesh Side Panels

3 Durable
The Speedy 5 Gauge Crib won t bulge or sag—stands straight and tall year after year For extra strength and durability get the Speedy 2 Gauge Crib—outlasts other cribs—even with full capacity loads Galvanized wire not aluminum paint

4 Save Money and Energy
Corn stored in a Speedy Crib is dried by Mother Nature without the use of costly energy This saves money and also helps conserve our scarce energy resources

Lancaster Co. farm tour to be this weekend

By KENDACE BORRY

MANHEIM — Outside of Manheim, there is a farmer that is a son of a son of a son of a son of a farmer. In fact, the first Hershey bought the farm in 1832, and the Hersheys have been settling there ever since.

Today Daniel K. Hershey and his family run a 400,000 broiler, 150 steer, and 200 pig operation. Besides that they grow tobacoo, corn, wheat, barley, and timothy on their 92 acres.

Their farm is on of the eight farms that will be included on the Lancaster County Farmers Association Farm Tour that is being held today and tomorrow, November 18 and 19. The farms are open both days from 1 to 5 p.m.

According to Hershey, he "just turned out" to be a farmer.

"I like the independence," he stated. "Around here, there's to time clock to punch."

He has always fed steers, as long as he's been involved with farming. He usually buys his stock around 800 pounds of weight, bringing it up from Virginia. Then he fattens them out, selling them on the market at about 1100 to 1200 pounds.

He feeds hogs too, buying them from auctions or farmers at about 50 pounds of weight and selling them around 220 pounds.

The broiler operation was started about eight years ago.

"We have always had some laying hens, and with my boy becoming more interested in farming, we decided to get the broilers," he explained. "You're not so tied down with broilers as you would be with a laying flock."

Thinking of farming today, he noted that he thinks it is "pretty hard" for a young man to get started. "You almost have to get into something big today to survive," he explained. "Otherwise you just won't make it."

He himself had been born in the house on the homestead. First he had worked with his father and now the farm has been his own for the past 22 years.

(Turn to Page 23)

Daniel K. Hershey feeds his steer while daughter Wanda and wife, Joretta, get involved in helping him. The family farm has been in the Hershey line since 1832.

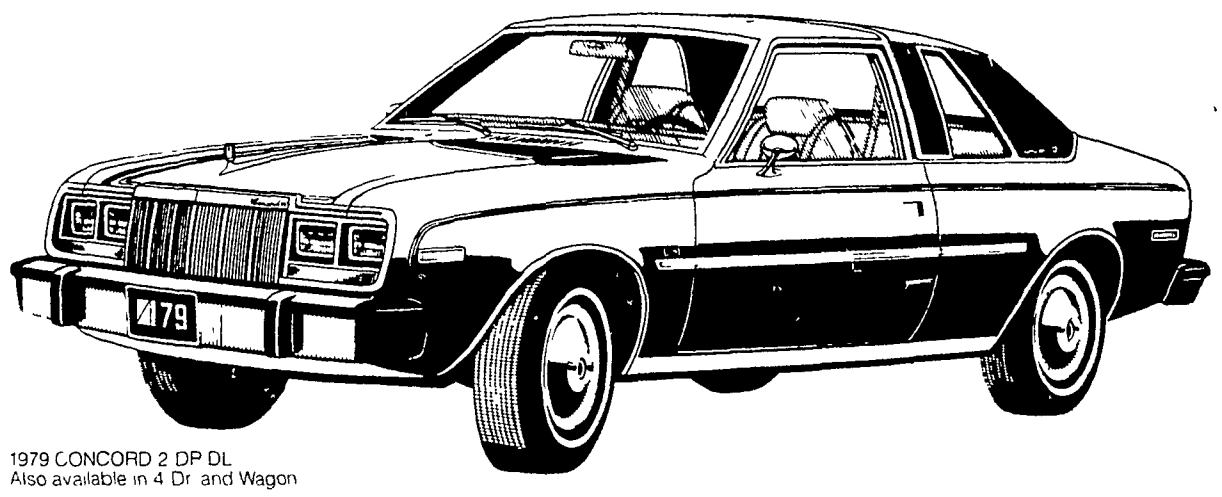
AMC CONCORD DL.



1979 CONCORD 2 DR DL
Also available in 4 Dr and Wagon

Everything about it says luxury... except the price!

One look tells you that the new 1979 AMC Concord DL 2-Door is a very luxurious car Formal Landau vinyl roof, opera windows, white sidewall tires, color-keyed styled wheel covers and a striking new formal grille with quad rectangular headlamps neatly accentuate the Concord's clean, elegant lines.

Inside the impression continues. Because you're surrounded by velveteen crush velour upholstery, plush cut-pile carpeting, digitial quartz clock and woodgrain instrument panel overlays as you relax in the individual reclining front seats.

And on the road, that feeling of luxury is even stronger. The ride is uncommonly smooth, stable and quiet. And Concord's size makes handling and maneuvering a breeze.

In every way, the Concord DL is like an expensive luxury car. Except one. It isn't expensive at all. The sticker price is surprisingly low. Come in and see for yourself.

Smith wins Eastern FFA proficiency award

KANSAS CITY – Donald Smith, an 18 year old from Union Bridge, Md., has been named the Eastern Regional winner in the FFA Placement in Agricultural Production Proficiency Award. The contest was held in conjunction with the National FFA Convention held in Kansas City, Mo., last week.

Donald began his work with dairy operations when he was a ten year old. Following the death of his mother, Donald went to live and work for a family with a 160 head or registered Holstein dairy. During the years he worked with this dairy, he set his goal in life to become a dairy farm manager.

Wanting and needing more experience to reach his career goal, he found a job with a larger operations of 600 milk cows where he was milking 16 hours a day, six days a week.

Donald applied three months later for a job as a dairy farms manager and landed the position. Since beginning his a new job, he has become certified to artificially inseminate the cattle and now breeds and manages the total herd, in addition to managing the calves. Oher responsibilities include taking a major role in the field work operations plus keeping all the farm equipment in a good state of repair. He has fulfilled his career objective and now plans to increase his knowledge and skills in this area.

Donald is a member of the Linganore FFA Chapter. He has participated on the Awards, Safety and Food for America Committees, dairy judging team and the tractor operators contest. He is also a member of the 4-H Club, State and National Holstein Associations.

All FFA members who complete supervised experience programs involving placement on farms not owned or operated by the student's family as part of their vocational agriculture instruction are eligible for the award. To participate FFA members submit an application on which they answer questions in ten areas related to their placement program. Requirements include listing goals and future objectives, a record of annual earnings and expenses. a record o other sources of income, a financial statement, a description of the student's training plan, a listing of specific experiences, a listing of skills and competencies gained and a listing of FFA and other school activities in chich the student participated. Finally, the student must give a brief biography and a statement from the instructor or employer.

Each regional winner earns a check for $250 and a plaque plus partially paid travel expenses to the National FFA Convention in Kansas City, Mo. Here his or her Placement in Agricultural Production program is judged agains winners from three other regions. The top FFA member in the nation in Placement in Agricultural Production is recognized at the National FFA Convention with a plaque and a check for $500.

As sponsors of the Placement in Agricultural Production Proficiency Award, the Hesston Corporation, and the Shell Chemical Company provide funds for awards at the local, state, and national levels as well as travel awards to the National FFA Convention for the regional award winners.

Landfill solution wins award for John Smith

YORK – John T. Smith, York County Extension director on The Pennsylvania State University staff, has been named recipient of the first Pennsylvania Cooperative Extension Service Award.

Smith received the award October 30 during ceremonies on the Penn State University Park Campus. It is based on outstanding educational programming at the county or state level.

In presenting the plaque, Dr. Thomas B. King, Penn State associate dean for Extension, said that Smith's efforts in determining the site for a sanitary landfill in York County were instrumental in establishing a unique system of land rental proven successful for both farm landowners and the solid waste authority.

"When York County recognized the need for a sanitary landfill, even before it was required by law, the public reaction to the proposal was inflammatory," Dr. King noted. "No township was willing to allow the landfill to be built within its boundaries. Some townships even passed ordinances against it."

Heated public meetings were held throughout the area, but Smith didn't attend any of them or take sides. His proximity to the authority officials and his frequent farm visits to potential condemned sites made it possible for him to understand the positions of both groups.

The agent, whose long-time Extension career has earned him the respect of the community, discussed the issues with both sides. He approached the subject informally after dealing with other issues. Once he become convinced that the one major reason farmers opposed the land fill was the fear of losing the land, he came up with this novel suggestion: instead of acquiring the land through purchase and after using it, restore it so that it could be farmed by its owners.

The proposal was accepted. Rental is far cheaper than purchase and the land remains on the tax rolls. Farmers whose land is being rented receive an annual rent and when the land is completely filled, it is returned to the farmer.

Today, the landfill is operating below the amount needed to meet expenses. Citizens of the township where the landfill is located have noted an additional benefit. The amount of litter along roads and streams, in woods and fields, long a severe problem in the area, has been minimized.

As Smith himself has said, "Even though the community is not happy with the landfill, it seems to be much more acceptable to them because farmers still own the land."

"John Smith's key role in helping residents of York County achieve a satisfactory resolution to a community problem, is indicative of the type of work Extension is commited to for the welfare of Pennsylvanians," Dr. King emphasized.

LT outbreaks, flock owners beware

HARRISBURG - The cool weather of Fall and Winter favors a return of trouble from LT (laryngotracheitis) and backyard flocks can be especially vulnerable, according to Pennsylvania Agriculture Secretary Kent Shelhamer.

"The fact that we have no confirmed LT outbreaks since May is encouraging, but we cannot allow ourselves to be lulled into thinking the disease has gone away," said Shelhamer. "Our poultry industry is extremely important to the region, and a few precautions can save us a lot of time, trouble and expense down the road."

A costly outbreak of LT last year in southcentral and southeastern Pennsylvania was traced through backyard flocks. Shelhamer is urging backyard owners to take measures to protect their own birds while also acting through poultry farmers, servicemen and commerical flock owners to eliminate the possibility of outbreak in their much larger flocks.

He cautioned backyard flock owners to take special care with crates and other implements coming to the farm via travelling poultry buyers or salesmen. He urged that all such materials be cleaned and disinfected before being allowed to remain on the property Further, anyone working with these backyard birds must follow personal and clothing security procedures before coming into contact with other flocks and commerical poultry operations.

The Agriculture Department is continuing to urge immunization against LT as the simplest means to prevent another outbreak. The expense of the vaccine is quite small when compared to the economic consequences of an outbreak of LT.

A bottle of vaccine enough to save from one to 500 chickens usually costs about $4. Shelhamer urged flock Department's Bureau of Animal Industry, their local Animal Industry, their local feedmen, or local poultry veterinarians for more information.

LT vaccination on an annual basis can significantly blunt the spread of disease to all layer, breeder and broiler flocks. Due to the many ways that LT can be carried, no flock can be considered completely isolated from another flock. Under these conditions, immunization becomes essential.

LT is a lethal respiratory virus infection of chickens which does not affect humans. Small flocks infected with LT have been found in all parts of the state. In unvaccinated flocks, death losses have ranged from 10 to 70 per cent, sometimes ruining an entire small operation.

Two Willow Street girls take home Gold Emblem awards

New Jersey FFA horticulture team places 2nd

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — After competing against 42 FFA teams, New Jersey captured the second place National FFA Horticulture Contest title with North Carolina placing first. The contest was held in conjunction with the National FFA Convention in Kansas City, Mo., last week.

The New Jersey team representatives receiving the Gold Emblem award for both their team and individual efforts include Dave Pijak, Elmer Donovan, Electra Sipars and Sandy Emley, all of Allentown, N.J.

Maryland was the third place team winning the Gold Emblem award. Fred Conrad, Frederick, Md. was named the fifth high scoring individual for the contest. He received a special trophy for his achievements along with a Gold Emblem award. Phil Arnold, Frederick, Md. was the ninth place Gold Emblem individual winner. Lisa Haines, Frederick, Md. was a Silver Emblem winner.

Pennsylvania placed 11th in the competition winning a Silver Emblem plaque award. Felicia Gordner, and Tammy Lefever, both of Willow St., were individual Gold Emblem winners, placing 24th and 35th, respectively, out of the 135 total contestants. Silver Emblem winner was Rose Marie Myers, Willow St., while Tracy Wetting, also of Willow St., was a Bronze Emblem award winner.

Placing 13th was the Delaware team as they won the Silver Emblem plaque award. Individually, Cindy Lomax and Kathy Hauer, both of Camden-Wyoming, Del., were Gold Emblem award winners. Sue Zimmerman, Camden-Wyoming, Del., was the recipient of the Silver Emblem award and Paula Hauer, of the same town received the Bronze Emblem medal award.

The Horticulture Contest tests contestants ability to judge and identify nursery and floriculture products. The contestants also took a written examination testing general knowledge of such subjects as plant anatomy, growing media and diagnosis of plant disorders. The contest utilized plant material donated and loaned by merchants in the Kansas City area and was held at the Swope Park Municipal Greenhouse Complex in Kansas City, Mo.

The event was sponsored by the American Association of Nurserymen, Inc. of Washington, D.C.; Wholesale Nursery Growers of America, Inc. of Washingtron, D.C., and The Vitality Seed Company of Ann Arbor, Mich.

The Hershey farm, nestled behind Manheim, houses operations for steers, hogs, and broilers. The family is also involved in raising a variety of crops including corn and tobacco.

Lancaster Co. farm tours

"Working together creates close families," he commented. "This is one advantage of farm life."

He and his wife have five children altogether, with the second oldest, J. Timothy, helping on the farm right now, and looking most likely at the moment that he might be the next Hershey in the farmer line. And then there's Wanda, too, the youngest, who is working on starting her own rabbit business on the farm.

Looking ahead to the next 20 years of farming in Lancaster County, Hershey wonders how much farmland will be left. He thinks the farms that survive will become larger, pushing the smaller farms out of business.

Those interested in talking to Hershey about his farm can visit him this weekend as part of the farm tour.

Other farms included in the tour are:

Aaron Glick and Sons, Maplehofe Dairy Farm, Quarryville, a 100 cow dairy farm with a milk store; they also raise 40,000 laying hens;

Richard Hess Family, Strasburg; 120 cow dairy farm with a new free-stall dairy barn with a milking parlor;

Clyde K. Eshelman and Sons, Lancaster; a 100 acre potato farm;

Herr Fruit Farm, Millersville; where apples are reaised and cider is made. A demonstration on bee hives, honey products, and equipment will be given;

Abram and John Barley, Star Rock Farm, Conestoga, a 450 cow dairy farm;

John Landis Family, East Petersburg, who have a new 270 stall, free-stall- drive-thru barn with 200 cows and heifers;

And J. Harold Musser, Penn's Peaceful Meadow Farm; dairy and poultry farm. The Mussers also operate a grain elevator withtheir neighbor which will be in operation.

For more information about the tour, one can contact Mr. and Mrs. Richard H. Hess, Strasburg, 717-687-6547; or Mr.a nd Mrs. Henry Barley, Lancaster R2, 717-872-5562.

Potato pest handbook issued

UNIVERSITY PARK - Diseases, insects, and weeds affecting potatoes are identified in a new handbook designed for use throughout the Northeastern states and published by the College of Agriculture at Penn State.

The handbook is intended for use by potato growers, workers with the Cooperative Extension Service of the state universities, and other individuals interested in producing maximum yields of high quality potatoes.

Entitled "Potato Diseases, Insects, and Weeds," the handbook features 78 full-color illustrations of the most common pests which can damage potatoes. Individual descriptions of pest problems and a pest identification key make up the bulk of the handbook.

Sized for taking into a field to identify pests, it measures 5½ by 10 inches on 88 pages and has a special stitched binding and heavy cover for durability. Recommendations for pest control are included.

"Potato production is hindered by numerous diseases, insects, and weeds," declared Dr. David R. MacKenzie, co-author from the Department of Plant Pathology at Penn State. "With the use of proper cultural practices, while integrating pesticide usage with natural or biological controls, crop losses can be reduced," he affirmed.

"Potato Diseases, Insects, and Weeds" is available for $4.24, tax included, from Box 6000, University Park, Pa. 16802. One should make checks or money orders payable to The Pennsylvania State University, allowing at least two weeks for delivery.

stormed through Pennsylvania in 1972, there were 16,000 turkeys fattening on the rolling and grassy pastures. After the rains had stopped and clouds blew off, 12,000 of the birds lay dead on the ground. In 1973, the first house went up. Six more have been added, the last three during 1976.

Efficiency of those units has been high, according to Shearer, who took over the management shortly after the hurricane disaster.

Poults are moved into one of two starter houses as day-olds and receive almost constant attention for the initial two weeks, including hand feeding and watering for seven days. Heat is maintained for up to six weeks during winter months.

Livability percentages have held at about 93 per cent for the past several years and there have been no major disease outbreaks since Shearer took over the farm's management.

"This year's percentage will be down a bit, though," relates Shearer. "Heavy snows last winter caused us problems getting the feed trucks in; and then when it finally thawed, the road went out. We dumped 300 tons of stone into the mud before we could move in the tractor-trailers to load the turkeys for market."

Under the feed conversion contract with Round Hill Foods, the turkeys are weighed in, feed is weighed in, turkeys are weighed out at shipping time, and payment is calculated, not on market price, but on the efficiency of feed-to-meat growth. According to Shearer, prime consideration in the conversion rate is the weather, with the birds making faster gains under the lower stress of moderate temperatures.

Hens and toms are finished in separate houses, with space allowance of two square feet per hen and three per tom. Hens are raised primarily for the whole roasting market and are finished at an average 14 pound weight at 17 weeks. Toms, weighing up to 24 pounds at 20 weeks usually go for processing into a variety of food products. Antiobiotic feed regulations are strict and all medicated feed must be withheld a minimum five days before shipping.

Feed is all of the pelleted variety, high in protein for the young poults, but higher in energy for finishing. All feeding and watering is automatic, triggered by pressure switches that flip on when feed levels become low.

Although Shearer indicates that there have never been any manure odor problems with neighbors, he's careful about not cleaning barns over weekends and avoiding machinery traffic when commuters are traveling the roads. Most of the waste accumulation, up to 120 tons, is sold out yearly at the rate of $4 per ton if the buyer loads, or $7 if the farm employees load.

Because of the low-cost-per-bird return on turkey operations for many years, independent growers have been cutting flocks and poultry production is becoming more an "assembly line" kind of food crop, Shearer admits. He foresees the trend of food processor-feed company corporates growing more commonplace, not only in poultry commodities, but in the production of beef and pork as well.

Food buyers have used turkey as a substitute for red meats as beef and pork prices began to pick up from record lows. As a result, stocks of frozen turkey supplies are down, and the housewife will pay a bit more for her traditional holiday meat this year.

But, says Shearer, the growers under contract see none of the profits under their contract arrangements. And inflation is eating up what little profit was there to begin with.

"Costs are up," he warns echoing the lament of farmers across the country. "Shavings for bedding, when we can get them, are higher. Liquid propane, our heat source, has gone up, too."

One way that Shearer can save a penny per bird is by debeaking them himself. It's a simple procedure in which the top beak is nipped off to be just a bit shorter than the bottom one. If debeaking is not done, the turkeys will peck the feathers of each other until they have the back flesh open and bleeding, and mortality rates will soar.

"I'd rather be a garbage man than debeak turkeys every day for a living!" agreed Terry and his cousin-assistant Douglas. But several times yearly, using toenail clippers used by dog groomers, they spend a few days debeaking as many as 10,000 poults per day, with only one other temporary assistant.

But the drudgery of turkey debeaking is forgotten when a grinning Shearer dwells instead on the joys of exhibiting the other Pigeon Hill commodity, a herd of 60 white-faced cows, plus calves, and a few bulls. The Herefords are a special love of Dr. Wright's; and his son, Harris, has done well with animals in York County's 4-H baby beef competition.

Pigeon Hill Herefords have taken nearly every prize in Eastern beef competition. They claimed the heifer championship at the New York State Fair and have walked off with the Grand Champion bull banners in five out of six shows this year, including the Maryland Eastern National and Pennsylvania's Livestock Exposition.

Shearer has semen available for the champion sire and is also working with artificial insemination techniques on the cow herd. Marketing of the animals is done as buyers show interest.

Broilers up 8%

HARRISBURG - Placements of broiler chicks in Pennsylvania during the week ending November 4 were up eight per cent above the corresponding week a year ago, according to the Pennsylvania Crop Reporting Service.

The placements were 1,951,000, six per cent below the previous week. Average placements in the past nine weeks were 11 per cent above a year earlier.

Placements of broiler chicks in the key 21 poultry-producing states were 63,874,000, five per cent below the previous week but nine per cent more than the same week a year earlier. Average placements in the 21 states during the past nine weeks were six per cent above a year ago.

The number of broiler-fryers slaughtered in Pennsylvania under federal inspection in the week ending October 18 was 1,699,000 pounds with an average weight of 4.13 pounds, and in the week ending October 25 was 1,713,000 with an average weight of 4.06 pounds.

Wheat, barley payments may reach $735 million

WASHINGTON, D.C. - Wheat producers will receive between $585 and $655 million and barley producers between $65 and $80 million in deficiency payments under the 1978 wheat and feed grain programs, Ray Fitzgerald, administrator of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) said recently

Payment checks will be mailed to eligible wheat and barley producers by the ASCS county offices beginning in December. Corn and grain sorghum payments will be made in April.

The deficiency payment rate is the difference between the established (target) price or the commodity and the higher of either the national average loan rate or the national weighted average market price received by farmers during the first five months of the marketing year for each commodity (for wheat and barley June through October). The per bushel 1978 target prices are $3.40 for wheat and $2.25 for barley and the national average loan rates are $2.35 for wheat and $1.63 for barley.

The national average market prices for wheat were: June, $2.82; July, $2.80; August, $2.88; September, $2.92; October mid-month, $3.04. For barley, the national average market prices were: June, $2.04; July, $1.84; August, $1.87; September, $1.84; October mid-month, $1.81. Based on these prices, the estimated per bushel payment rate is from 50 to 60 cents for wheat and from 33 to 39 cents for barley. The final deficiency payment rates will be determined following the Nov. 30 Agricultural Prices Report.

Deficiency payments for the 1978 wheat and barley crops are computed by multiplying the projected yield for the farm by the acreage planted for harvest times the payment rate. However, the payment may be adjusted downward by the allocation factor. The allocation factor is determined by dividing the national program acreage by the number of acres the Secretary of Agriculture estimates were harvested. These values will be determined from the November crop report. The allocation factor will be applied to deficiency payments on farms where producers have not reduced the 1978 acreage of wheat from the 1977 by 20 percent or the 1978 acreage of barley from 1977 by 20 percent. It is estimated the allocation factor will be 95 to 100 percent for wheat and 83 to 89 percent for barley.

The government is giving wheat and barley farmers a helping hand in the form of deficiency payments.

Butz displeased

that farmers are not getting a fair deal from the government. His style includes plenty of off-color jokes and verbal punches which others might be afraid to deliver.

One of Butz's chief concerns is the deterioration of this nation's incentive system. The farm, he says, is one of the few places left in America where the incentive system is still practiced. The family farm, he added, is the best illustration of it.

Blasting this nation's welfare system, the former agriculture chief said he doesn't blame the man who is taking advantage of welfare payments, but rather the system which pays him more to loaf than to work.

Butz is also sharply critical of Congress, charging that a third of its members are owned by organized labor.

"We sell this as a national philosophy," Butz declared, referring to give-aways and other programs which cut personal incentives. "What we need to do is get our story out ... we need to mount an aggressive campaign of informing the people and get some fiscal sanity in Washington, D.C. We've got to get this story across," he emphasized.

While sharply critical of the Carter Administration's agricultural policies, Butz also reminded his listeners that they themselves take food for granted.

To illustrate his point, he referred to the Lord's Prayer and the plea: "Give us this day our daily bread." Butz claimed that most people in this country don't take that portion of the prayer seriously. "You take food for granted," he said. But around the world, he explained, two out of three people would realistically pray for food and mean it.

"Here in this country two out of three people pray: 'Lord, give me courage to remain on our diet'," Butz opinionized. "Full-page newspaper ads are trying to trick you into buying food you don't need," he continued.

Lowered food prices and a "cheap food policy" are also on the former agriculture secretary's "hit list." He claims he once told a reporter that food prices will go down when his station's advertising rates go down and his pay check is decreased. "Now, where do you want to begin this cycle?" he claims to have demanded of the man.

Noting that USDA economists just this week predicted a food price increase of 8 to 10 per cent for 1979, Butz said it was a story which received attention in every household because all housewives can identify with it. Leaving his audience with the obvious impression that talk of high-priced food angers him, Butz praised the American farmer for his production and reminded them that nowhere else on Earth does it require so little to put so much food on the table. According to Butz just 17 per cent of a person's net pay check is spent on groceries.

Recollecting the era of mass demonstrations, Butz said he used to see signs declaring that "food is for people, not for profit." His rebuttal is an emphatic: "If there isn't going to be any profit, then there won't be any food for people."

According to Butz, who was forced to resign from his post two years ago because of an allegedly offensive ethnic slur, the Carter Administration has done nothing to improve the farmer's situation. He calls Assistant Agriculture Secretary Carol Tucker Foreman "the ultimate insult" to agriculture and charges that she has done to red meat meat consumption what the Titanic did to ocean traveling. He says that Mrs. Foreman is on an unwarranted crusade to associate cancer with nitrites in meat, and in doing so she is exposing Americans to the risk of botulism. According to Butz's findings, a person would have to eat 15 tons of bacon per day to reach the level of nitrites that laboratory rats are being exposed to in cancer research.

Butz is vigorously defensive of the American diet, claiming that attacks on food quality, purity, nutrition, and price are unnecessary.

The Carter Administration is following a so-called cheap food policy, Butz continued, explaining that the grain provisions are designed to keep prices down and to insure that "never again will the farmer receive $5 for a bushel of wheat." Butz claims that the reserves will be used to dump grain on the market when the price rises to above Administration-allowed levels.

Praising farmers for their accomplishments and dedication, Butz remarked that today's agriculturalist is no longer a laborer. Rather, he is a capitalist who has hundreds of thousands of dollars invested in his profession. According to the former ag chief it takes in the neighborhood of $200,000 worth of investments to create one agricultural job on the farm.

Concluding that he is "fed up with the administration's cheap food policy," Butz urged farmers to stand up for their fair share.

Implement dealers hear Butz

SEVEN SPRINGS — Members of the Pennsylvania Farm and Power Equipment Association met here this week for their 65th annual convention with former USDA Secretary Earl Butz as their headlined speaker. The former agricultural chief, who reportedly "told the story of agriculture as it is," spoke for over an hour and received a standing ovation.

Held here at the Seven Springs Resort Hotel, the annual meeting got underway Sunday and lasted through Wednesday. An estimated 550 people attended the affair, which was complete with a trade show hosted by 50 exhibitors.

Exhibits were only open to the approximately 500 members of the Association, explained Arthur J. Smith, who organized the meeting and serves as executive director.

The exhibits featured only short line equipment distributors, while major manufacturers hosted breakfasts and luncheons for attendees.

With numerous speakers featured during the 4-day convention, PFPEA members had opportunities to listen to talks on topics ranging from marketing to dealer-employee relations.

New officers were also elected. They are as follows: Elmer Eisenbrown, New Brighton area White Farm Equipment dealer, president; Jim Straley, Dover area Ford dealer, first vice president; and Web Snyder, Massey-Ferguson dealer from Watsontown, second vice president.

New directors from each of the eight membership districts were also chosen.

TOBACCO GROWERS
SUGGESTIONS FOR HANDLING
1978
CROP PENNSYLVANIA
We are aware that tobacco growers know how to handle tobacco; however, we would like to bring the following to your attention:
1. Due to the wet growing season this year, the tobacco is on the thin side and cannot stand being baled overly damp. If it is baled too damp, it will rot in storage.
2. Bales should not be stored too high and should not be stored in dampening cellars. They should be stored in a dry place.
3. Bales should be packed with proper lap, no shingling and not over 70 pounds. Too heavy bales can rot. Short bales of good quality tobacco are acceptable.
4. Any DAMAGED, MUDDY, FROZEN, WET or TRASH tobacco should be kept out of your good tobacco and packed separately.
5. It is preferable to strip tobacco in natural case.
Protect tobacco with waterproof cover when making delivery to prevent damage from rain or snow.

FmHA financing exceeds $11 billion

WASHINGTON, D.C. - The Farmers Home Administration (FmHA), the rural credit agency of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, reported that its loans and grants for rural development during fiscal year 1978 reached a record high of $11.1 billion - 55 per cent above the 1977 level, according to Alex Mercure, assistant secretary for rural development.

Of the $11.1 billion, 93 per cent of which are loans repayable with interest, nearly $5 billion are farm loans. Housing loans accounted for $3.7 billion, $1.3 billion went for community facilities improvements and more than $1 billion were used for business-industrial financing.

Mercure cited these highlights:

—Farm credit. FmHA made 153,380 farm loans, including more than 90,000 emergency loans to farmers and ranchers hit by natural disasters or economic emergency. Emergency loans totaled $3.6 billion. Other services included $1.3 billion to individual family farmers for ownership, operation and improvement of their farms. A new economic emergency farm loan program, enacted in August, began with $108 million of lan approvals in September. Under this program, FmHA is authorized to carry up to $4 billion in loans through May 15, 1980.

—Housing. FmHA made 116,896 loans totaling $2.6 billion to families of low and moderate income for home ownership or improvement, and $673.1 million in loans for 1,451 multi-family apartment projects in rural towns throughout the country. FmHA housing programs are available in rural areas, towns of up to 10,000 population, and in non-metropolitan areas of up to 20,000 population where other credit is not available.

—Community facilities. FmHA provided more than $1 billion in fiscal year 1978 to build or improve water and sewer systems in approximately 2,000 towns and rural areas. Loans for other types of community facilities, such as medical and community centers and fire departments, added $250 million to the agency's community facility programs. Facility projects may serve countryside and towns of up to 10,000 population.

Grants for comprehensive planning in rural areas were issued to 145 state, local and area planning bodies during fiscal year 1978.

—Business and Industry. FmHA's guarantees of commercial lenders' loans to businesses and industries employing rural people rose from $350 million in fiscal year (FY) 1977 to $1 billion in FY '78. A loan level of $1.1 billion is budgeted for the current fiscal year. Grants totaling $10 million were made last year to local public bodies for improvement of rural industrial sites. During that time, the program provided an estimated 38,000 new jobs in rural areas and saved an estimated 53,000 existing jobs.

Gordon Cavanaugh, FmHA administrator, said, "a state reorganization will be completed this year. Under the plan, new district offices will service all community, multiple-family housing and organization project loans and grants. County FmHA offices will concentrate on improved service to families applying for farm and individual housing loans. To make FmHA more responsive to local needs and plans, and to avoid duplication of facilities in an area, groups of counties served by FmHA district offices will generally have the same boundaries as sub-state planning districts."

IH dealership opens in Lehigh Valley

SCHNECKSVILLE - After almost one year's absence of an International Harvester dealer in the Lehigh Valley, Lehigh International has opened for business to service the many customers. Lehigh International is locating in the same facility that was used by International Harvester Sales and Service in Schnecksville since 1964.

Ed Buss is returning as general manager and president. Buss was a retail salesman for International Harvester Sales and Service before being promoted to the position of area sales manager for International Harvester in 1975. He was born and raised in the Lehigh Valley and brings back with him his knowledge and experience in the agricultural community, say company spokesmen.

Donald Altemose will have the duties of service manager and vice-president. He was born and raised on a farm in Monroe County. Since 1960 he has been operating heavy construction equipment. The mixture of agricultural and industrial backgrounds will add a new dimension to Lehigh International's shop.

Jerry Blakeslee returns to Lehigh International with virtually a lifetime of experience with International Harvester equipment. He will have the duties of sales manager and secretary-treasurer. His experience and knowledge with industrial equipment will make him as asset to Lehigh International customers when it comes to selecting the proper machine to fit their needs, spokesmen say.

Another familiar face will be that of Leon Snyder as he goes about his duties of parts manager. His past experience as service manager will be of benefit to the parts customer, and he will be able to advise customers as to the various parts needed, according to Lehigh International spokesmen.

LIFE on the farm

By Dieter Krieg, Editor

With Thanksgiving approaching, I take inventory of what I hold dear.

I count my blessings, of which there are many.

The children and my wife, Lisa, come to mind first. They're really special to come home to. Heidi, for example, never fails to greet me with an enthusiastic and loud "Hi Da!" as soon as she hears me coming Then all 20 pounds of her, complete with sparkling eyes and a great big smile, come sailing towards me and into my arms to be picked up and hugged. I'm always happy to oblige. So much in fact, that everybody accuses me of having the little girl spoiled

Paul and Karl are a source of joy too. Each day they have something to show me and I must marvel at their fine development. Both boys are usually eager helpers One is an artist, the other a builder Paul can run like a marathon champion when he wants to but can't walk across the room if he's busy drawing pictures. Karl can be content building airplanes, houses, and barns, and yet still have time to find Daddy's shoes They're both delightful

And Mommy, she's very special too. She takes care of three small children and a husband who's a boy at heart. She provides us all with love, comfort, warmth, and of course good eating. She is understanding, patient, loving, lovable. For her, I'm grateful.

I'm also thankful for my parents, my upbringing, my heritage, my friends, and this beautiful world we live in. I'm thankful for Autumn, Winter, Spring and Summer I'm glad for trees, grass, animals, fields, breezes, sunshine, rain, and soil

I'm thankful for my job and the satisfactions I've been able to derive from it I love the outdoors and agriculture I'm grateful to be a part of it.

Included too in my inventory of cherished belongings and experiences are the memories I hold of having once lived on a farm where horses pulled wagons fitted with wooden, iron-rimmed wheels I remember the scent of leather harnesses and hay, and the unique smell of the dirt floor in the toolshed. And who can forget the warmth and scent of a dairy barn, where the aromas of silage, hay, straw, and the cows themselves blend in for pure satisfaction

A couple years of life in a refugee camp also had their value — an experience I wouldn't trade away for anything

Countless good memories of years gone by and a happy feeling for what I have today, make my inventory of what I hold dear endless I thank God for being so generous

Have a happy Thanksgiving, everyone!

Lisa Dobrosky wins nat'l. meats judging contest

YORK - York County's 4-H meats judging experts won another victory during national competition last week at Kansas City, Mo.

Lisa Dobrosky, 15-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony G. Dobrosky, Glen Rock R2, topped all competitors to be named the overall winner in the national 4-H meats judging and identification contest at the American Royal Livestock Show.

She's the reigning county 4-H queen and has carried sheep projects for several years as a member of the county lamb club and the Glen Rock Community club.

Other members of the team, which finished fourth in the fifteen-state competition, are Brenda Walter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Walter, Airville R2, Chris Sunday, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sunday, York R1, and Steve Trostle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Trostle, Red Lion R2.

Lisa was first in the total overall meats judging portion of the competition, finishing with 430 points. Chris Sunday placed sixth with 423 points. York's team was a close second with 1253 points to Oklahoma's score of 1255 points.

Lisa Dobrosky

In beef judging, the teammates earned a score of 413 points to place fifth. Wyoming captured that first place with a high score of 429 points.

The team took sixth place in pork judging, with Lisa placing fourth in individual scoring with 143 points, Chris Sunday at the tenth place with 133 points, and Brenda Walter in eleventh place one point lower.

Also scoring top in the retail meats judging category, Lisa earned the first place with 147 points, Chris with 141 points took sixth place, and Brenda with a tying 141 points was in seventh, to earn the county the first place team spot.

In the meats identification portion of the judging, Lisa was third with 228 points, Chris finished eighth with 209 points and Brenda was tenth with 197 points, helping to earn the team the fifth place spot.

The team from Nebraska won the overall team score with 1925 points, while Pennsylvania's fourth place was won with their accumulated 1887 points.

Other competitors represented Illinois, Wyoming, Alabama, Virginia, Kansas, Florida, Minnesota and Montana.

WHY DO FARMERS LOOK TO BEACON FOR NO-NONSENSE FEEDING?

Farmers have learned that Beacon Feeding and management programs are geared to make money for a farmer.

We're not afraid to be innovators. But our programs start first with proven research...are recommended by specialists who know their business...make use of practical quality ingredients...and are backed by local dealers who appreciate your business.

FOR EXAMPLE:

Dairy Feeding Programs

are recommended specifically for your herd. Any purchased feed recommended is to provide the nutrients you don't grow yourself. Beacon know-how can well be the key to providing the net profit you must have to stay in business.

Nutrena CLS

is one of the most economical methods of providing protein that your herd needs for good health and high production. Handy to feed and the Beacon supply service is excellent.

Pre-Serv Products

are used by steadily more farmers to offset the effects of oxidation, mold and spoilage. More than 300,000 tons of hay have been treated with Hay Pre-Serv as farmers harvest hay up to 26 hours earlier, cut and store hay with as much as 25 percent moisture.

- Beacon Silage Pre-Serv provides up to 30 percent more feeding value per ton of grass silage or haylage because of less spoilage and shrinkage.
- Grain Pre-Serv is suitable for both feed grains and food grains to greatly reduce oxidation and resulting mold damage.
- Feed treated with Beacon Feed Pre-Serv keeps feed free from mold damage up to two weeks longer than untreated feed.

Poultry Feeds

both for layer and turkeys - are formulated to provide the top performance at reasonable price that spells profits.

Swine Feeds

The Beacon Nutrena line up - for all ages and types of swine - is a proven and profitable program of management. The end result is more pig for your money, more profit for your time and investment.

Miscellaneous Feeds

to fit special needs also emphasize the completeness of Beacon service.

- Minerals
  Three supplements especially formulated for the cow and to provide more mineral units per dollar.
- Dog Foods
  Chunk style or Meal style and the new High Protein Dog Food.
- Tend-R-Leen

named the best showman at the district show. Competing against 26 other showmen, the 14 year old youth was first named the best in his division, before being picked top showman of the day. He had been named the champion showmen two years ago, he noted, when he had competed in the youngest age level.

His steer, weighing 1295 pounds, and going under the name of Speckles, had been named the champion at the Chester County roundup on Monday of this week.

Judges for the show were Randall Updike of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, Virginia; and Ronald Bolze, Perry County.

The steers were auctioned off Tuesday afternoon, with the grand champion bringing $2.25 per pound, or a total price of $2,981.25. Top bidder for the animal was John Thomas, Willow Valley Farms Restaurant.

The reserve champion brought a price of 82 cents a pound, and was purchased by Baum's Bologna, Elizabethtown.

The champion lightweight steer, shown by Robert Rohrer,9, Nottingham R1, brought 67 cents a pound. It was bought by Watt and Shand Department Store. He showed an Angus steer weighing 1100 pounds.

The reserve champion lightweight went to Willow Valley Farm Restaurant for 68 cents a pound. it was shown by Yvonne Eshelman, Lancaster R2. Her animal was 1115 pound Angus.

There were 71 steers auctioned, averaging 1129 pounds. The average price per pound was close to 67 cents per head.

New Jersey 4-H'ers destined for Chicago

FLEMINGTON, N.J. - Tom Doncaster, Barbara Metch, Barbara Simpson, and Betsy Buchanan will be traveling to National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago, for the week of November 25 to December 1. They are state award winners in agriculture, beef, gardening, and sheep projects, respectively. In addition, Barbara Simpson and Betsy Buchanan will receive $50 Savings Bonds as the state winners in their projects. They are all candidates for other national awards including scholarships.

Cindy Brenner was named alternate in the beef program area and Barbara Simpson was named alternate in the food-nutrition program. It is interesting to note that last year Barbara Metch was the alternate in the beef program, and Tom Doncaster the alternate in agriculture. Persistance pays off.

Some awards are not being given this year because there were no applicants in 1978: automotive, bicycle, diary foods, electric energy, forestry, petroleum power, and photography.

In addition, there were no nominees from New Jersey for scholarships in these subject areas this year: agriculture, animal science, and veterinary medicine.

Long Reign

Pepi II ancient Egyptian ruler was king of Egypt for 90 years. Reigning longer than any other ruler in world history. Pepi II held the throne from 2566 B.C. until 2476 B.C.

Accomplishments

Famous physicist Albert Einstein once served as a patent office clerk. Dictator Adolph Hitler, meanwhile, started his less-than-illustrious career as a poster artist.

combined project book and exhibit was Jim Kreider, Manheim R5. Gini Nissley, Manheim R5 showed the fourth place capon, and Philip Nissley of Manheim R5 showed the fifth place capon. Second place combined entry went to Jeffrey Shenk, Lititz R2, fourth fourth was won by Ruth Ann Miller, and fifth went to Philip Nissley.

Larry Yager, area marketing agent with Penn State served as the official judge.

The Lititz-Manheim-Elm-Penryn 4-H Capon Special Show was held November 14, at the Manehim Rotary Club in Manheim.

Jeffrey Shenk, Lititz, showed the grand champion capon there. Jeff, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Shenk, sold his 10¾ pound capon for $2.60 per pound for a total of $27.95.

Jim Kreider of Manheim R5 received $1.50 a pound for his 11 pound reserve champion entry. Jim is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Noah Kreider.

Other participants included Ed, Gini, and Philip Nissley of Manheim R5, Ruth Ann Miller, Tim Hostettler, and Glenn Shenk.

Mervin Peifer of Manheim R1 is the capon leader for this club along with the Lancaster 4-H Capon Club.

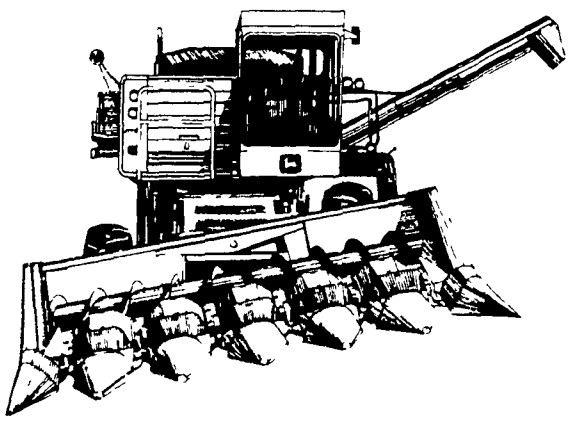
Maximize your crop savings on slopes to 18 percent with a John Deere SideHill Combine



On-the-go, automatic separator leveling from feeder house through cleaning shoe is yours with a SideHill 6600 Combine. As the separator levels on slopes to 18 percent, the header pivots to parallel the ground. Keeping the separator level maximizes your crop savings because no material drifts to the downhill side as with a conventional combine. And to master hilly fields, you get a 128 hp. 404 cubic inch diesel engine. The cylinder is 44 inches wide.

Matched headers include 4- and 6-row corn heads and row-crop heads. Platforms with rigid cutterbar in sizes from 13 to 22 feet with flexible cutterbar in sizes from 13 to 22 feet.

Randy Ott, Bangor, won the second outstanding award and Julianne Starke, Upstream Farm, Easton, received the third outstanding dairy member award.

John Howard, fieldman for the State Holstein Association, discussed the State Convention to be held in February at the Sheraton in the Berkshire Mall in Reading. He also discussed the Export Program.

Diane Liiro, Northampton County Dairy Princess, gave a report on her year's activities.

Bruce Fox, Bangor, and Barry Ott., Bangor, were elected to the board of directors for a three-year term.

The Northampton County DHIA Association annual meeting was conducted by Donald Ackerman, president of the Association. Tim Merwarth of Upstream Farms, Easton, and Burton Fulmer, Nazareth R3, were elected to the board of directors for a 4-year term.

Robert Letson and Linda Wagner, DHIA supervisors, presented the ribbons to the 14 herds who achieved a 600 to 700 pound of butterfat average for this year.

Two herds averaged over 700 pounds of butterfat per cow. Keystone Farms, Easton R4 owned by Donald V. Geraldine Seipt, was top in the county with 76.6 cows averaging 19,451 pounds of milk and 749 pounds of butterfat. Fulmer Brothers, Nazareth R3, with 71.2 cows averaged 19,020 pounds of milk and 713 pounds of butterfat.

This year the county average was 15,358 pounds of milk and 565 pounds of butterfat.

Robert Letson and Linda Wagner, DHIA supervisors, presented Golden Rosette ribbons to the herds that had 600-700 pounds of butterfat. The two 700 pound herds received purple rosettes.

The following trophies were presented:

Keystone Farm, Easton R4, won the trophies for high herd for fat, sponsored by Philips Feed Service, Inc., Bath; high herd for milk, sponsored by the Northeast Breeders Association; and High cow for milk, sponsored by the American Breeders Association. Keystone Farm also won high cow for fat (1120 pounds), sponsored by Northampton Farm Bureau; highest herd increase for milk and highest cow for over 10 years for milk, sponsored by Ronald Achenbach and Fred Irwin Agway, respectively.

Fancy Furrow Farm, Easton R1, won the trophy for high junior two year old milk (25,120 pounds) sponsored by Flory Milling Company, Bangor.

Twin Gap Farm, Mt. Bethel R1, received the trophy for highest lifetime milk (233,000 pounds) sponsored by Penn-Jersey Harvestor.

The trophy for highest cow over herd average went to Maple Grove Farm, Nazareth, and was sponsored by Ronald Achenbach.

There were 154 members at the meeting which was held at the Plainfield Firehall, near Wind Gap.

York Central Dairy Club holds awards night

By JOYCE BUPP
Staff Correspondent

BAIR - The Central Dairy Club of York County held their first achievement night banquet recentiy at the 4-H Center.

Following a ham dinner, county dairy princess Patty Greek opened the program with her presentation, "Milkdud," designed for use with promotional activities in area elementary schools. Members recapped the year's activities with a slide program by Louis Kline, featuring member participation in the York Fair exhibits and "I Milked The Cow" display.

Highlight of the evening was the presentation of awards to club members for outstanding achievement in a variety of activities.

Winner of the Rookie Award, presented to the outstanding first year members, was Angie Eyster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Eyster, Spring Grove R4. A special award was made to George DeMers, honored for his enthusiasm in general club work and to Mike Welsh and Stephanie Hoffman for displaying the most enthusiasm during the Fitting Day.

Club members took part in a judging competition sponsored earlier this year by the Hoards Diaryman publication and several awards were given to the highest scorers. Kevin Laughman scored the highest number of points, with Roy Thompson placing second. Laughman was also high individual in the Holstein class and Tom Welsh placed highest in scoring Guernseys and Jerseys. Topping the Brown Swiss division was George DeMers and the Ayrshire judging was won by Carol Mundis.

Roxanne Price, extension 4-H specialist, presented special recognition to the county's state dairy project winner, Tommy Welsh.

Appreciation was extended to club leaders Jane Thompson, East Berlin R1, Emilie Welsh, East Berlin R1, and Shirley Trimmer, Spring Grove, and to club Vice-President Kathy Rauhauser, who created ceramic cow gifts for the achievement night.

Pins were awarded to Kevin Laughman, Thomasville R2; Kathy Rauhauser, Dover; Carol Mundis, York; Roy Thompson, East Berlin R1; George DeMers, Dillsburg; Tommy Welsh, East Berlin R1; and Christine Wolf, Abbottstown R1; Also; Joey Welsh, East Berlin R1; Debbie Wolf, Abbottstown R1; Jonathan Myers, Thomasville; Mike Welsh, East Berlin R1; Angie Eyster, Spring Grove; Stephanie Hoffman, Dover; and Donna White, Spring Grove.

Grain inspection fees reduced

WASHINGTON, D.C. - Federal fees for inspectiong grain in barges, ships and bins will be lowered 12½ per cent, and hourly rates for weighing services will be lowered 20 per cent, beginning Dec. 3, a U.S. Department of Agriculture official said last week.

Leland E. Bartelt, administrator of the department's Federal Grain Inspection Service (FGIS), said operating reserves were created faster than expected in fiscal year 1978, making the reductions possible.

"We are still evaluating other aspects of the fee schedule, including the feasibility of unit and hourly fees for inspection services and charging for standby time at export locations where FGIS provides inspection services on a routine basis," Bartelt said. "We expect to complete these studies by the end of 1978."

Fees will remain the same for original inspections in trucks and rail cars, reinspections and appeal inspections in the U.S., and fees for inspection and weighing services in Canada. The new fee for original inspection of grain in barges, ships and bins will be $2.50 per 1,000 bushels, compared to the present fee of $2.85 per 1,000 bushels.

The new fee for official weighing of grain will be $12.80 per man-hour for regular time, compared to the present fee of $16 per man-hour. Similar reductions have been made in the overtime rates. The new fees are expected to provide enough income to cover the costs of providing the service, as required by the U.S. Grain Standards Act.

Ag preservation

Stauffer, an Ephrata R1 farmer and chairman of the Lancaster County Soil and Water Conservation District, said later, "It is heart-warming that the county commissioners laid partisan politics aside and unanimously supported the task force. I am happy that we have a government that takes the lead in this issue." After studying ideas for preservation for over a dozen years with Funk, Stauffer said that this is the one which is "most equitable for farmers and for everyone. One of the problems with zoning is that it is taking without compensation."

He expressed hope that this idea can serve as a model for other counties, and for other states, and said that all the area legislators have supported the idea. The commissioners asked the task force to draw up the necessary legislation to be presented to the General Assembly this Winter.

Commissioner Raymond Herr said, "We have been talking about it for years, and are finally doing something. The Task Force will study what can be done and get the legislation to do it. There are people who tell us that farmers are dedicated enough to farming that they will give or bequeath rights to their land. This will give them a mechanism to do it."

Commissioner Jean Mowery also expressed her support. "I am as pleased as can be because we have been struggling with the issue for some time. I am very pleased with the caliber of the group, and very optimistic about the results." Mrs. Mowery said the task force "evolved" after extensive discussions, adding that it is part of a two-pronged approach to the problem with the Planning Commission continuing to work and make it possible for retention of farmland.

Following the announcement, Stauffer commented on the need for the task force, "Agriculture is not pushing the urban out; the urban area is pushing agricuture out. There are tens of thousands of acres suitable for development of industry and homes within an hour's drive of here, but the displacement of farmers means hundreds or even thousands of miles. It's more difficult for farmers to move and certainly he has to settle for less than ideal conditions."

Stauffer said that the Lancaster County comprehensive plan was drawn up for the year 2,000, which is some 20 years away, adding, We hope to look down the road 50 or 100 years to what might take place. Is it fair to ask Lancaster County farmers to give up their heritage? Or to give up the best agriculture in the nation because we do not want to make some minor adjustment?"

He commented that a reasonable goal is to try to maintain 44 per cent of the county's acreage for agriculture, and the other 56 per cent for other uses. "Due to our conditions, Lancaster County is no longer the number one agricultural area in the country, and the county must maintain a sizeable acreage of agricultural land so that it can stay a viable agricultural area. If it doesn't, the supporting industry will not stay and if this happens agriculture's days are numbered in this county."

In order for the other 56 per cent of the county to support increased industry and homes, Stauffer said the people in Lancaster County-both farmers and urbanites-need direction.

Stauffer said that the task force members represent a wide cross section of interests. "They are aware of our problems and believe it is not too late to reverse today's trends. If it is to be effective, it must have the support of every Lancaster Countian. It is going to effect everyone, your children and your children's children. As a Task Force member, I would solicit your help. In unity there is strength. It is not going to be easy but the goal is worth it."

Amos Funk, Millersville R1, said, "This is a first step, an awfully important first step. I hope that it will prove to be a catalyst to get us going in the county on the preservation of our farmland." Funk has long been a leading conversationist and a prime mover, with Stauffer, in preserving farmland.

Phyllis Whitesell, Lancaster, president of the Lancaster County League of Women Voters, said, "I was very pleased to be included. I think that by appointing the committee the Commissioners have committed themselves and are showing genuine concern for preserving farmland."

Mrs. Whitesell, who at one time headed the League's land use committee, said she was pleased for the League's representation on the task force. She said that the League had adopted a position stating that "prime farmland should be saved." Alternatives were suggested for study, but no solution was offered.

Before the Wednesday announcement, John Barley, Conestoga R2, presented a letter from Earl Newcomer, president of the Lancaster County Farmers Association, stating the Association's concern about the loss of farmland and asking the Commissioners to "explore means of preserving agricultural land in the county." Newcomer noted that the resolution had been developed through their policy development committees and had been passed at the state level as well.

While acknowledging that it is a "good idea to study the thing," Newcomer made it clear that he feels farmer's economic rights must be considered. "If farmers are going to be tied into anything restrictive, they must be free to run things under their own management and make

EFFICIENT GAS HEATING

★ SAFETY Northco Pig Brooders can be safely used over straw or litter There is no need to worry about pigs being cut by broken lamps or loss by bedding fire It ... any ventilation system

★ ECONOMY Northco Pig Brooders operate on just pennies a day because they use two small burners rather than one large gas eating burner Its operating cost is over 75% lower than that of heat lamps

★ SIMPLICITY - One simple needle valve provides positive heat control Burners can be easily removed for cleaning Chain suspension allows simple, quick height adjustment for added temperature control

★ Safe, Dependable "Zone Heating" Northco Pig Brooders are excellent for brooding little pigs because they provide "zone-heat". Ideal temperatures for little pigs may be 25 to 30 degrees warmer than needed for the sow. With "zone-heating" temperatures are directed only to the little pig area, while sows remain cooler. If more heat is needed in extremely cold weather the brooders can be raised to heat the entire house .. eliminating the need for furnaces or costly unit heaters

PennDOT is pessimistic about snow removal

HARRISBURG - The Pennsylvania Department of Transportation is about to face another dilemma ... Winter.

"We have yet to recover from the $85 million cost of last Winter, and some forecasters are predicting another severe snow season," George S. Pulakos, acting Secretary of Transportation, commented Monday.

"The tremendous Spring road break-up that followed brought PennDOT to its knees and made our fiscal condition even more critical. Now, it is almost Winter again and we must prepare for snow and ice removal on the 45,000 miles of state roads.

"But, our major problem is that there will be even less to spend than last Winter," Pulakos lamented.

"Pothole repair and resurfacing of the worst roadways consumed much of our funds and the highways construction program has been halted since June, 1977. And, we need about five million dollars in state funds for nearly 700 high priority federal-aid safety projects," the Secretary explained.

What this means, according to Louis G. O'Brien, PennDOT's director of Maintenance, is that PennDOT will be forced to reduce its snow removal efforts just to stay solvent and still meet the needs of motorists for safe travel.

"Our main efforts will be snow removal during the hours of 4 a.m. to 10 p.m., with only emergency patrols available outside this time period," O'Brien noted.

PennDOT will service three types of roadways during the coming Winter season, he said: expressways and high volume traffic routes, secondary and low volume traffic routes, and the rural road system. Expressways and main traffic routes will receive salt, but only in amounts required to keep traffic moving.

Salt regulation will be done by calibrating all salt spreaders on state and rented vehicles.

The use of chemicals also will be drastically reduced on secondary and rural roads and most snow removal on these systems will be done before and during the morning and afternoon peak traffic times.

A salt anti-skid mix will be spread on hills and curves of secondary and rural roads to keep them passable, the maintenance director commented.

"We hope this program reduction will not cause severe problems. It will require that motorists drive at reduced speeds and in well-maintained vehicles," he pointed out.

The limiting of salt and chemicals should reduce environmental damage and inhibit future damage to bridges and concrete roadways.

PennDOT district engineers and county superintendents have contacted school superintendents and school bus operators to advise them of legal requirements that school buses must carry chains and must use them on snow and ice-covered roads.

Winter plans also include contracts with more than 470 cities, boroughs and townships to cinder and plow on some, or all, state roads in those communities.

According to Pulakos, this is a very successful program. "It just makes sense for local municipalities to remove snow on state highways that they must drive over to clear their own roads," he said.

"Without the cooperation and help from local officials, I don't know how we would have gotten through last Winter, or can get through this one, especially in Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and other large communities," Pulakos related.

"Whatever money is saved by these reductions, or from a less severe Winter, will be used for spring road repair programs which will benefit the public on a year-round basis," Pulakos concluded.

Those snowdrifts of last Winter are just a memory now, but in a few weeks they may be harsh reality. The Pennsylvania Department of Highways says it does not have the means to keep highways and roads cleared as much as it would like to.

WEAVERLINE BATTERY POWERED CARTS

TWO SIZES: 24 BUSHEL MODEL 223

FEED SILAGE EASIER . . . FASTER

Weaverline's self-propelled self-unloading feed carts save half the time of manual feeding. Choose the big Model 224, 30 bushel cart for big barns. Tight corners? Choose the compact Model 223, 24 bushel cart. Both Models are only 33" wide to fit thru most any doorway. Because Weaverline takes the electric route, you get the job done quietly, without noxious fumes.

Go Weaverline for safety reasons too! Cart stops instantly if operator lets go of traction clutch . . . or if cart bumps against him in reverse travel. Sturdy bumper protects cart from damaging impacts.

6-speed control for the flow you want

Fingertip control rod at right handle has 8 positions—for starting augers and beaters and for 6 different control speeds. The Cart features high-low shift for both forward and reverse travel U-Bar is the traction clutch; pull and cart goes, release and it stops. Knob at center activates augers.

Simple, trouble-free feeding action

Three upper augers serve as beaters to keep silage from bridging and assure steady downward movement. Bottom auger is the feeder, forcing silage out to the left and into the manger. Delivery chain and crossbars push the silage forward into the augers

Easy servicing with roll-out power pack

View shows two of four 6-volt batteries mounted in an easy-access drawer. Slides to the right for servicing batteries shown . . . . then out the opposite side for servicing the other two. A special plug receptacle is located at the base of the control box in rear of cart—right where you want it for convenient recharging of the power pack between feedings.

Lancaster County Holstein breeders recognized

SMOKETOWN - Production awards for milk and fat were given to eight Lancaster County Holstein breeders at their annual banquet at Good and Plenty Restaurant Tuesday. Paul H. Martin, Ephrata R1, won three of the ten categories. In the junior project awards, Leonard, Joyce and Jane Stoltzfus shared a major portion of the prizes. They are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Stoltzfus, Gap R2.

Martin's awards were all for high milk production. His two-year-old "Belle" won the senior category with a 22,619 pound record in 297 days at 2-11. In the four year old class, Martin's "Bonnie" won with a record of 27,768 in 305 days. And his seven-year-old "Fairy" took top

Stop federal paternalism, says Grange Master

John Scott

DENVER, COLO. - John W. Scott, master of the National Grange, strongly defended the need for strengthening and maintaining the country's family farms during an address here Monday following the opening of the Grange's 112th annual session. Scott said America cannot afford to lose the rural values that would be lost with the demise of the family farm. He warned that government farm programs and tax policies favor larger farms and high income investors. He called for a change in federal farm support programs and tax and credit which could assist family agriculture, not hasten its death.

Scott said inflation is placing farmers in a difficult cost-price squeeze. He said two-thirds of the retail price of food is determined by off-farm costs and farmers do not have any profit protection. During the past 11 years, farm costs have increased 130 per cent while prices received by farmers increased only 114 per cent.

He said inflation is caused by excessive demand created by the government in its misguided efforts to budget deficits and by the expansion of the money supply. He said Americans must end the era of federal paternalism and return government to its proper role. Scott called for a balanced budget, an end to deficit spending, a drastic reduction of our dependency on foreign oil and increased productivity as the major means to control inflation.

Scott said another serious concern affecting farmers is agricultural - transportation service. He feels the quality of service would be improved if competition were encouraged and backhaul opportunities expanded. He said more regional and local planning is needed and that agriculture should be represented in all policy matters relating to transportation He also recommended better utilization of rail cars and more emphasis on agricultural transportation research.

The over-regulation of business by the federal government is leading to a no-growth economy, diverting private investment from productive uses to non-productive uses, lowering productivity and adding to inflation, warned Scott. He supports the President's announcement to create a Regulatory Council. The Council will coordinate duplicate or overlapping regulations and develop a list of all federal regulations explaining their cost, objectives and why they must be issued. In addition, he recommended that those responsible for issuing regulations should not be in a position to justify the need for those regulations. He also said an economic impact statement should accompany all regulations that affect a given industry and that the review panel should look into de-regulations as well as additional regulations.

Scott said excess taxation with representation is just as bad as taxation without representation. He said to cut taxes without spending at the federal level only leads to deficit spending and increased pressure on inflation. He also said state and local tax reduction is meaningless without reform at the federal level because money saved at the low level is subject to taxation by Washington.

Scott said two major factors will influence conservation programs in the future The change in overall priorities and program funding reductions. He expressed concern about the government's plans to classify more government land as wilderness areas.

The U.S. imports nine million barrels of oil a day at a cost of $40 billion a year, said Scott, which is a major contribution to inflation and the weakening of the dollar abroad. He said the Grange should take an active role in formulating additional national energy policies. He strongly recommended continued support for energy research to develop technologies to supplement and replace non-renewable energy sources.

honors in the aged category with a 28,473 pound record in 305 days.

In the junior two-year-old class, Elam Rutt, Ephrata R5, took honors with "Ideal," who has 22,574 pounds of milk in 305 days at 2-4. In the fat category, Henry Kettering's "Amanda" was cited for 800 pounds of fat in 305 days at 2-2.

Vernon Umble, Christiana R1, was the other two-year-old winner with "Lidy" who had a record of 821 pounds of fat in 305 days at 2-9.

For three-year-olds, Jay Garber, Lancaster R6, won with his cow "Obiesty," with a 24,427 pound record in 305 days. The three-year-old fat winner was "Hill," with 1,003 pounds of fat in 305 days and owned by William Douts, Drumore R1.

The four-year-old winner for fat is Nelson H. Wenger, Manheim R6, with "Winner," who had 1,120 fat record in 305 dYS.

Britian Acres Farm's No. 22 won in the aged cow fat class with 1,150 pounds of fat in 305 days. Accepting the award were Mr. and Mrs. James Ross, Wyomissing. The farm is at Peach Bottom.

In the junior project awards, Dairy Princess Joyce Stoltzfus took three of the seven prizes awarded, with her brother Leonard taking two.

Joyce took first place in the three-year-old milk and fat contest with Con-Noll Complete Thrill whose 305 day record was 15,242 milk, and 712 fat. In the five year and older category she won second place in both milk and fat with Con-Noll Gent Orpha who had a 305 day record of 16,440 milk and 818 fat. Her Con-Noll Gay Rosene won second place in the fat contest for two-year-olds, with a record of 647 fat.

Leonard won first place in the five year and older division in milk and fat with Con-Noll Bonus Felicia, with a record of 21,104 milk and 822 fat. His other award was for Con-Noll Gay Sparkle who took second place in the two-year-old milk category with 16,675 milk.

Another winner is the junior project awards was Darrel Mills, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Mills, Lancaster, for his Spring Belle Sophia with a record of 22,132 milk and 784 fat. He won first place in the two-year-old division for milk and fat. Linda Kauffman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Kauffman, Elizabethtown R1, won first place in the four-year-old milk and fat class with Sunapee Astronaut Ruth with 21,607 milk and 902 fat.

Greg Landis, Lancaster, who presented all junior project awards announced the two Lancaster County winners in the Distinguished Junior Member program. Jane Stoltzfus, 15, and

Douglas Hershberger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Hershberger, Quarryville R4, will be representing the county in the state contest.

Jane has been in 4-H for six years and owns five animals. She is a member of the Junior Holstein club, was on the 4-H Dairy Bowl team, and is active in her church youth group.

Doug has been in 4-H six years and owns nine Holsteins. He is a member of the Solanco Future Farmers of America and is active in the Student Senate and the school bands. He is also a member of the Solanco Community 4-H club, and was a member of the first place 4-H dairy judging team. As part of the state team, Doug participated in the national contest where they placed second.

During the business meeting three new directors were elected to serve on the Board of Directors. They are: Robert Kauffman, Jr., Peach Bottom R2; R. Edwin Harnish, Christiana R2; and Greg Landis, Lancaster. In the reorganization of the Board, the following officers were elected: President, Nathan Stoltzfus, Gap R1; vice-president, John Barley, Conestoga R1; secretary, Joe Wivell, Columbia R1; and treasurer, Earl C. Stauffer, Ephrata R1.

Robert Morris, speaking for the State Association, said that membership reached an all time high in the state with 5,405 in 1978, representing a 400 person increase over 1977. Lancaster County also reached a high of 603 members in 1978. He said January 5, 1979 is the cutoff date for membership for local clubs to receive the $2 per member refund. Morris commended Hershberger and John Frey for their participation on the judging team which placed second nationally.

William Nichol, state secretary, encouraged members to consider their top cows as candidates for the embryo transplant service provided by the Association through an arrangement with New Bolton Center. He explained that the breeder's obligation is $1800 for the recipient heifer, and said it is worth that price to the farmer to have calves from his top cows which have been mated to top bulls.

Nichol explained that it is not necessary for the cow to leave the farm to participate in this program, which he says is "here to stay."

Senior County Extension Agent M. M. Smith urged the dairymen to participate in Farm-City Week which is being celebrated locally this weekend. He told them they should "improve their public relations with their non-farm neighbors" and other people living close to their farms. He said a few non-farm neighbors can cause a lot of trouble through misunderstandings. "You can prevent trouble by inviting them to your farm and to your home; then it will be more difficult for them to complain. Just because you were there first is not good enough anymore." He added that taking time to do some public relations now could save a lot of trouble in the future. He also invited dairymen to participate in the February 13 milking school and in the annual Dairy Day to be held March 6.

Dairy Princess Joyce Stoltzfus said she is enjoying representing "some of the most outstanding farmers in the United States." She told of some of her experiences during her reign as dairy Princess.

Entertainment was provided by Ventriloquist Debbie Harnish.

a living on the farm. If people around us give us freedom to do it, we can stand some restrictions." He added that if farms are tied up, consideration must be given to possible conditions in the future. He said that while most people don't mind looking at a field of corn, they don't always feel that way about a feedlot. He stressed, "Farmers must be free to make decisions."

Newcomer and Barley are members of a Manor Township advisory committee which is considering preservation of farmland within that township.

Stauffer alluded to the same problem mentioned by Newcomer. He said, "Certainly people do not like to live next to a chicken house or a hog or beef operation. It's not the most ideal condition as all of us farmers know, but it is a necessity for somebody to live in these conditions if Americans expect to continue to live in the style we are accustomed to."

In addition to Tracy, Funk, Stauffer, and Whitesell, other members of the task force include:

Jacob R. Bowers, Laureldale, Berks County. Bowers is regional community planner for the Lancaster division of Pennsylvania Power and Light Co., and is former director of Berks County Planning commission. He is a member of Berks and Lancaster county conservancies.

Charles S. Conrad, Jr., a Lancaster architect and former chairman of Lancaster County Planning Commission.

Levi J. Fisher, Bird-in-Hand, a farmer.

William F. Hoke, Lancaster, chairman of the board and president of the Board of Directors at Fulton Bank. He has worked with Associates in Downtown Lancaster and the Pennsylvania Economy League.

Clifford B. Huffman, Lancaster, farm loan manager with Equitable Insurance and member of the American Society of Farm Managers and Rural Appraisers.

C. Edwin Ireland, Lancaster, former vice president of Hamilton Watch Co. He was secretary-administrator of Lancaster Industrial Development Authority, president of Lancaster County Industrial Development and president of Industrial Development Co. of Lancaster.

Mrs. Walden S. Randall, Holtwood R2, who is a member of the Lancaster County Planning Commission and is president of the Martic Hills Watershed Association.

K.L. Shirk, Jr., Ephrata, attorney and chairman of the county planning commission's Land Use Advisory Committee. Shirk is a former Lancaster County Republican Committee chairman.

L.H. Skromme, Lancaster, retired vice president for engineering with Sperry New Holland. He is a member of the National Academy of Engineering of the U.S.A.

Robert K. Mowrer, Willow Street, retired engineer and former president of the Lancaster County Park Board. He is chairman of the Lancaster Conservation District.

The first meeting of the task force has been scheduled for November 28 at 3 p.m. at the Lancaster County Courthouse.

Crops may be future fuel

atter of time before the sohol industry matures. e sees the oil companies as e only present threat to the fant business. But in some her nations, he reports, otably Brazil, gasohol search and production is oing with full support. The anufacture of alcohol from ops for use as fuels was oneered in Germany ring World War II.

Once the gasohol market is veloped, Campbell sees it giving a sizable boost to op demands and prices. ha would mean a gnificant change in the rm economy. He adds, owever, that the technology also being developed to oduce gasohol from such likely sources as garbage. ven when crops are used to oduce alcohol, the mainder of the crop is not cessarily wasted, he mphasized. Brewers rains, for example, are the ftovers when grains are sed for alcohol production.

The only difference between the alcohol produced r motor use and the kind sed in drinks is that the fuel s a higher alcohol content, ampbell explained.

Cars which appear annually on the Indianapolis Motor Speedway have been running on alcohol ever since 1961, Campbell pointed out. He sees the product as having excellent energy properties.

Gasohol, by definition, is the mixture of alcohol and gasoline. Alcohol is the portion derived from crops. When the two fluids are mixed, the alcohol gives the resulting fuel - gasohol - a higher octane, Campbell explained. Although alcohol can't be produced cheaply with present systems, customers are willing to pay premium prices for gasohol, studies have shown. In one case, a service station increased its fuel sales more than six-fold once gasohol was advertised. Motorists payed as much as five cents per gallon more for gasohol, as opposed to gasoline. The study was done by the Iowa Development Commission.

According to Campbell, gasohol increases mileage ratings by about five per cent.

No problems are being reported by motorists and farmers who use gasohol in their vehicles. Theoretically, there could be some problems, such as phase separation, but none are being reported. Phase separation could theoretically occur during low temperatures when the fuel mixture could split into its components.

Present technology yields 2.5 gallons of alcohol from one bushel of corn. The by-product could be used as cattle feed and contains 26 per cent protein, Campbell pointed out.

Campbell himself is an avid user of gasohol. He has driven his vehicle 20,000 miles in the past five months using gasohol for fuel. "I get a great response when people see it," the racing circuit representative commented.

Campbell sees the development of gasohol as bringing about a potential link between farmers and city people. He speculates that the American public could eventually regard the farmer as a soldier who is combatting the oil exporting nations with renewable fuels produced right here at home.

Campbell projects that 500 distilleries will have to be built to get the gasohol industry going full force. The price tag would be $15 billion. The industry itself would be worth $10 billion annually, he figures.

Farmers are playing a big role in the development of the industry, Campbell said. One big distillery being built in Rockport, Mo. is owned by a group of farmers. The American Agriculture Movement, which a year ago made national headlines as a result of its parades and protests in various political centers across the nation, is backing the gasohol movement all the way.

Gasohol - a mixture of gasoline and alcohol - is one realistic alternative to the energy crunch, according to Mo Campbell. It's a concept in which farmers would have a big stake because crops are a major source of alcohol.

A host of varied interests keep her busy

By SALLY BAIR
Staff Writer

"I think I'd feel old if I sat around and did nothing. I can't sit still." These words were spoken by Mrs. Roy Weinhold, Ephrata, who was the chief architect and worker on the tablecloth and banner which were presented at the county convention of the Society of Farm Women of Lancaster County. The materials were the gift of Lancaster County Farm Women Society 3, of which Alva has been an active member for 48 years.

Alva talks readily about the part she played in getting the richly-made banner and tablecloth completed for the convention two weeks ago, but says it nonchalantly because her whole life centers around being busy - and mostly in the service of others.

The Farm Women project, she said, took up "most of the Summer. "It was natural for her to design the insignia because she is the one who paints the insignia on the scrapbooks which are presented to each outgoing president of her society. Furthermore, she has made many banners for Salem Lutheran Church, which is just three doors away from her home and where she is an active member.

Sewing is, obviously, a large interest for Alva who says, "My mother taught me to sew very young. I made a patchwork quilt where I had nine pieces of fabric to join I could also embroider, knit and crochet." She says there was a time when she made all her own clothes, including suits and coats. She simply followed pattern instructions and never had formal instruction.

Alva took up practical nursing as a career and eventually the sewing gave way to other interests. However, when she later gave up nursing she turned to a job with "a lady who made slipcovers and draperies." This was work she enjoyed despite the bulky and heavy material with which she worked. "I loved making draperies and slipcovers," she said. Her background is diverse, because she also worked for five years running a children and infants clothing store.

As for making the Farm Women Banner, Alva explained that she merely made a pattern "which fit together like a jigsaw puzzle," and cut the fabric accordingly. Acquiring all the proper fabrics took those in charge of the project to York and to the garment factory store in Columbia. She said she also learned about "stitch witchery," a fusible binding which allowed her to put the pieces together first without sewing. Then the entire design was appliqued to the cloth, with each part being appliqued separately. When they tried to glue the letters onto the metallic fabric which was used for the border, they would not stick so they were appliqued with a braid border also handsewn.

She said she began making banners at the church "through a former pastor." She said they looked through books to help get designs, but the final form "came from our heads." She also hand embroidered altar cloths for the church.

One interesting banner she designed and made was presented to the Lincoln Fire Company on the occasion of its 125th anniversary.

Alvin recalls that her first craft was egg decorating, which she learned through a course at the YWCA. She has many beautiful examples of the craft on display shelves in her home. She has used all kinds of eggs for her work, including goose, turkey, chicken, pigeon, partridge and pheasant eggs. She currently has an ostrich egg and an emu egg to be decorated.

She talks about egg shows she has attended, both in Ephrata and in New Jersey and enthusiastically describes the "elaborate, exquisite" eggs she has seen. Her own eggs also fit that description, but she is modest about her accomplishments. She explains that she often blows the eggs out of the shell, or cuts the shell with manicure scissors. She has been known to use an electric saw on the larger eggs, and acknowledges, "Yes, it does take a steady hand."

At first it was a problem for her to find tiny figures and decorations with which to complete the eggs; however, now that egg decorating has gotten to be more popular, the tiny accessories are available readily. She has decorated eggs for herself and for gifts, but declares that she has done none for a long time. She laments, "I haven't had time to do anything."

In addition to her long Farm Women project she explains that a close friend of hers has been hospitalized for four weeks, and she has missed just one day of visiting.

Oil painting is another interest of Alva's, something she took up when she was "in my sixties." She took lessons with a friend then. "I always liked to draw, and enjoyed painting and drawing. I had always wanted to oil paint. It takes me quite a while to paint a picture. I have sold some and gave some away for gifts."

HOMESTEAD NOTES

She likes to paint from photographs or postcards. and occasionally sets up a still life, one of which won first place at Ephrata Fair. She says, "I haven't had the paintbrush in my hand for a long time; my fingers are getting itchy."

She said she once thought that when she retired she would have time to do all the things she was interested in. When she finally retired, at age 72, she finds her days speed by with interesting activities, but she does not accomplish all she would like to.

At one time she made pressed flower pictures and notepaper, and she once did a lot of quilling, admitting, "It doesn't seem to be as popular now."

One of her current successful craft interests is drying bridal bouquets. She said, "I went to one demonstration and learned the rest just by reading. Now my florist sends people to me who want bouquets dried."

She uses silica gel to absorb the moisture from the flowers, and she draws a diagram before taking the flowers apart so that she can reassemble it in the same order. The flowers tend to shrink somewhat in the drying process, so they are not as large when completely dried. Once dried, the arrangement will last indefinitely.

Last May Alva had so many orders for drying bouquets and prom flowers that they covered the table and the floor in her dining room - work area.

As if it isn't obvious, Alva has a lively interest about her. As a result she says, "I have a mani collecting things for scrapbooks." Indeed, several in our conversation she brought out a scrapbook contained pertinent pictures. She added, "I guess 'cutter upper and a cutter outer'. I save local news way back, and news about some of the buildin Ephrata."

Another interest is needlepoint, and she proudly s chairs that are completed with her handiwork an pieces she is working on which will be used i upholstering a rocking chair.

A supporter of the Ephrata Fair, Alva helped baked goods at the Fair, eventually becoming head o department. Now she says, "I help with the needlewo can't seem to get out of it."

In the Summer she enjoys freezing and canning, so the things from her own garden, and adds, "As old as I still like to try new recipes."

She has no intention of slowing down. "I would li decoupage and I have all the materials but I don around to it. I guess I really should concentrate o thing."

Her association with Farm Women has been a h one for her, and she talks with pleasure about the trip has taken with them. She was born and raised on a f and her husband is a retired farmer.

Married for just 11 years, Alva enjoys a stepdau and two step granddaughters. She was formerly Stuber.

She is obviously in good health to carry out her activities with such enthusiasm, and at this poi doesn't look like she'll have much chance to "feel old

Alva is much in demand for her work in d bridal bouquets. She says the flowers will indefinitely once the process is complete.

Junior Cooking Edition

The holidays are quickly approaching and our Junior readers have been sending in their favorite recipes. This week, featuring fruit and nut breads, has some new variations to recipes you may have already made. The fruit cake uses applesauce and crushed peaches while being topped off with icing. Butternut squash and banana bread are also featured.

Puddings make a guest appearance this week in the form of dates, raisin, butterscotch, tropical, Mississippi, and crackers.

Next week, November 25, Junior Cooking Edition will feature nuts, nuts, and more nuts.

The first week of December we will feature lollipop and hard candy recipes.

The second week in December will be "filled" with doughnut recipes.

The third week in December will be dedicated to our readers favorite Christmas cookies.

Recipes should be sent in so that we receive them by the Tuesday before each theme.

Send your recipes to Lancaster Farming, Junior Cooking Edition, Box 366, Lititz, Pa. 17543. Remember to include your name, address and age. Only complete recipes will be published. A small gift will be sent to those junior readers who have their recipes published. Our way of saying thanks, from Lancaster Farming.

On being a farm wife

—And other hazards

By JOYCE BUPP

Thanksgiving is here
What are you thankful for?

I'm thankful that I'm not a Pilgrim–that's what.

I'm thankful that I'm a wife, mother and homemaker here in America in 1978, in spite of some monumental problems that threaten our society

I'm thankful for electricity Push button servants bake, blend and beat our holiday feast, keep it warm until everyone arrives and help clean the dishes afterward. Those same magical watts and volts cool or freeze the remains, dispose of the bones and peels, and later reheat leftovers for snacking, as football commercials allow

Even the crumbs can be temporarily removed into the electrically-stimulated innards of my carpet cleaner

I'm thankful for water, running clean and pure, hot or cold, that magically pours at the turn of my wrist What a luxury it would have been for our ancestor mothers to not be burdened with the task of fighting cold, wind, snow, and ice for a bucket of the precious liquid!

I'm thankful for heat, fed by oil and thermostatically controlled Within minutes of our rising on Thanksgiving morn, the furnace vents will pour forth their burst of warmth

I'm thankful not to have to stoke the stove, chop and carry wood, split kindling, and suffer daily from minor smoke and soot inhalation

And, finally, I'm thankful for abundant feast fixin's that I don't have to chase, catch, kill, clean, plant, weed, dig, store - or even peel or stuff - unless I personally choose to do so.

Preparing from scratch is still my preferred way to fix most of our family's favorites, like the bird, the stuffing, the mashed potatoes and the pumpkin pie But I have the choice, if I wish, to instead buy, open, thaw and microwave - or even eat out

We truly do take for granted our American food supply, of greater variety and cheaper than anywhere else on earth, that has remained constant and abundant. Its efficient production has freed our citizens to pursue a myriad of careers and luxuries, while they are sustained by a relative handful of dedicated food and fiber growers.

I'm thankful to be an American homemaker - spoiled by the miracles of modern technology that I daily take for granted as necessities that are my due

York-Adams Pomona Grange news

RED LION - York-Adams Pomona Grange No 40 met for their November session at Red Lion Grange Hall, with William Justh, master, in charge of the meeting

Mr and Mrs Richard Gallimore, Biglerville Grange, was appointed general chairman and co-chairman to head the planning committee York-Adams Pomona Grange, in regards to National Grange 1979. The plans are to include the activities that the Pomona will be responsible for when National Grange meets in Lancaster, November 1979.

New names suggested for State Deputy Master to serve York-Adams Pomona for two years, were David Scott, Valley Grange; Marvin Miller, Biglerville Grange; and William Reichart, Gideon Grange. The final selection will be made by the Pennsylvania State Grange Master J. Luther Snyder.

Winners in the Pumpkin Pie Baking Contest, under the Women's Activity Committee were: First, Beverly Stein, Red Lion Grange; Second, Treva Lease, Gideon Grange; and Third, Mildred Hoffman, Washington Grange. Judges were Mrs. Abram Moyer and Mrs. Harry Miller

Some important dates to Grangers throughout the Pomona are: Saturday, December 9, the Youth and Young Marrieds will sponsor a Square Dance at Gideon Grange Hall, with the public invited, beginning at 7:30.

The dates for the "Visitation Nite Programs" are February 27, Valley Grange will present a program at Washington Grange, March 9, Eureka Grange will present program at Gideon Grange; April 21, Giedeon Grange will present program at Red Lion Grange, May 14 Fawn Grove will present program at Valley Grange; June 5, Biglerville Grange will present program at Eureka Grange; July 6, Washington Grange will present program at Biglerville Grange; July 16, Red Lion Grange will present program at Fawn Grove All programs begin at 8:00 p.m.

A special pre-Pomona officers planning meeting will be held Sunday, January 28, 1979, at Biglerville Grange Hall, with February 10th meeting held at Biglerville, when Pomona Grange covenes again.

Special speaker for the afternoon session was Mrs. Helen Caffrey, administrative assistant for Senator Ralph Hess.

Following a covered dish supper, served to about 50 persons, "The Happy Valley Boys and Delores" entertained the members and guests

York-Adams Pomona Grange holds Women's Activity Day

HANOVER - The Annual Women's Activity Day was held November 8, at Gideon Grange Hall, Hanover, with Treava Lease as program chairman.

Margaret Weaner, Gideon Granged opened the meeting with a message and poetry.

Dorothy Reichart, women's activity chairman, introduced Mrs. Ellie Nail, co-owner of the "Rusty Nail" Gift Shop of Fredrick St., Hanover, who presented an interesting program on gift ideas. A "Show and Tell" period followed.

All seven Subordinate Granges were represented, and served a covered dish meal During the afternoon session, Mr Ned Irish, Brodbecks, demonstrated how he designed a flower pattern, and transferred it onto fabric suited for needlepoint, to be made into a large hall carpet Using various shades of yarn to achieve the desired results, he suggested it as therapy for impatient people, and person who may have to spend hours away from everyday work. He also showed the group articles of clothing he had knitted, and some needlepoint and art work he had done.

Women's Activity Day 1979 will be held November 7, with Eureka Grange, Dillsburg, as host, and Kathryn Hill, Washington Grange, as chairman.

Home on the Range

Breads to brighten the holiday season

This last week before Thanksgiving, the Home on the Range column is featuring breads, from mushroom bread to oatmeal bread, a wide variety for those who like to try making differnt kinds. A home made loaf of bread is often a special way of saying thank you to someone special during the holiday season.

Next week there will be holiday fruitcakes in Home on the Range, and there is still time for those last minute recipes to be sent in. Do it today.

To close out the year 1978, the December themes for the recipe column have all been chosen and can be found in the recipe theme calendar. Christmas cookies will be seen December 2, Holiday candies December 9, and all and any Christmas "goodies" December 16.

The last week before Christmas there will be "Turkey specialities". Any recipes utilizing those large feathered bird will be used, including special ways to prepare for the holiday dinner to talented tricks of using the leftovers.

The last week in December will be reserved for New Year Day dinners. Many people prepare a special dish for that first day at the start of a new year, and those are the recipes that we are looking for.

Send your recipes to Home on the Range, Lancaster Farming, Box 366, Lititz, Pa. 17543.

Fresh home baked bread is a treat anytime, anywhere. Whether you make it for your own family or as a gift for a friend, the effort required is sure to be appreciated.

BEST WHOLE WHEAT BREAD

2 cups milk
½ cup granulated sugar
⅓ cup, plus 2 tablespoons shortening
1 cup cold water
1 cup warm water (to dissolve yeast in)
3 tablespoons yeast
4 teaspoons salt
2 cups whole wheat flour
nearly 8 cups white flour

Scald milk, in a bowl add the sugar, shortening and salt. Pour the hot milk over this, stir until dissolved. Add the whole wheat flour, beat rapidly with a spoon. Add the cold water, stir, add the dissolved yeast. Mix well, add enough white flour to make a nice dough. Place in a greased bowl, let rise until double. Punch down. Let rise again until double. Divide into four loaves. Let rest for a few minutes. Form into loaves, spank hard to take out air bubbles. place in greased pans. Let rise and bake at 350 Degrees F. about 30 minutes. Brush tops with margarine or butter when taken from oven. Let cool.

OLD-FASHIONED OATMEAL BREAD

2 cups milk
2 cups quick rolled oats, uncooked
¼ cup brown sugar, firmly packed
1 tablespoon salt
2 tablespoons shortening
1 package active dry yeast
½ cup warm water (110 to 115 Degrees F.)
5 cups sifted flour
1 egg white
1 tablespoon water
rolled oats

Scald milk, and stir in 2 cups rolled oats, brown sugar, salt, and shortening. Remove from heat and cool to likewarm. Sprinkle yeast on warm water, stir to dissolve Add milk mixture and two cups flour to yeast. Beat with electric mixer on medium speed, scraping the bowl occasionally, for two minutes. or beat with spoon until batter is smooth.

Add enough remaining flour, a little at a time, first with spoon and then with hands, to make a soft dough that leaves the sides of the bowl. Turn onto floured board, knead until dough is smooth and elastic, eight to 10 minutes Place in lightly greased bowl, turn dough over to grease top. Cover and let rise in warm place until doubled, one to 1½ hours. Punch down and let rise again until nearly doubled, about 30 minutes.

Turn onto board and divide in half Round up to make two balls. Cover and let rest 10 minutes. Shape in to loaves and place in greased 9 x 5 x 3 inch loaf pans Let rise until almost doubled, about one hour and 15 minutes Brush tops of loaves with egg white beaten with water and sprinkle with rolled oats. Bake in 350 Degree F. oven for 30 minutes. Makes two loaves.

WHEAT GERM BREAD

1¾ cup milk
2 tablespoons granulated sugar
1 tablespoon salt
¼ cup shortening
2 packages active dry yeast
½ cup warm water
⅓ cup wheat germ
5 to 6 cups sifted all-purpose flour melted butter or margarine sesame seeds

Scald milk, add sugar, salt and shortening Stir and cool to lukewarm. Sprinkle yeast on warm water, stir to dissolve. Combine milk mixture, yeast, wheat germ, and 2½ cups flour. Beat with electric mixer at medium speed, scraping bowl occasionally for two minutes Or beat by

Mix in enough of the remaining flour with a spoon and then hands to make a dough that leaves the sides of the bowl. Turn onto board and knead until smooth and elastic, about ten minutes. Place in lightly greased bowl, turn dough over to grease top. Cover and let rise in warm place until doubled, about one hour. Punch down, cover and let rise until doubled, about 30 minutes.

Turn dough onto board, divide in half. Round up to make two balls. Cover and let rest 10 to 15 minutes Shape into two loaves and place in greased 9 x 5 x 3 inch loaf pans Cover and let rise until almost doubled, 50 to 60 minutes Brush tops of loaves with butter and sprinkle with sesame seeds Bake in 350 Degree F. oven for 30 minutes, or until bread tests done. # WHITE BULLETIN

WHITE ANNOUNCES WAIVER OF FINANCE ON ALL TILLAGE IMPLEMENTS AND PLANTERS

Offer Effective November 1 thru December 31, 1978

You can now buy any White® planter, moldboard or chisel plow, disk harrow or other tillage implement between November 1 and December 31, 1978, and pay no finance charges until April 1, 1979.

White's planter lineup includes both Plant/Aire® and platetype planters in both drawn and toolbar models. Planter sizes range from 4 to 16 row models.

The company's tillage line is led by its 598 adjustable width of cut moldboard plow, an industry leader that adjusts its cut from 14 to 22-inches. Heavy-duty, chisel plows, disk harrows and field cultivators round out the Company's tillage line.

Pay No Finance Charges Until April 1, 1979

"Make your best deal now with your local White dealer," explains a company spokesman. "Then White Farm Equipment Company will waive all finance charges on your purchase until April 1, 1979. Your trade-in may qualify as a down payment. The only qualification is that each deal must be approved and arranged through White Motor Credit Corporation.

"See your White dealer as soon as possible while product selection is at its best," advised the spokesman. "Now is the time to guarantee that you buy the best tillage equipment available for next spring's field work at a deal you'll probably never be able to match again."

GUMDROP BREAD

1 cup gumdrops
¾ cup chopped walnuts
3 cups packaged biscuit mix
½ cup granulated sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1¼ cup milk
1 beaten egg

Mix gumdrops, cut in small pieces, and walnuts. Toss, set aside. Mix biscuit mix, sugar, and cinnamon. Add milk and beaten egg, stir until well combined. Fold in gumdrop mixture. Spread batter in three greased 6 x 3 x 2 inch loaf pans on one 9 x 5 x 3 inch loaf pan. Bake at 350 Degrees F. oven for 30 to 35 minutes for small loaves or 40 to 45 minutes for large loaf. Remove from pans. Cool. Wrap, store overnight. Makes three small or one large loaf.

MUSHROOM BREAD

½ pound fresh mushrooms or 1 can (6 to 8 oz.) mushroom stems and pieces
5 tablespoons butter or margarine, divided
1 cup finely chopped onions
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1 tablespoon unsulphured molasses
1 tablespoon salt
¼ teaspoon ground black pepper
2 cups milk, scalded
1 egg
2 packages active dry yeast
½ cup warm water
6 cups all-purpose flour, divided
2 cups toasted wheat germ
1 egg yolk
1 tablespoon milk

Rinse, pat dry and finely chop fresh mushrooms or drain and chop canned mushrooms. In a large skillet melt 3 tablespoons of the butter. Add mushrooms and onions; saute 5 minutes; set aside. In a large mixing bowl combine remaining 2 tablespoons butter with sugar, molasses, salt and black pepper. Add milk. Stir until butter is melted; cool. Beat in egg. Dissolve yeast in water; stir into milk mixture. Add 3 cups of the flour and beat thoroughly. Add mushroom mixture, remaining 3 generously floured board and knead until elastic, about 10 minutes, adding more flour if necessary. Place in a buttered bowl; cover and let rise in a warm place until doubled. Meanwhile, prepare pans for shaping mushroom bread. Use either three empty 1 pound coffee cans or two 1 pound 12 ounce cans from tomatoes or fruit or twelve 8 ounce tomato sauce cans. Cut out a circle from heavy cardboard 2 inches wider than the can opening. Trace size of can opening in center of cardboard circle; cut out and remove. Cover cardboard with aluminum foil. Place around open edge of can; grease can and foil. Punch down dough and fill cans about three-fourths full. In a warm place let rise until dough raises over top of can and begins to rest on cardboard lip forming the shape of a mushroom (smooth and shape dough with buttered fingers). Mix egg yolk and milk. Brush over tops of breads. Bake in a preheated hot oven (400 F.) 35 to 40 minutes (25 to 30 minutes for small breads) or until browned and done. Remove from cans; cool. Bred may be shaped to fit into two 9x5x3-inch loaf pans and baked following preceding directions. YIELD: about 4¾ pounds of shaped breads.

PUMPKIN RAISIN BREAD

1 package dry yeast
1½ cup warm water
⅔ cup granulated sugar
1½ teaspoon salt
⅔ cup shortening
2 eggs
1 cup canned or cooked pumpkin, or butternut squash
2 teaspoons pumpkin pie spice
7 to 7½ cups flour
½ cup raisins
soft butter or margarine
1 cup powdered sugar
6 to 7 teaspoons water
½ teaspoon ground pumpkin pie spice

Dissolve yeast in warm water. Stir in sugar, salt, shortening, eggs, pumpkin spices, and 3 cups flour Beat until smooth. Mix in raisins and enough remaining flour to make dough easy to handle. Turn dough onto lightly floured board, knead until smooth and elastic, about five minutes. Place in greased bowl, turn greased side up. Cover, let rise in warm place until double, about 1½ hours.

Punch down dough, divide in half Roll each half into rectangle 18 x 9 inches. Roll up, beginning at short side. With side of hand, press each end to seal. Fold ends under loaf. Place each loaf seam side down in greased loaf pan, 9 x 5 x 3 inches. Brush loaves lightly with butter. Let rise until double, about one hour. Heat oven to 350 Degrees F. Place loaves on low rack, so that tops of pans are in center of oven. Pans should not touch each other or sides of oven Bake until deep golden brown and loaves sound hollow when tapped, 40 to 45 minuets. Remove from pans. Cool on wire rack Mix powdered sugar, water and pumpkin pie spice. Drizzle over loaves

COCOA NUT BREAD

1 egg
1 cup milk
2¼ cups flour
¼ cup dry cocoa
4 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup granulated sugar
⅓ cup chopped pistachio or walnuts

Beat egg and add milk, add all of the dry ingredients. Mix well, do not beat. Pour into a greased loaf pan, 9¾ x 5¾ x 2¾ inches. Bake at 350 Degrees F. for 50 minutes.

Add egg, increase mixer speed to medium. Beat for two minutes, scraping bowl sides. Beat in ¾ cup flour or enough to make a thick batter, continue beating for two minutes, scraping bowl. With spoon, stir in 2½ cups to make soft dough. Turn dough onto lightly floured surface and knead until smooth and elastic, about ten minutes. Shape dough, place in greased bowl, turning over so tops get greased. Cover with towel. let rise in warm place (80 to 85 Degrees F.) until double in size, about 1½ hour. Punch down dough. Knead lightly and let rest for 15 minutes, covered. Melt ½ cup butter in pan. On lightly floured surface, roll out ½ inch thick. With 2¾ inch round cutter, cut dough. Dip in melted butter, fold in half. Cover pan with towel, let rise in warm place until doubled, about 40 minutes. Preheat oven to 425 Degrees F., bake for 18 to 20 minutes or until brown.

If one desires to make loaves, just shape and place in loaf pan and let rise and bake.

HOLIDAY STAIN REMOVAL TIPS

In the excitement of the holidays there's bound to be a spilled liquid or a dripping candle that can cause a spot or stain. So plan now to buy a few basic items to help with stain removal emergencies. You will need paper towels, cleaning fluids, a sponge, oxygen bleach, chlorine bleach, petroleum jelly and an enzyme pre-soak.

The key to stain removal is immediate treatment. When company is present and a spill occurrs use paper towels to absorb as much of liquid as possible. Soak a sponge in cool water and use it to remove further traces of the spill. Later, you can get down to the business of final stain removal.

Test any stain remover on a corner of fabric first to see how it reacts. Treat spots from the back of the fabric. Place the spot downward on some paper towels so that the stain will come off the fabric instead of going through it. After treatment, regular laundering will usually remove the last traces of the stain.

Here are some special methods for treating the most common holiday-type stains.

Sponge fruit stains, including cranberries, immediately with cool water. Later soak in warm water and enzyme pre-soak. Then launder. If possible, launder again using chlorine bleach.

For gravy or milk stains, work a paste of detergent and water into the stain. If a greasy stain remains after laundering, sponge with a dry-cleaning solvent. Soak coffee or tea stains in warm water and an enzyme pre-soak or oxygen bleach and launder.

For candle wax spots, scrape off as much wax as possible. Then place the stain between layers of paper towels and press with a warm iron. Next, place the stain face downward on paper towels and sponge the back with drycleaning solvent. Launder when dry.

For lipstick spots, rub undiluted liquid detergent into the stain until outline of stain is removed If after laundering, stain remains, sponge with drycleaning solvent.

ANTI-FREEZE FASHIONS FOR LEGS

Well dressed legs will be layered for warmth and fashion this season Warmups go from tights to anklets plus knee-highs, over-the-knee styles, thigh-highs and leggings.

Feet are treated to fashionable comfort with eye-catching slipper socks and warm-up boots. See them in quilts, bulky knits and acrylic pile linings. For example, there's a pile-lined boot with nylon-quilted upper and vinyl bottom that's completely washable.

Texture and pattern are keynotes with flat knits, ribs, bulkies, cables, open weave pointelles, and diamond cuts heading the list Colorful tweeds, argyles, glitters, stripes, sweater patterns, plaids window pane checks and menswear looks create fashion sizzle.

Combinations are mixed and matched Layer thigh-highs over textured pantyhose, anklets and argyles over tights; wear a colorful boot topper with cropped or mid-calf boots. It's an anything goes season of electrifying leg looks warm, cozy, fun to wear!

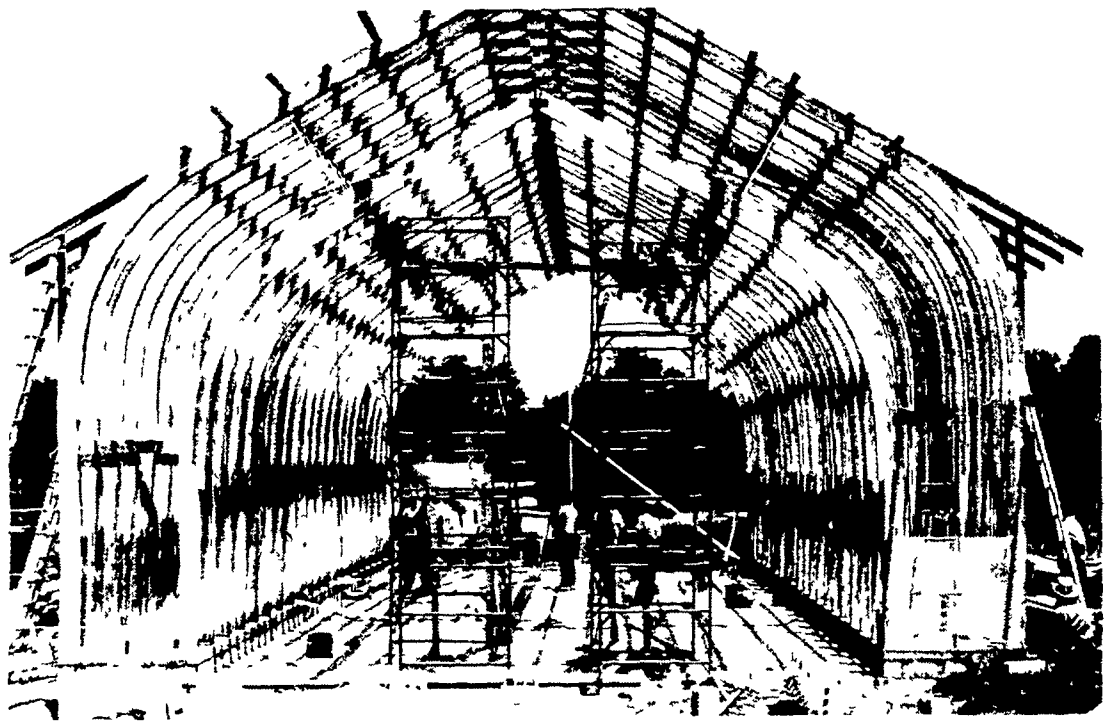
Laminated Uni arch design makes all inside space useful — even close to walls and permits economical installation of roofing and siding materials



Large Volume Grain and Storage Implement Building

A building with almost unlimited possibilities

- Over 5,000 bushels ear corn storage
- Sheltered area to load and unload
- To hold against price fluctuations
- Convenient feed-preparation space
- Large equipment storage flexibility
- Up to 1,440 sq. ft. for other crops

Beginning with the earliest American farms, corn on the cob was seasoned and dried by allowing air to flow around it; this kept away mold. From simple, square cribs of alternately piled logs, covered by a sloping roof, the corncrib evolved to the drive-in crib. The sidewalls always slanted outward at the eaves. On a great many mountain farms this was the beginning of barn architecture, for by adding doors in the driveway wall, you have the simplest American barn.

Today, a much more efficient structure for the storage of corn — along with large farm implement storage — is provided by the imaginative use of the Laminated Rafter. The exceptional strength of this aesthetically pleasing arch may be readily combined with simple construction, requiring a minimum amount of materials and erection time. It is a structure that permits great flexibility, because all inside space is useable, offering so many possibilities for a variety of farming needs.

Here's a cozy cottage anyone can afford

By KENDACE BORRY

LEBANON — How to make an enchanted gingerbread house was shown to 800 ladies this week, all who attended the Lebanon County Extension holiday workshop for homemakers

The demonstration was given by Karen Strawbridge, who told her audience that the little house made from gingerbread belonged with sugar plums, flickering candles, and golden stars. There it would create a nostalgic Christmas scene.

She stated that the recipe and design were basic to the house, and that it could be decorated in any way one's imagination desired.

The basic recipe follows:

GINGERBREAD HOUSE

½ cup molasses
1 cup sugar
½ cup shortening
1 teaspoon soda
1 egg
5 to 6 cups flour
½ cup water
1 teaspoon cloves
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon ginger

Bring molasses, sugar, spices, and water to a boil Add the baking soda and stir Pour the mixture over the shortening in a large bowl Stir let cool Add the egg and flour to make a stiff dough Roll out on a floured board to a 18 inch thickness Cut the shapes using the patterns and a sharp knife Bake at 325 Degrees F until hard

Ms Strawbridge told her audience that a base must be made for the gingerbread cottage. She said that hers was made from a piece of popcorn board, a type of plastic foam, that was put on top of a block of wood. The base size was determined by the dimensions of the house. The block of wood was glued to the popcorn board and the two were glued to the plate that the gingerbread house would sit on. The glue was given time to dry.

FROSTING

2 egg whites
1 teaspoon cream of tartar
2½ cups confectioners sugar

Beat egg whites until foamy, add the cream of tartar. Gradually add the sugar and beat to a thick consistency.

Sure to be a hit in any home, this gingerbread cottage can be made by anyone who bakes.

To assemble the gingerbread cottage, one should take one of the baked ends of the house that has cooled and attatch it to one of the sides, sealing the ends with the frosting adhesive, thereby assembling the two pieces around the base. Then the other side and end are added. The pieces should be allowed to dry for one hour.

After that the roof should be placed on the house This is again done with the frosting adhesive. One carefully adds the roof pieces, making them fit, using the frosting to make a good tight fit. The chimney is added in the same way.

This is where each person's individual imagination comes into play.

Some of the candies and items that she thought one might be able to be used included peppermints, candy canes, tiny pretzels, ribbon candies, and any other special candies, such as the small animal figurines one sees.

Scoops of dough could be used to make a picket fence. Another idea she mentioned would be to outline the house

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

The many warm and sunny days in November are a challenge to complete various jobs before cold weather

There is corn to be gleaned in the fields and bittersweet to gather for dried arrangements The garden still yields broccoli, carrots, parsnips, celery cabbage and red cabbage heads Some animal seems to like the few persimmons that fall and eats them before I find them

As I give away flower plants, they are replaced by some still living in the yard And, it appears as though the last bouquets, of many varieties of marigolds, are more colorful than ever before

But there is one thing that really bothers me. Often while I'm baking some apple dish, roasting my peanuts or just mending overalls, I'll look out the window and see "that" heifer again For days now it has been wandering through the yard and grazing in my garden All 300 sweet corn plants, that were ready to eat the end of October were devoured by eight heifers during one night s foray

This particular heifer has a special way of getting out of the meadow It walks one-half mile to the end of the fence which is at a bank of the Conestoga Then it goes in the water and comes around the other side of the fence and through the fields to the house.

Long ago I saw cows dragging a log so that they couldn't jump over fences This animal is a candidate for just such a handicap for its mischief No stretching of barb wire seems to hamper its activities so I guess I'll just keep chasing it

Maryland Grange holds convention

New Windsor, Md - The 104th annual session of the Maryland State Grange was held recently at Brethren Center, New Windsor, Maryland State Master Rodman Myers of Thurmont, commented the three-day attendance was the best in years

First place in the "Grange of the Year" awards went to Jarrettsville Grange, Harford Co; Second to Glade Valley, Frederick Co ; and Third to Emmitsburg Grange, Frederick Co

Adam Plummer of Fallston was re-elected and Lester Stem of Westminster replaced Charles Huff on Smithsburg on the executive Committee.

Dr. John S. Toll, President of the University of Maryland spoke to the delegates.

State Youth Director, Doris Hoopengardner announced that Tom and Faye Reese of Linganore Grange were selected as Maryland Grange Young Couple. Also Sharon Burrier was selected as Md. Grange Princess for the coming year. They will represent Maryland at the National Grange Session in Lancaster, Pa., in 1979.

Chosen to represent Maryland at the National Convention were Mr. and Mrs. Rodman Myers, Thurmont. Myers is Master of the Maryland State Grange. He will serve as chairman of the audit and budgeting committee. Mrs. Myers will be on the health and education committee.

Lime usage declined

FAIRFAX, Va. - The use of agricultural limestone in the U.S. in 1977 was nearly 31.4 million tons, the second highest tonnage figure on record. This represents the sixth time that usage has exceeded 30 million tons. The other times were in 1947, 1966, 1968, 1975 and 1976. It also continues the upward trend in aglime usage since 1973, when the Agricultural Conservation Program (ACP) funds were impounded. However, the 1977 figure is 6.8 million tons lower than 1976. There are several reasons for this significant drop. First, there is the continuing national decline in farm income and market prices which resulted in a national farm strike. This year, particularly, this situation had an impact on agricultural limestone sales.

However, significant increases took place in such states as Maine, Rhode Island, and Texas while increases were also registered in several other states.

Usage nationally in 1977 only equalled one-third of the 95.4 million tons recommended as an annual application by the Nation's Agricultural and Agronomic Authorities. Farmers and agricultural advisors still too often overlook the importance of agricultural limestone.

Kendy's Kollumn

by Kendace Borry

Never let me lead the pack

This is my advice to strangers The sad truth is that it's most likely that I'll just get you lost.

It's not that I don't know my way around I do I pride myself on being able to find my way whenever I'm alone

But put me in charge of where we're going with some people I don't know, and well, it's just another story .

It happened again this past Sunday We were out riding on the trails and everything was going fine Then we met some others on horseback who ended up following us

And I was supposed to know where we were going Two minutes earlier I wasn't a bit concerned about which way was up Now I started to study every branch of the trail in minute detail

The result was that I took a wrong turn

Twenty minutes later, after we forded the stream, I hinted that we might not quite be exactly where I thought we were It was nothing to worry about, though, I assured the gang

Five minutes later I mentioned that we may have gone a little bit too far, maybe we should backtrack a little It was then that I think they began to suspect my qualities as a trail guide

Within a short time, I had the horses spread out on all sides of the woods, looking in all directions for the trail

One of them found a bogged down tire track, and I took to it like a gift from heaven, hoping it was the right one (Of course I assured everyone that I knew positively absolutely where we were and I did We were still in the state of Pennsylvania )

It was a trail all right Only problem was that it went up the side of a cliff

Borry and her horse kept trudging on The others followed Mumblings were heard in the background Someone remarked that the sun would soon be setting The troops were getting restless

At last we made it to the spot where we had originally intended to go It had only taken about twice as long to get there and had been twice as hard going

What can I say? It would have never happened if I would have been riding alone

Or, if it had, nobody would have ever known about it

Wool breed titles go to Ohio

HARRISBURG – Pennsylvanians didn't even dent the top honor winnings in the Merino Corriedale and Rambouillet breeding sheep judging at the 22nd Keystone International Livestock Exposition, Harrisburg, November 7

Charles Clouser of Nova, Ohio, took four awards, starting with the champion ram, a fall lamb, in Merino judging. In the same class, Clouser took the banner for showing the champion ewe, a one-to-two year old, and the reserve champion ewe, a fall lamo. In the Rambouillet judging, Clouser had the champion ewe, a one-to-two-year old.

The Rambouillet reserve grand champion, a one-to-two-year old, was shown by the Gretchen Johnson Family of Alliance, Ohio.

Kenneth T. Moore of Nichols, NY, was named the premier exhibitor in the Rambouillet class.

Joan Hess of Cable, Ohio, exhibited the reserve champion ram, a fall lamb, in the Merino class.

Kin Brothers of Upper Sandusky, Ohio, was named the premier breeder in Corriedale judging and took three other banners. The Kin Brothers showed the champion ram, a one-to-two-year old, the reserve champion ram, a fall lamb, and the reserve champion ewe, a fall lamb.

The champion ewe title was taken by a fall lamb exhibited by Jagger Brothers of Mount Gilead, Ohio.

Pennsylvania exhibitors placing in the top five of their classes are as follows: merino breeding sheep, Robert Calvert, Spraggs, Charles and Barbara Platt, Gettysburg and George Hunter, Stoneboro. Corridale breeding sheep. Emil Mellot and Son, Needmore, and Charles R. McCrae, Mohnton. In the Rambouillet breeding sheep division, Ronald C. Miller, Somerset and Emil Mellot, Needmore placed in the top five.

No-till convention set

UNIVERSITY PARK - Evaluation of solar grain drying and how to make more money on your corn crop are two topics to be discussed at the Fifth Mid-Atlantic No-Tillage Growers Convention to be held January 4 at the Host Farm Inn on Route 30, Lancaster.

The conference, which annually attracts over 1000 farmers and industry representatives, is sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Services of Delaware, Maryland, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Virginia, and West Virginia, in cooperation with agribusiness firms.

Tickets for the convention are available at County Extension offices in the six states.

Other subjects to be presented are practical methods in producing no-till forage seedings, keeping the soil on your farm, fertilization and liming under no-till conditions, and no-till seedings of small grains.

These farmers, Wayne Harpster and Nick Cihylick of Pennsylvania, and Thomas Kelly of Maryland, will be members of a panel discussing their experiences in controlling weeds in no-till plantings.

Presenting topics will be faculty and staff members from Virginia Polytechnic Institute, The Pennsylvania State University, and the University of Minnesota.

In addition, there will be displays by numerous seed and chemical companies.

TEST-RESULTS
S.S. TRUCK BODY GRAIN DRYER SYSTEM

On farm of John W Yaeger, R2 Phoenixville, Pa Nov. 3, 1978. 9 ton load shelled corn from combine dried from 20% moisture to 15.25 moisture in 100 minutes. No unloading or reloading expense, no dust, no pollution, no waste, no cracking grain, minimum noise and only 5¢ per bushel for gas and electric.

Use your truck bodies for drying bins. Get top prices local or export. Dry 20 tons trailer loads 2 points moisture per hour with 5M BTU burner at 200 degrees plenum temperature

LINCOMIX® (lincomycin) THE HEAVYWEIGHT

The feed additive for the treatment and control of bloody scours (swine dysentery) from birth to market.

A number of feed additives for bloody scours are on the market But until today few could offer such high performance and so few feeding restrictions as Lincomix

On-farm trials have demonstrated the efficacy of Lincomix By controlling bloody scours, Lincomix has proven its superior performance in maintaining rate of gain and feed efficiency while reducing death losses

And Lincomix can be fed in any ration, from starter to finishing — just withdraw six days prior to slaughter It's available in both complete feeds and supplements for on-farm mixing

Lincomix—THE HEAVYWEIGHT feed additive for the treatment and control of bloody scours.

Talk to us today about getting Lincomix in your hog rations!

Push your cows to their profitable best on a WAYNE Dairy Feeding Program

WAYNE FEEDS

Wayne Dairy Feeding Programs are designed to obtain high production. Many dairymen have switched over to a Wayne Dairy Program and found it to be the production profit key they were looking for.

This month, visit one of the Wayne Feed dealers listed below. He'll tell you about Wayne's Lifetime Dairy Program, and show you how to get more milk from a cow tomorrow than you got today.

The Calf Program

After 4 days colostrum feeding, start Wayne Calfnip through 4 weeks of age. Or, at 4 days of age, sprinkle Calfnip on top of Calf Krunch to start the calf eating earlier. Offer hay, water and salt free choice.

Calf Supplement, a starter and grower mix, can replace Calf Krunch at 6 weeks of age or after feeding 100 lbs. of Calf Krunch. Calf Grower Pellets is an economical feed for use after 100 lbs. of Calf Krunch has been fed.

The Heifer Program

Dry Cow & Heifer Conditioner or Conditioning Mix will get her ready to breed at 14 months, calve by 24 months. Limit to 4 lbs./day.

The Milking Cow Program

Wayne has a complete milking ration for every operation in pellet, krunch or meal form. Test Cows for hay feeding, High Flows for corn silage feeding, and Sweet Feeds for feeding excellent quality corn silage. Or, for grind and mix operations, there are five Dari-Blens to choose from.

The Dry Cow Program

Four lbs./day of Dry Cow & Heifer Conditioner will keep her trim and guard against off-feed and ketosis problems after calving.

WAYNE FEEDS — WAYNE ANIMAL HEALTH AIDS

FFA National Convention highlights noted

KANSAS CITY, Mo., – The largest youth convention in America came to a close November 10 as the final gavel sounded at the national anniversary celebration at the 51st National Convention of the Future Farmers of America in Kansas City, Missouri.

More than 25,000 FFA members, advisors, parents, and guests filled hotels within a 50-mile radius for the November 7 to 10 convention. Closed circuit televisions were installed in the main arena of the H. Roe Bartle building to handle the overflow crowd from the Municipal Auditorium.

It was perhaps the biggest and best FFA Convention in the 50 year history of the organization, including addresses by President Jimmy Carter, Paul Harvey, and a commemorative market ceremony held on blocked-off downtown streets of Kansas City viewed by thousands. It was on that site where the old Hotel Balitmore stood, on November 20, 1928, when 33 delegates from 17 states gathered to formulate the Future Farmers of America.

President Jimmy Carter, the first former FFA member to be elected to the nation's highest office, addressed the crowd in the Thursday afternoon session, recalling his experiences in the FFA and relating those to his work as the nation's chief executive.

"The first thing I joined was a Baptist Church, the second thing was the FFA," Csrter said of his early years. He referred back to his days as secretary of the Plains FFA Chapter and how things in our organization and America have changed since those days, thirty-eight years ago. Carter challenged the members in attendance saying, "Whether you're the secretary of your FFA chapter as I was, or the President of the greatest nation on earth, it's our responsibility to make even greater the greatest nation on earth."

The President and Paul Harvey headed a talented list of speakers, including Commissioner of Education Ernest L. Boyer, Kyle Rote, Jr., Jerry Clower and even Mickey Mouse.

Many activities took place during the week involving FFA members representing each of the fifty states and Puerto Rico. Over 2500 awards were presented to members at the convention. One hundred and fifty chapters were honored for their participation in the Building Our American Communities program with the Franklin Senior High Chapter of Franklin, Louisiana, taking the top award. National Safety Awards were presented to 108 chapters. Bronze, silver, and gold awards were presented to 368 chapters in the National Chapter Awards Program. Nearly 1,000 FFA members were involved in eight national judging contests. These judging contests ranged from livestock to mechanics, horticulture to business management.

Always a highlight of the convention, Wednesday evening's National Public Speaking Contest drew a standing room only crowd to the auditorium to hear 17-year-old David Alders of Nacogdoches, Texas, deliver his winning speech, "The Future Farmer and Economic Freedom." Thursday evening was a very special night for two Future Farmers. Maynard Augst, 22, Montgomery, Minnesota, was named Star Farmer of America and Mark Williams, 21, Orlando, Florida, was selected as Star Agribusinessman of America. Another top winner at the convention was Kaye McGinley, a young lady from Blanchard, Oklahoma, who was selected as Queen of the American Royal.

Other convention awards ceremonies included the naming of the 22 National Proficiency Award winners involved in areas of production agriculture and agribusiness. Eight hundred and seven FFA members were raised to the organization's highest degree, the American Farmer Degree on Thursday afternoon.

Special awards such as the Honorary American Farmer Degree, the Distinguished Service Award and the VIP Citation were presented to many persons involved in education, industry, and agriculture for their continued support. The National FFA Foundation sponsors were also recognized in a special slide presentation for their continued support of FFA programs and awards.

Robert D. Lund, Chevrolet general manager and vice president of General Motors, Detroit, Michigan, was named 1979 Chairman of the Future Farmers of America Foundation Sponsoring Committee.

One hundred and twenty-three FFA members from across the U.S. assembled on the Sunday preceding the convention to sing in the National FFa Chorus. The National FFA Band assembled on the same day and included 112 members. The 122 state officers who served as official delegates reviewed the past year's programs and careied on the businesss of the 510,000 member organization.

FFA members in attendance also had the opportunity to attend five leadership workshops sponsored by the National FFA Alumni Association who held their convention in conjunction with the National FFA. One hundred and fifty-seven official Alumni delegates assembled to carry on the business of the 15,000 Alumni members nationwide. They honored the Denmark, Wisconsin, chapter as their outstanding Alumni Chapter and awarded Legion of Merit Certificates to 129 individuals.

The final day of the convention included special recognition of international exchange student guests and of American FFA members who have worked overseas on the Work Experience Abroad Program. Also on Friday six new members were selected to lead the organization as the 1978-79 National FFA Officers. The six are: Mark H. Sanborn, 20, East Orwell, Ohio, as National FFA president; Kelly Grant, 20, Bolivar, Missouri, as national secretary; Kevin Drane, 20, Nineveh, Indiana, as vice president of the central region; Jeff Rudd, 19, Yanceyville, North Carolina, as vice president of the eastern region; B. Norton, 19, Knox Tennessee, as vice pre of the southern regio Elvin L. Caraway, 20 Texas, as vice presi the western region.

The convention Friday evening recognition of the r National Officers and parents and advisors

Brings You The Air System With A Mind Of It's Own.

Until now, most ventilation systems had one drawback. Air inlets had to be opened and closed by hand

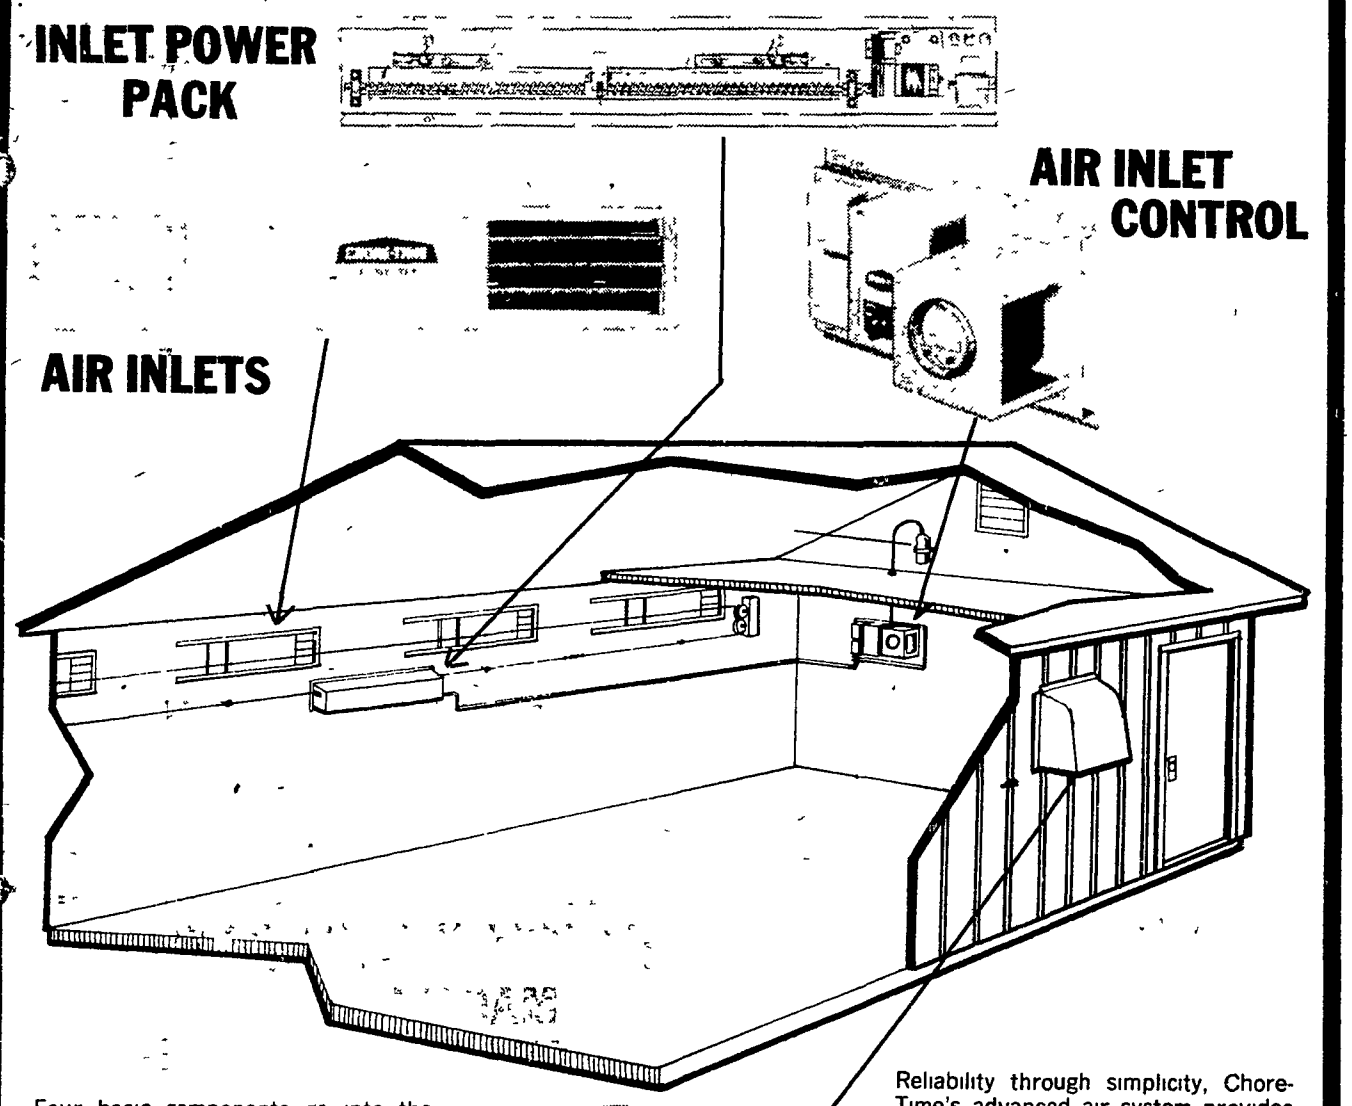
This was time consuming — and pretty much a matter of guesswork.

Now, Chore-Time has eliminated this problem.

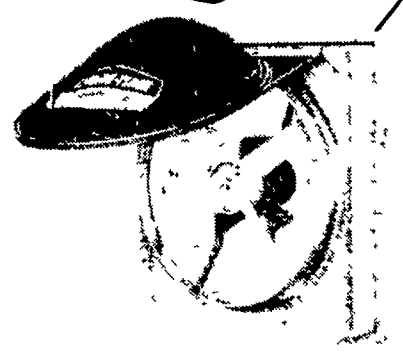
The Chore-Time system has a mind of its own and adjusts inlets — in conjunction with fan operation — to maintain air pressure at a constant, preset level.

This provides a degree of air and moisture accuracy never before possible in poultry and livestock buildings.

The new inlet control (pictured) is just one of many exclusive features that make Chore-Time air systems number one in performance and reliability.

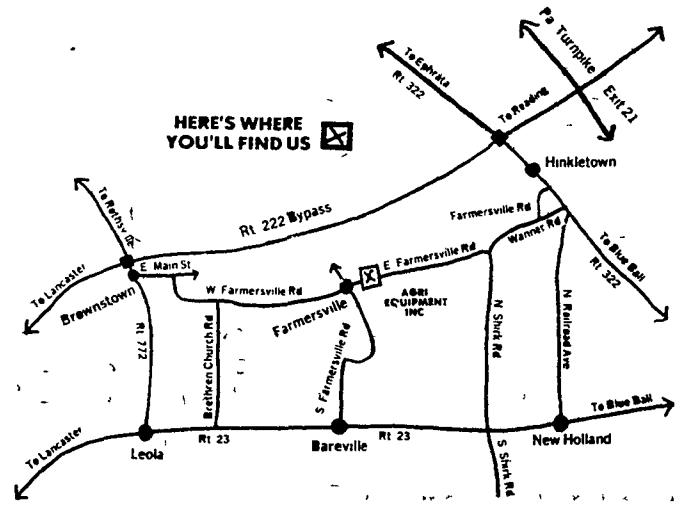


Four basic components go into the makeup of this ventilation system the fan, the inlet, the air inlet power pack, and the controls Coordinated, these four basic components can provide you with better conversion and performance by removing stresses due to lack of oxygen, excess humidity, noxious gases and temperature extremes



Reliability through simplicity, Chore-Time's advanced air system provides automatic control of incoming fresh air, moisture and heat for productive environmental control in agricultural buildings

AUTOMATIC HOOD FAN



If you're thinking about ventilation for a new or existing building, consider a Chore-Time Air System. Your local Chore-Time representative will explain how we do a lot more than move air. We have the proven components and the know-how to design a system that's exactly right for your operation.

A living Christmas tree takes preparation now

NEWARK, Del. -- Christmas still seems a long way off, but if one is thinking of having a live Christmas tree this year, now's the time to do a little planning and preparation for it.

A living tree is one with roots and soil that can be planted outside after the holidays, explains University of Delaware Extension horticulturist Dr. Charles Dunham. It can be used to improve the landscaping around the house. Or, if one doesn't have room for it on his own property, it can be donated for use on the grounds of a church, school, or other public property. It's also possible for a group of people to get together and each buy a pine tree for use in landscaping a community project, after they've enjoyed it over the holidays.

Many of the same species that are used for cut Christmas trees can be used for living ones, says the specialist. White pine is one of the most useful for landscaping purposes. But Douglas fir, Norway spruce and white spruce -- which are more traditional for indoor decoration -- all grow well in Delaware. The Colorado blue spruce is one of the choicest Christmas trees and also makes an excellent landscape specimen. One word of caution -- all of these trees get to be large (40 feet or more in height), so one should avoid putting one where it will soon outgrow its surroundings.

The best time to buy a living tree is well before Christmas, says Dunham. Any time in November is not too early. Usually the best place to get one is from a nursery that sells landscape plants. These trees will have been dug early in the Fall with good root balls. Some local Christmas tree growers will also dig trees for a person.

If the tree is to be planted in one's own yard, the hole should be dug for right now -- before the ground has a chance to freeze. One should save some of the soil from the hole, mix this with peatmoss to loosen it up a bit for better root growth after the tree is planted, and store it in the garage or some other place where it will be dry when you need it.

The tree can be placed in the hole until it is time to bring it indoors for the holidays. Filling in around the root ball with mulch, shavings or leaves will help prevent it from drying out and protect it from hard freezing. It will also make it easier to remove. A good watering once a week should suffice to keep the roots moist.

When one brings the tree into the house, a large plastic garbage bag should be slipped over the ball. This will help keep the roots from drying out and at the same time keep the floor clean.

The tree will need watering once or twice while it is indoors. A person should try not to keep it in the house more than 7 to 10 days. After Christmas, it should be planted as soon as possible. Besides drying out the needles, the heated air inside may encourage leaf buds to open prematurely. If the weather outdoors isn't cooperating, store the tree in the garage or some other cool place until it can be planted.

If one plans to donate your tree to some organization, he should make sure they are notified early, so that they can have the hole dug and be ready when the tree is brought by after Christmas.

Land use changes studied

UNIVERSITY PARK - About 5 million acres of Pennsylvania land changed from farming to other uses during the 20 years from 1954 to 1974, according to an agricultural economist at The Pennsylvania State University.

Neil B. Gingrich of the College of Agriculture faculty said the change in land use included an increase of almost 4 million acres turned into forest land. It appears that an additional one million acres was transformed from farmland into urban growth projects, highway construction, and recreational areas.

Also during the 1954 to 1974 period, about 51,000 acres of Commonwealth land surface was covered by public and private dams and similar water uses, Gingrich reported.

"Total land use changes, unfortunately, are not available by type of ownership," he stated. "Information explaining total land use changes, particularly ownership, can be characterized as scarce, fragmented, and available only for large geographic areas such as states or regions."

"Data suggest, however, that the increased forest acreage, formerly in farms, is being acquired increasingly by private owners," he claimed. "Public ownership declined from 33 to 24 per cent of the total nonfarm forest land ownership from 1952 to 1972."

It would appear, he concluded, that before knowledgeable public decisions regarding land use can be developed, more regular, current, and valid methods must be devised to keep track of what is happening to land use and ownership.

$55,951 awarded to PSU ag students

UNIVERSITY PARK - Scholarships and awards totaling $55,921 are shared for 1978-1979 by College of Agriculture students at The Pennsylvania State University. Winners and donors of 161 business and industry scholarships, memorials, and awards were honored November 6 during an annual banquet.

Apple tastes are changing

WASHINGTON, D.C. – Consumers' tastes have changed through the years, according to Judy Abbott, horticulturist and apple expert at the U.S. Department of Agriculture. And so, she says, has the equipment to determine apple quality.

"What was considered desirable taste for an apple 10 years ago is different today," says Abbott, who has worked both with apples and taste-testing panels for the last decade. The panels consist of five or more volunteers who taste products and evaluate them against a check list of items.

"People are more weight conscious today and they want less sweetness in their fruits. This doesn't make sense to some people who assume an apple's an apple – sweet or not – because that's the way it grows. Not so," says Abbott. Researchers such as Abbott are constantly searching for new apple varieties to improve flavor, texture and other qualities important to consumers and the apple industry.

Abbot explains that "apples that are stored convert their starch into sugar and taste sweeter but it makes no difference in the calories because starch is caloric too. We want to know the earliest dates apples can be marketed to get the maximum quality for taste. In other words, how long can apples be stored and still taste "fresh?" Some apples actually require storage – maybe two or three months -- but seldom ten or eleven months as sometimes happens.

"What looks good doesn't always taste good," she says. "We measure quality because appearance can fool you. Some apples have an excellent taste even though their centers might appear almost water soaked. However, they soon turn brown and become "soggy" so their storage life is brief.

Apple grades are based on appearance and freedom from defect – not flavor or texture. There are several instruments to measure an apple's quality and at least one good instrument is available for sorting apples, "but it's far too expensive for the average user," says Abbott.

There are limits to harvesting because consumers want commodities year around, yet, often cannot afford to pay the extra costs -- such as hand picking – involved And, mechanical harvesting – while acceptable for some crops – is not very practical for harvesting apples because it causes too much bruising.

"It's down the road," as the expression goes, but in the foreseeable future we hope to have an instrument the shopper can use to tell if an apple's good – or rotten – inside and if it has a sweet or acid-like flavor. There's a lot more to selecting apples than appearance, according to the USDA scientist.

PFA faces challenges with record of progress

MOUNT POCONO - Charles R. Ord, administrative secretary of the Pennsylvania Farmers' Association (PFA), presented a progress report Monday to voting delegates and others attending PFA's 28th annual meeting.

Voting delegates, numbering 166, were gathered at Mount Airy Lodge, Mount Pocono, Nov. 12-15, to hammer out statewide policies and elect officers.

Ord told the general session gathering that PFA's public affairs department dealt with 215 policies adopted by voting delegates at last year's convention. He listed legislative victories on farm truck licensing and oversized vehicle permits, guarantees for lime and fertilizer ingredients, increased funding for agricultural research, veterinary medicine and more.

He also noted PFA has been recognized by newspapers as one of the top ten lobbying organizations in the state.

Ord outlined organization achievements in other areas such as farm management service, legal service, cooperative marketing and purchasing, volume purchasing, and more. He also urged a program for capitalization of all PFA programs and services.

PFA is a general farm organization with 21,255 farm family members in 53 county associations. It is affiliated with the American Farm Bureau Federation.

PFA president Eugene Thompson, an Indiana County dairyman, said, "Farmers must concern themselves with more than just the weather. Decisions in Harrisburg and Washington, D.C. can affect our livelihood just as much. That's why we set policies to be enacted at local, state and national levels."

"Unfortunately," Thompson continued, "this past year, as in 1977, most of our concerns aren't with the legislatures but with regulatory agencies like OSHA and DER. There are 87 federal regulatory agencies alone. We'd like to see more legislative control over the regulatory process."

Voting delegates, devoted three days to discussing and deciding official stances on subjects ranging from dairy barn inspections to public utilities.

PFA honors John Smith

MOUNT POCONO - John Smith, the York County Cooperative Extension Agent and community leader, was presented the distinguished service award of the Pennsylvania Farmers' Association (PFA) Monday afternoon.

The award was made during a general session of voting delegates and farm leaders attending PFA's four-day convention at Mount Airy Lodge, Mount Pocono. PFA is a general farm organization with 21,255 farm family members in 53 county associations.

Smith has served agriculture 31 years in the Cooperative Extension Service - 26 of those year in York County.

In receiving the award, Smith was praised for his educational efforts to improve the county's production of potatoes, corn, alfalfa, milk, soybeans, poultry and fruit.

Smith has promoted agriculture on radio and television workshops, through farm city tours and through his numerous associations with civic groups. In addition, he has worked with farmers and many organizations to improve the environment and to increase soil conservation.

He has already received many awards from government, farm groups, educators and environmentalists for his numerous achievements. He is also active in many civic groups and community projects outside of agriculture.

Christmas tree directory

ANNAPOLIS, Md. – The popular "Choose And Cut" Christmas tree directory published by the Maryland Department of Agriculture and the Maryland Christmas Tree Association will soon be ready for free distribution.

George Roche, of MDA's Division of Marketing, says the directory for 1978 will list 27 growers located in the following counties: Baltimore, Carroll, Cecil, Frederick, Harford, Howard, Montgomery, Prince Georges, Talbot and Worcester.

The directories will be mailed free of charge to those who request them on a first come-first serve basis. Judging from the past popularity of the directory, requests should be sent to MDA by Thanksgiving. Copies will be sent out December first.

One should send his name and address (a postcard will do) to: "Christmas Trees" care of Maryland Department of Agriculture, Annapolis, Maryland 21401.

The directory lists growers, gives road directions to their plantations, and also details their hours of operation, dates, and types of trees they have for sale this year.

Farmers urged to break regulatory stranglehold

Eugene Thompson

MOUNT POCONO - Despite the unpredictable weather, markets, insects and disease, one of the major obstacles to farming is unreasonable government regulation.

That's the message Eugene Thompson, president of the Pennsylvania Farmers' Association (PFA), conveyed to 166 voting delegates attending PFA's Annual Meeting, Nov. 12-15, at Mount Airy Lodge, Mount Pocono.

Thompson urged that PFA members work to curb government's regulatory powers.

PFA is a general farm organization comprising 53 county associations with 21,255 farm family members. It is affiliated with the American Farm Bureau Federation.

In his annual report to voting delegates, Monday afternoon, Thompson, an Indiana County dairyman, cited three current examples of government agency stumbling blocks.

One is in Federal Milk Marketing Order 36 which includes Western Pennsylvania In a recent order change, the federal market administrator was made a collection agency for all milk sale payments - undoubtedly increasing marketing costs in the order.

Thompson said a farmer cooperative had requested the change because it, "lacked the necessary fortitude to collect overdue bills." The result, Thompson said, is, "another barrier between the dairyman and his paycheck..."

A second example is the lack of government concern about deer damage to farmers' fields. PFA has requested that the State Game Commission study the extent of deer damage and that the deer population be reduced. PFA also recommends farmers be reimbursed for deer damage. So far, nothing has been done.

Thompson exhorted farmers to get in, "on the ground floor", of the State Game Commission which makes regulations governing deer populations, hunting seasons, etc., by having two commission vacancies filled with farmers.

A third example cited by Thompson is the harassment faced by migrant camp operators. One such farmer, Keith Eckel, dairyman and tomato grower in Lackawanna County, was harassed by a federally-funded migrant service agency this Summer and underwent six government investigations of charges that were never proven Thompson called Eckel's experience a "horror story." PFA has requested a Congressional investigation of the affair.

Thompson recounted Eckel's adversity and warned listeners, "You are the next victim on the list...I can tell you right now that the major threat to agriculture is not legislative law, but agency regulations."

Thompson told the delegates, "The power to change the tide of government regulations rests in our hands...being active in the political party of our own belief; in our churches; in our community and in our organization. You cannot sit idly by and expect government regulatory agencies to ignore you. You had better be involved.

Machinery parade follows farm prosperity

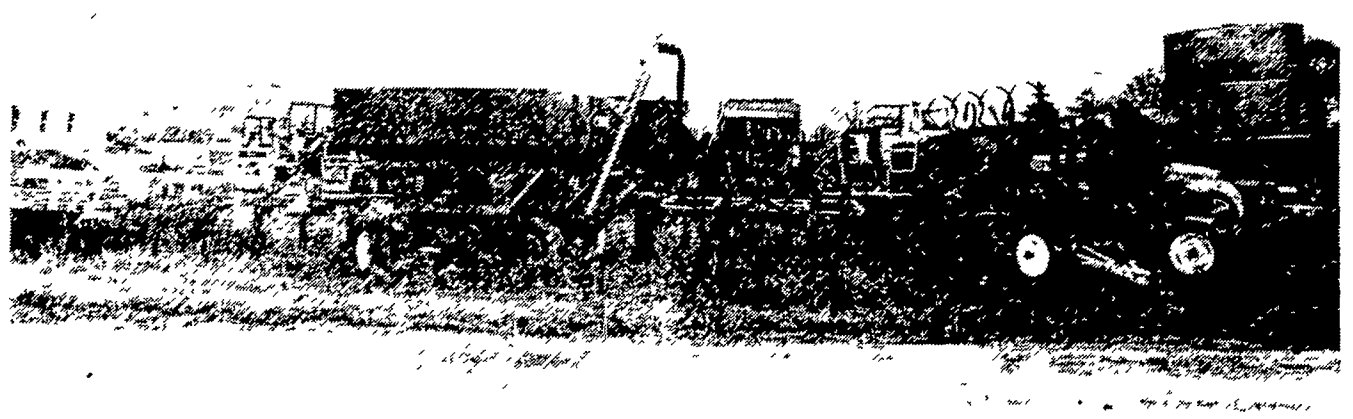
By JERRY WEBB
University of Delaware

NEWARK, Del. – Area farmers with their grain in the bin already are looking ahead to some end-of-year tax accounting. Is this a year to buy big machines and shift sales into next year? Or would it be best to sell the crops before January 1 and forget about buying a new combine for at least another year? The decisions will be different for different farmers, but history shows that farmers buy lots of equipment in good years and little or none in bad years. That kind of tax management helps reduce the bite that goes to Uncle Sam. It's also a way to build up quite an inventory in favorable years.

Department of Agriculture records show that in 1973 through '75 when farm prices were pretty favorable, farmers bought new machines faster than they could be built. Pressure on implement manufacturers was tremendous and machinery prices reflected that pressure. Between '73 and '75 machinery prices on the average jumped more than 40 per cent. That means a tractor that sold for $10,000 in '73 climbed to $14,000 only two seasons later.

That's quite a jump when you consider how little commodity prices have increased since then. And of course that's one of the farmer's problems – he must pay off that over-priced $50,000 combine with money from crops and livestock that may be selling for 1950 prices.

But there he is facing a huge tax bite, and so a new combine looks a little cheaper and he figures that machine will go up in price next year and that makes it cheaper to buy now. And there is a need for the thing – or at least the guy thinks there is. After all, he's farming more acres and his equipment is getting older and outdated.



With the year ending, farmers may be looking at machinery for 1979, depending on their income and tax situations.

And so the machinery parade continues as farmers buy in prosperous years and make do in poor ones. Which brings up the point that maybe farmers spend too much to have the right machine available at the right time

The experts figure it costs a fifth of the value of a new machine each year just to own it and keep it in working order. On a $50,000 combine that's a $10,000 expense (1/5 of $50,000) before the first grains of corn or soybeans splash into the hopper. Once a farmer starts using the machine he has to add the costs of operation.

Now if he plans to harvest a section of land, that's probably money well spent. But if he has a couple of hundred acres, he may be in trouble. Ownership costs per acre would be about $15 on 640 acres – about $50 on 200 acres. And remember, that's only the cost of owning the combine.

The same rules apply to a $10,000 tractor, a $2,000 feed wagon or any other piece of farm equipment.

On many area farms, it's not difficult to come up with a $50,000 - $100,000 equipment inventory. Using that 1/5 per year ownership figure, you've got to earn $10,000 - $20,000 a year just to pay the machinery ownership bill. There are other ways to beat the high cost of owning new machinery:

*Hire custom operators
*Joint ownership
*Lease machinery
*Do custom work to spread ownership costs

None of these are what I'd call new ideas or instant solutions to one of the major farm production expenses, but they are worthy of consideration. Those who have a high level of mechanical ability and can keep machinery going can lower machinery costs by purchasing used machinery. A four-year-old tractor sells for about half its new price. And if it will do the job, it cuts ownership costs $2000 a year on a $10,000 new value tractor.

The first thing most new tractor buyers will say to this is that the repair bills will eat up that saving in no time. The economists don't buy that old "nickel and dime" theory. They say farmers can justify using second-hand farm implements until about three-fourths of the satisfactory operating life is used up.

Custom hire sounds like the ideal solution -- especially for those one-time jobs like baling and combining. The custom rate on a $50,000 combine is less than the ownership cost. And there's the added advantage of a custom operator knowing his machine and his business better than a farmer who uses such a tool only a few days a year.

The key to custom work is availability, and this is where the system usually goes sour. Farmers want a baler in the field on the day and minute when they feel the crop should be baled. Few are willing to sacrifice timeliness for economy. Whether they should or not is an individual matter.

FFA contest winners chosen

KANSAS CITY, Mo. - The Milk Quality and Dairy Foods National FFA contest winners were announced recently with the Licking, Mo. team placing first in the contest.

Silver Emblem teams receiving a plaque award were New Jersey, placing 12th; Maryland, placing 14th; and Pennsylvania, placing 17th. Delaware placed 24th in the competition, winning a bronze emblem.

Individual Gold Emblem medal award winners were Andrea Cecur of Flemington, N.J. and Mike Moore of Damascus, Md.

Bronze Emblem medal winners included Dale Bishop of Felton, Del., Fred T. Burkett of Ephrata, and Scott Augsburger of Ephrata. Also, Tony Schlachter, Flemmington, N.J. and John Bauer, Felton, Del.

Quality and Dairy Foods contest were given ten samples of cottage cheese and ten samples of milk. Each of the samples were visually and taste tested to determine the flavor, 000°, and sediment content of the samples. Team evaluations of the samples were written on score sheets and compared to scores determined by contest officials. The scoring is done following standards used by the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Contestants also identified samples of hard cheese, scored sediment pads and took two tests encompassing milk production as it realtes to milk quality.

Twenty-nine teams competed in the contest which was held in conjunction with the FFA's 51st National Convention in Kansas City, Mo.

Berks County tops in PFA

MOUNT POCONO - The Berks County Farmers' Association on Tuesday was named All-Star County award winner for the highest overall program achievement in the Pennsylvania Farmers' Association (PFA) in 1978.

Individual program awards were also announced during a county awards program at PFA's 28th annual meeting. The convention took place at Mount Airy Lodge, Mount Pocono, Nov. 12-15.

PFA is a general farm organization of 53 county associations totaling 21,255 farm family members. It is affiliated with the American Farm Bureau Federation.

Berks County Farmers' Association president, John Kooker, Jr. of Blandon, accepted the All Star award on behalf of the 1,046 farm family members in the local unit. In addition Berks County received first place awards for association program achievements in the Commodity Division, Safemark and political education.

Other individual program achievement winners by county association are:

Snyder - National Legislative, Organization (Charles Benner of Middleburg, president).

Clarion - State Legislative (Kenneth Kaber of Venus, president).

Erie - Local Affairs (William Goodwin of Lake City, president).

Second place in overall program achievement went to Snyder County; third place went to Franklin County.

Farming options may include unusual twist

By JERRY WEBB
University of Delaware

NEWARK, Del. – There are ways to make money farming besides the traditional approach of buying land and equipment and growing the usual agricultural produce such as corn and soybeans. I am reminded of this by a friend who leases hay ground. He owns a couple of tractors, mower, rake, baler, and some wagons. That's his inventory, perhaps $15,000 worth of stuff, yet he farms about a thousand acres every year.

The hay ground is rented at a pre-set figure and the hay he bales is sold in the field depending on quality and variety for either dairy cattle, horses, beef cattle, or mushroom compost. Price varies with quality.

Does he make any money? Five to ten bucks an hour for his time, depending on hay quality and price. Investment and overhead are low and by selling in the field he reduces labor and storage problems. He also passes up the opportunity for greater profits fron Winter sales but he figures it's worth it.

A lot of farmers are finding straight custom work an important part of their operations. Combining, baling, planting, fertilizer applications, are jobs that other farmers will pay to have done. They've learned it isn't worth it to own and operate specialty equipment without large volume.

More and more farmers are making the choice – either sell the old combine and hire someone else to harvest the crops, or spend $40,000 for a good big machine and then pay for it with custom receipts.

Custom work is nothing new but its character seems to be changing. There was a time when the custom operators did little else. Many of them didn't even farm. The big operators who did the custom harvesting in the wheat states would spend several months on the road working their way north from Texas or Oklahoma into Kansas and on into the Dakotas.

When the grain was all harvested they went home to a part-time job or maybe a Florida vacation.

I remember a fellow when I was a teenager on a midwestern farm who paid for a baling rig in one Summer. That was during the war when machinery was hard to get. He found a dairy farmer who owned a good baler but didn't have the time or manpower to keep up with neighborhood requests. So the young fellow offered the old dairyman more money than the baler cost new and the sale was made.

By today's standards that old baler was pretty crude. It was big and bulky with its own air cooled engine and a homemade chute that moved the bales in the general direction of a following wagon. Two men rode the thing, hand punching and tying each wire. They could make a bale so long and so compact that it took two strong boys to move it. One hundred pound bales were the rule rather than the exception. They took less wire, less tying and less time.

That old baler covered the county that Summer and for several more thereafter, baling everything from lush green alfalfa to straw stacks. And the young operator who was willing to go anywhere, anytime made a lot of money. He reportedly made enough before the fancy new self-tying bales came along to pay for a nice farm.

Maybe it was a lot different on the farm during the war years. But even then times were hard for some farmers while others were piling up money. Here again it seemed to be the specialty crops that made the big money.

A neighbor whose farm joined my grandparents' farm on the southwest corner made it big in orchardgrass. He was a lumber dealer named Ralph Compton who had purchased a large farm – maybe 400 acres – considered to be one of the best in the county. Compton had plenty of money anyway, so he developed the farm as a sort of conservation model. Not an acre was plowed, and tall grass and fat cattle abounded. He had metal buildings and new Massey-Harris tractors when most of his neighbors were using mules and Farmall F-20's.

I used to work for Compton when he needed a kid to run a tractor or do other odd jobs. The pay was something like 15 cents an hour.

One year orchardgrass seed was in short supply so Compton decided to harvest a crop. After all, he had 400 acres of the finest orchardgrass anywhere. So we very carefully cut and shocked orchardgrass and hauled it to the thresher in special bundle wagons lined with canvass so we wouldn't lose any seed. Each bundle was gently handed from the shock to the wagon and then onto the thresher conveyor. The seed was then packed into large burlap bags that were hand sewn at the top and stored in a mouse-proof metal building.

Compton sold that crop for some outrageous price like 80 cents a pound and he had tons of it.

Current opportunities to grow orchardgrass or bale hay may be limited, but that's not to say there aren't plenty of other specialty crops. Many of them require unique equipment and production know-how, and above all else they require market development. There are plenty of horror stories around about farmers who grew specialty crops and then couldn't find a market.

There are plenty of specialty crop opportunities available to farmers in the mid-Atlantic area. They involve investment, risk, management changes and a gambler's instinct. They offer some choice from the never-ending corn-soybean cycle and the prospect of better than usual profits.

Better incomes predicted for dairymen

LANCASTER - Improved farm incomes for dairymen in 1979 was predicted here Thursday by Dr. Paul E. Hand, economist and assistant manager for Inter-State Milk Producers' Cooperative.

Dr Hand, in his address before delegates of the 3,000-member dairy cooperative, called for a seven per cent increase in Class I & II prices in Federal Order 4 for the up-coming year

The noted dairy economist also predicted a three per cent decline in Class I utilization, a result of pricing inequities still in existance between Federal Orders 2 and 4. His calculations were based on only slight, if any, increases in production in Federal Order 4.

Hand also comforted dairymen in attendance that the opening of the new Holly Milk Cooperative would eliminate any need for transporting reserve milk out of the market.

'Inter-State members will be assured of local markets for their milk," said Hand.

Hand also made reference to 'frequent rumblings" in the industry advocating one Northeast order.

Before one Northeast order could be seriously contemplated, said Hand, "there are at least six points that would have to be resolved"

These provisions include seasonal pricing plans; point of pricing; pool plant qualification requirements; co-op or market service payment; advertising systems; and payment dates and intervals.

Hardin honored by Inter-State

LANCASTER - Peter Hardin, the New England editor for the American Agriculturist, a regional farm magazine for the Northeast, was honored here Friday as "Agri-Communicator of the Year" by the dairy farmer members of Inter-State Milk Producers' Cooperative.

Lester C. Jones, president of Inter-State and a New Jersey dairy farmer, presented the plaque at the Young Cooperator Breakfast program attended by about 500 dairymen and their wives.

"This is in recognition of your continued dedication to the dairy farmer in his need for effective marketing," said Jones in reading the plaque inscription, "Your editorial contributions in the American Agriculturist and Hoard's Dairymen have been aimed towards the betterment of today's dairyman."

Born on a dairy farm in Sussex, NJ, Hardin graduated from Earlham College, Richmond, Ind., before joining the staff of United Milk Producers and then returned to school for a masters degree in agricultural journalism from the University of Wisconsin. His masters thesis was a follow-up analysis on Wisconsin's most recent milk promotion referendum.

Lancaster Co. champion, farm show steers named

By KENDACE BORRY

LANCASTER — Darlene Huyard, Lancaster, showed her purebred Angus steer Sarge to the championship spot at the Lancaster County 4-H steer roundup.

This is the fifth year of 4-H work in the Red Rose Beef Club for the young lady, and the first time she showed a purebred Angus in the show. Her winning animal, shown in the heavyweight class, weighed in at 1325 pounds

The black steer was picked over 72 other animals competing. Judge for the event was Henry Gruber, buyer for Arbergast and Bastian Packing Company, Allentown.

Showing the reserve champion steer at the roundup was Michelle Dean, Strasburg R1. The pert 12 year old blonde showed a 1,115 pound Angus, one that she considered her best of the four years she has competed in the 4-H beef club.

The steer, known as J.C., had been named the reserve champion at the West Lampeter Community Fair earlier this Fall The animal competed in the medium-weight class on Monday.

Her steer was one of the 25 from Lancaster County chosen to compete at the Pennsylvania Farm Show.

Other steers that were chosen to compete at the state level included:

From the lightweight class: Sarah Brubaker, Lancaster; Deb Carmean, East Petersburg; Jay Reiff, Lititz; Billy Coyne,

Dues and advertising contributions may be raised

Pride and confidence noted at Inter-State

LANCASTER, — The president of a 3000 member dairy cooperative said here Thursday that professional management has allowed Inter-State Milk Producers' Cooperative to keep abreast of a constantly changing marketplace.

Lester C. Jones, a Medford, N.J. dairy farmer and president of Inter-State, noted in his address to nearly 500 delegates and members attending the cooperative's 61st annual meeting that the change was unavoidable.

"The physical nature of our cooperative is so different than from a few years ago" noted Jones. He cited Inter-State's transition from solely a marketing cooperative for 60 years to a cooperative with some of the most advanced manufacturing and laboratory facilities in existance.

Jones was referring to Holly Milk Cooperative, a surplus milk facility just opening near Carlisle, capable of converting 2 million pounds of milk a day to powder and butter, and QC Inc., Inter-State's wholly owned subsidiary, which is one of the nation's most advanced quality testing laboratories.

Stressing the importance of advertising, Jones urged delegates to change the voluntary contribution structure for the advertising and promotion program. Instead of the present seven cents per hundredweight contribution, Jones urged one per cent of the price dairymen receive be contributed to research and promotion. He noted with a blend price of $11.00 per hundredweight, this would equal 11 cents, a four cent increase over the present program. If the proposal receives the support of dairymen in Order 4, a Federal Order hearing and referendum would be held.

Inter-State Milk Producers' Cooperative

Annual Convention News

Jones also announced the board's recommended change in Inter-State's dues structure which would increase dues from 8 to 10 cents per hundredweight. The cooperative's dues structure has remained unchanged since 1971. The cooperative's president said this would help enable Inter-State to achieve its current goal of $750,000 annual net savings.

"Just as it is essential to keep our farming operations and advertising current with the times," said Jones, "It is also vital that our cooperatives have a solid financial base on which we can continue to grow and serve you – the members. Inter-State looks back with pride and looks forward with confidence," he concluded.

Lund named chairman of Nat. FFA committee

KANSAS CITY, Mo. – Robert D. Lund, Chevrolet general manager and vice president of General Motors, Detroit, Mich., has been named 1979 Chairman of the Future Farmers of America Foundation Sponsoring Committee. Lund succeeds Clarke A. Nelson, group vice president of Carnation Company, Los Angeles, Calif.

As Chairman of the National FFA Foundation Sponsoring Committee, Lund will lead the effort to provide funds for incentive awards for students of vocational agricultural/agribusiness who are FFA members. Lund's primary responsibility will be to organize and coordinate an effort to contact potential FFA Foundation sponsors during the coming year.

At the present time over 1100 business and industrial companies, organizations and individuals make annual contributions to support the FFA Foundation program.

Lund will be assisted by chairman-elect for 1980, Roland M. Hendrickson, president of the agricultural division, Pfizer, Inc., New York, N.Y. As retiring Chairman, Nelson will serve with Lund and Hendrickson on the FFA Foundation sponsoring committee executive council.

A graduate of the College of St. Thomas at St. Paul, Lund holds a bachelor's degree in business administration and later attended the Harvard University Graduate School of Business. Following three years of service in the United States Navy during World War II, Lund joined Chevrolet as a district sales manager in 1946. He assumed his present position in 1974 following two years as general manager of the Cadillac Motor Car Division.

The election of Lund and Hendrickson took place during a dinner meeting of FFA Foundation sponsors held in conjunction with the 51st National FFA Convention held last week.

Inter-State claims solid past and future

Dr. James E. Honan

LANCASTER - Goal-setting and thorough planning have enabled Inter-State Milk Producers' Cooperative to avoid problems recently facing dairy cooperatives in the Northeast, according to Dr. James E. Honan, Inter-State's general manager.

Dr. Honan, in his address before the delegates attending Inter-State's 61st annual meeting, named several of the goals "which have been helpful in guiding us to where we are today".

"For some time you have been aware of the annual net savings goal of $500,000," said Honan. This goal has now been increased to $750,000 for the current marketing year.

"Some other goals of the cooperative which are being achieved are: good quality milk, continued service to your buyers, a sufficient supply of milk to have a meaningful marketing tool, long-range planning as indicated by the QC Inc. and Holly Milk decisions and a management training program to provide a continuation of good employees," said Honan.

Honan cited Inter-State's recent long range planning project, known as the "Committee of the Whole," as one example of the type of planning essential for such a cooperative to keep current with the times.

The findings of Inter-State's Committee of the Whole were presented to the membership in the form of a booklet entitled "Planning for Tomorrow" which outlines the recommended goals in the following four areas: long term financing; Inter-State's relationship with Holly Milk Cooperative and QC Inc.; Inter-State's relationship with other cooperatives and organizations; and the effects of various alternatives of federal milk marketing control.

Honan cited the partnership Inter-State formed with Maryland Cooperative Milk Producers to establish Holly Milk Cooperative, a surplus manufacturing plant near Carlisle, as an example of the "kind of interaction which might be one of the approaches to be used to achieve more unity among dairy farmers in the Northeast."

"I have never felt more comfortable about the picture I see for Inter-State's future," said Dr. Honan, "Inter-State is well organized, well financed, with good able employees, a strong policy-making board and understanding, loyal members."

He charged the delegates that the decisions they are about to make "must support and enhance our ability to move into the future".

Inter-State is a dairy cooperative based in Southhampton, Pa., which markets the milk of its 3,000 member-owners in the six-state, Middle-Atlantic area.

Dever delivers bullish report on Inter-State

LANCASTER - A bullish report on the financial status of Inter-State Milk Producers' Cooperative was presented to members here Thursday, despite a bearish year for most Northeast dairy cooperatives.

Robert M. Dever, treasurer of the 3,000 dairy farmer cooperative, told delegates attending the co-op's 61st annual meeting here that savings of $464,010 were realized despite excess marketing costs.

"The strength inherent in Inter-State's balance sheet will show anyone that this organization is not experiencing the income and equity problems of some of our neighboring cooperatives." Dever reported that last year, with over 1.9 billion pounds of member milk marketed, the combined efforts of Inter-State and QC Inc. were able to generate over $200 million worth of sales and gross income of over $4 million.

"In the 22 months that QC Inc. has been a wholly-owned subsidiary of Inter-State," said Dever, "it has provided us income well above our most optomistic projections." QC Inc. is one of the East Coast's most sophisticated quality testing laboratories, located adjacent to Inter-State's office in Southampton, Pa

Dever also predicted much of Inter-State's continued future success to the new Holly Milk Cooperative, a surplus milk manufacturing facility near Carlisle, now in operation. Holly Milk, jointly owned by Inter-State and Maryland Cooperative Milk Producers, is expected to generate additional income in addition to solving many marketing problems created by surplus milk.

Dever credited much of the cooperative's past success to strong financial planning which he predicted will continue to be responsible for Inter-State's future success. He noted Inter-State's Committee of the Whole, a study to develop long-range planning for the co-op, which proposed several recommendations regarding Inter-State's finances. One of these proposals increases member dues from 8 to 10 cents per hundredweight. The dues structure had not been updated since 1971.

The second major recommendation, reported Dever, increases the co-op's savings goal for this year from $500,000 to $750,000.

"Inter-State recognizes the importance of having a substantial liquid operating reserve," said Dever. "We must if we wish to remain bullish in the marketplace."

Juftes wins FFA title

KANSAS CITY, Mo. – Ronald Juftes, a 20 year old from Kennett Square, has been named the national winner of the FFA Nursery Operations Proficiency Award.

Kenneth was one of four FFA members in the nation to receive the regional award. He competed for the national title on November 9, at the 1978 National FFA Convention in Kansas City, Mo.

Kenneth was awarded a plaque and a check for $500 for winning the national title.

Weyerhaeuser Company Foundation provided funds for the 1978 Nursery Operation as Proficiency Award program.

Oil furnace pamphlet available

HARRISBURG - 'How To Improve The Efficiency of Your Oil-Fired Furnace" is a new publication that has been made available to the Governor's Energy Council by the U.S. Department of Energy. Some of the highlights of the new pamphlet suggest ways that homeowners can save money and reduce pollution by having their heating systems serviced on a regular basis.

Fluctuating, November temperatures allow homeowners the privilege of minimum use of their heating systems; but, in a short while they will be requiring maximum performance from their oil-fired furnaces. Before that time comes, the Governor's Energy Council suggests that homeowners make sure their systems are checked for safety, efficiency, and cost cutting modifications

The new pamphlet also contains such information as: Suggestions to save money by improving the efficiency of the heating system; estimated money that can be saved by improving the unit; modifications applicable to the heating system; how to find out if the burner is working efficiently; what to do if the heating system is oversized, and estimated savings as a result of lowering the thermostat at night.

"How to Improve The Efficiency of Your Oil-Fired Furnace" is available free from the Governor's Energy Council. To obtain copies one can call toll free: 1-800-882-8400, or write Governor's Energy Council, Public Information Office, 6th Floor, State Street Building, 3rd and State Streets, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania 17101.

New testing program announced

LANCASTER - A new quality control program which could result in improved taste and longer shelf life of milk for consumers was announced here Thursday at the 61st annual meeting of Inter-State Milk Producers' Cooperative.

William B. Hastings, director of field and laboratory services, announced the board-approved program which upgrades member "honor roll" requirements and stiffens penalties for high bacteria counts.

"The quality of the milk marketed by Inter-State has always been exceptional," noted Hastings. "These new standards, however, should provide our dairy farmer-members even further impetus to produce the highest quality milk possible.

William B. Hastings

Hastings noted that various factors, both on and off the farm, can affect the flavor and perishability of milk.

"It makes sense to predict that any efforts taken to encourage the production of better quality milk will pay off by improving the palatability and prolonging the shelf life of milk," said Hastings.

The veteran in the field of milk sanitation noted that improved sanitation standards have already greatly affected the quality of milk. Milk that 25 years ago could be kept for only five days, now can remain fresh-tasting for periods of 14 to 21 days. Naturally, this period is also greatly affected by the temperature at which milk is stored.

Helping to insure the high quality of milk marketed by Inter-State are the 20 licensed field representatives who regularly inspect member dairy farms to insure that the most up-to-date quality procedures are followed. These field representatives are all under the direct supervision of Hastings.

Inter-State markets milk fulfilling all or part of the needs of nearly all of its dealers in the upper, Mid-Atlantic area. Within the next 12 months, Inter-State will market 2 billion pounds of milk with a market value of over $200 million.

State rural development to be strengthened

HARRISBURG - State Agriculture Secretary Kent Shelhamer has announced a realignment of the Agriculture Department's Bureau of Rural Affairs in an effort to strengthen coordination of rural development efforts across the state.

"A coordinated rural development system has become a necessity in order to properly deliver the needed services to our small isolated rural communities," Shelhamer said. "The Agriculture Department is well suited to the task because of its rapport with the farm community."

The realignment of the bureau is in response to the present USDA emphasis on such programs in rural areas as energy, health, housing, land use, transportation and other services. The bureau will now maintain two rural coordinators in each agricultural region of the state.

The bureau will be working closely with the Pennsylvania Rural Development Committee and other agencies which are involved in programs affecting rural communities.

Shelhamer cited five major program areas for the bureau with its new alignment. These include agricultural program coordination, rural development, technical research and data collection, product promotion and marketing, and community development participation.

The Agriculture Department was named as the lead agency in Pennsylvania for rural development in 1973, and since that time has been viewed by Washington as "the model for the coordination of rural development activities." Pennsylvania has the largest rural population of any state in the nation.

The emphasis on rural development is a result of the out migration in the late 1960's and early 1970's toward non-metropolitan areas. The rural population of the commonwealth needs many services which cannot be adequately provided without cooperation and coordination.

"You just cannot assist the farm industry without affecting the rural population. And by the same token, programs which affect the total rural population will have an effect on our farm families," he said.

The realignment of the bureau will not delete existing services provided by the Department, but is aimed at improving coordination of the many development efforts on state, federal and local levels.

4-H feeder calf sale held

LANCASTER - For 4-H and FFA members this is the time of the year when the search is on for good quality feeder calves to be cared for as projects for the coming year. It is a time of looking and questioning, and trying to out-guess the judge at the next year's contest.

For the second year the Lancaster Stockyards sponsored a sale of feeder calves suitable for project animals, held last Friday at the Stockyards.

Three Penn Manor FFA students were among those who purchased animals there. Nancy Barley was selecting her second FFA project, and her sister Tammy purchased her first. Nancy said, "Tammy helped me out a lot with my project and she got the fever of it." Nancy explained that buyers were looking for good quality animals at reasonable prices. The Barley sisters live on Indian Run Road, Millersville.

Dave Weiker, also a Penn Manor student, purchased his first project on Friday. He said he was looking for an animal with length and good muscleing compared to the bone.

Steve Smith, Vo-Ag teacher at Penn Manor, said he also brought some students to the sale last year, and he said he was pleased with the selection of animals made by his students.

New Holland Baby Beef 4-H Club members will also benefit from the sale. Three leaders were there searching out suitable animals to add to the group which traditionally is divided by lot among the 4-H members.

Harvey High, one of the leaders, said that he felt the quality was good for this part of the state, but said that they have found higher quality sales in other parts of the country. "The price wasn't too bad. You must be very careful."

Several 4-H'ers were spotted among the buyers, but at least one 4-H'er left in disappointment. She said she and her family had been to four sales and had not yet found the animal she wanted.

The general feeling was that the sale was a good service for those youngsters who need to find a project animal.

Dick Lefever, right, Quarryville area farmer and chairman of the Federal Land Bank Association of Lancaster, accepts an award from Donald Shiflet, vice president of the Farm Credit Banks of Baltimore, in recognition of the Lancaster branch's "significant contributions" to the $1 billion worth of outstanding loans on the books at the Baltimore bank.

Farm Credit System reports excellent year

By DIETER KRIEG

BIRD-IN-HAND — The board of directors of the Lancaster Production Credit Association and the Federal Land Bank Association of Lancaster on Wednesday reported having had an excellent year, and apparently they weren't alone with that opinion. Donald Shiflet, vice president of the Farm Credit Banks of Baltimore, presented the organization with a plaque "in recognition of their significant contributions" to the $1 billion worth of outstanding loans written by the Farm Credit Banks of Baltimore. The FLBA of Lancaster shows a record of $66,584,000 worth of loans being outstanding as of Sept 30, 1978. That figure is nearly double the volume of outstanding loans recorded four years ago

While the Farm Credit Service cooperatives are reporting significant gains and sound financial statements, the money flow is likely to tighten, according to Shiflet, who addressed the several hundred members who were present for the luncheon meeting, held at the Plain and Fancy Farm Restaurant, near here.

The bank executive noted that demand for agricultural credit is soaring, and an increase in interest rates is relatively certain within the near future. Interest rates at the Federal Land Bank are currently pegged at 8½ per cent. That rate could be raised by as much as one per cent once directors have analyzed the situation. They're to meet on the matter both this month and in December

The current 8½ per cent lending rate offered by the Federal Land Bank compares with an average prime rate of 10.75 per cent at commercial banks. Some economists visualize that rate going up to 12 per cent next year, adding that the country will then be pulled into a recession

According to Shiflet, commercial banks are being forced to be increasingly selective with their loan applications The same economic pressures will also apply to the Farm Credit System, although perhaps not as harshly The Farm Credit System, according to Shiflet, still has money available, but the supply will tighten.

Farm Credit

Shiflet declined to be specific about what he thought interest rates might rise to next year, indicating only that it was hoped the increase could be kept at one per cent or less - possibly ½ per cent. "I can't guarantee what the percentage rate will be in the future, but I can guarantee the lowest possible rates," the executive offered

Noting that all of society has had to undergo significant changes during he past decade or two, Shiflet said that farmers have been no exception. "Change has become the rule rather than the exception," Shiflet declared. "Agriculture has been forced to come to grips with this change merely to survive and remain viable."

According to Shiflet, farmers have not only met the challenges presented by changing patterns, but they have managed to prosper - feeding not only this nation, but multitudes across the seas as well. He said this is a significant accomplishment in the face of changing technlogies, government policies, trade balances, environmental questions, and weather patterns.

"Credit has had a lot to do with the fact that farmers have been able to work with the changes," Shiflet declared, adding that the Farm Credit System has also had to weather some changes. This year the farmer-owned lending institutions have $46 billion worth of loans outstanding across the country. That amounts to about a third of the total agricultural debt in the United States.

Carl Brown

The Farm Credit System has gone through 60 years of changes, said Shiflet. The bonds issued by the FCS command respect among buyers, including foreign governments, insurance companies, and corporations. FCS bonds are considered to be a safe investment by buyers, which is a reflection of the farmer's credibility and productivity, Shiflet explained.

Serving Lancaster, Lebanon and Dauphin Counties, the Lancaster Farm Credit Service organization has nearly $110 million worth of outstanding loans. More than two thirds of that total are within the Federal Land Bank division, while $42,916,687 are recorded on the Production Credit Association books.

In order to meet the growing needs of the system, a new office will be serving the Dauphin County area, beginning early next year. The facility, complete with ample parking space, will be located in Elizabethville.

In elections held during the meeting, Elvin Hess of Strasburg R1 and Jay Rohrer of Manheim R7 were chosen as directors of the Lancaster Production Credit Association. Earl Keefer of Millersburg R1 and Jay Greider of Mount Joy R1 were given directorships in the Federal Land Bank Association of Lancaster.

Grain reserve nears billion bu.

WASHINGTON, D.C. - There were 980,326,080 bushels of feed grain and wheat in the grain reserve as of Oct. 27, according to Ray Fitzgerald, administrator of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS). As of that date, the reserve held 34,435,332 bushels of barley, 438,500,000 bushels of corn, 38,403,475 bushels of oats, 65,559,729 bushels of sorghum and 403,427,544 bushels of wheat.

The figures cited by administrator Fitzgerald were based on a telephone survey by ASCS.

The grain reserve takes grains off the market for a period of up to three years, or until market prices reach stated levels.

At the same time Fitzgerald announced the telephone survey results, ASCS released its regular weekly price support loan activity report. The report includes figures on grains in the farmer-owned reserve and other data. The data in the weekly report lags behind the figures reported today by the administrator because of the time taken to mail the data for the weekly report to Kansas City for processing.

More information on the regular weekly report by state and by farm and warehouse storage is available in the north lobby of USDA's Kansas City Commodity office, 2400 West 75th St., Prairie Village, Kan., and the Production Adjustment division in USDA's South building, Washington, D.C.

Chester County DHIA vice-president Harold Kulp, and alternate dairy princess Carol Pierce, present awards to Jefferson Yoder, highest butterfat producer with 795 pounds; Melvin Stoltzfus with 780 pounds and George Lamborn for 762 pounds and having the highest milk average at 20,077 pounds.

Yoder has top Chester County herd again

By LAUREL SCHAEFFER
Staff Correspondent

GUTHRIESVILLE - Chester County dairymen gathered here on November 9 to honor 18 of their finest colleagues who have averaged over 650 pounds of butterfat this year Eight topped 700 pounds Heading the impressive list was Jefferson D. Yoder of Elverson, who has been leading the pack for the past several years

Yoder averaged 19,722 pounds of milk and 795 pounds of butterfat Presently Yoder has a herd of 50 cows, and farms 1200 acres with the help of his 23-year old son, Carl, and one full time man. The Yoders also have a herd of 40 Angus brood cows - the foundation of a cow-calf operation.

Following Yoder with an average of 792 pounds of butterfat was Jacob K. Stoltzfus, Oxford. His herd averaged 18,470 pounds of milk. Melvin S. Stoltzfus, Cochranville, averaged 780 pounds of fat and 19,041 of milk. The fourth highest in butterfat was George P Lamborn of Nottingham Lamborn was also the tops in milk production with a record of 20,077 pounds of milk and 762 of fat.

Others over 700 pounds of butterfat were John S Stoltzfus, Atglen with 18,836 pounds of milk and 747 pounds of butterfat, Robert E Pepple Oxford, with 18,279 milk and 728 fat Ardrossan Farms, Villanova, with 17,075 milk and 714 fat, and Ber S Beiler, Cochranville, averaging 18,675 pounds milk and 713 pounds of fat

Producing between 650 and 700 pounds of butterfat were John M Umble Atglen, Newton Evans, Jr Chester Springs Donald Hostetter, Jr, Parkesburg (with two herds over 650) David Windle, Atglen, Harold Umble, Atglen J Elmer Lapp, Coatesville, David E Weaver, Glenmoore Lloyd Mast and Sons, Elverson; Paul M Snader, Parkesburg; and J Harold Bare, Atglen

Rev C Harry Kehm, pastor of Grace United Church of Christ, Allentown, enlivened the annual banquet held at the East Brandywine Township Fire Hall, Guthriesville, with humor, jokes and inspiration Kehm told his attentive audience that if they wanted their herd, family life, and community to be better next year they would have to make it better "It won't just happen by itself," he commented In order to succeed, the pastor said, three things are needed

The first being a desire, an inner urge, an anticipation towards that goal A good sense of humor is also needed, he remarked, and also, you have to be honest with yourself "It isn't important how other people see you, but how you see yourself," he explained

Carol Pierce, Chester County Alternate Dairy Princess, also addressed the large gathering of dairymen. Carol explained the duties of a dairy princess and their importance to the industry, emphasizing the need to effectively compete in the promotion of soft drinks

Earl Baum, DHIA Fieldman, updated the dairymen on the DHIA program across the state, noting there are presently 50,000 cows on the new somatic cell count program and soon the facilities will be expanded to handle more cows Baum also told the group that this is the first year the average herd size decreased in number for quite sometime "The beef price must have done some good," he remarked

Three new directors for the County DHIA Board were also elected during the meeting. Elected to serve a three year term were Elmer Mast, Parkesburg; Jefferson Yoder, and Nick Tkaczuk, Elverson

Fulton Grange holds meeting

Fulton Grange No. 66 held their meeting, November 13, at the Grange Hall in Oakryn, when Corn and Pie Night was observed.

Mrs. Gerald Kreider, Ceres, and Mrs. William Taylor, Pomona, prepared the program. Mrs. Kreider was in charge of the corn contest and Daniel Trimble was the judge. ## The BIG ONES with the Big Features

Stop by your local Avco New Idea Dealer and be among the first to discover the BIG ONES, the newest and biggest manure spreaders yet from Avco New Idea. Modern styling, heavy-duty construction and an all-wood box that resists corrosive acids have been combined with big capacity — 325 bushels on the 8½-ton Model 244, 375 bushels on the 10-ton Model 245. Then we added features farmers have asked for, like a new heavy-duty worm gear conveyor drive, unique conveyor overload clutch, new rugged frame and an extra heavy beater assembly with deep formed paddles.

Plus a number of time and labor-saving options to make the spreading job even easier. All these features ... and more, from the people who invented manure spreaders back in 1899.

The egg industry has something to crow about

By DIETER KRIEG

LANCASTER — The ıation's egg producers and heir respective marketing .ooperatives have ›omething to crow about, ıccording to egg marketıng pecialists who addressed ast week's meetıng of the 'ennsylvania Egg Marketing Association. And o prove their point, those in ttendance not only talked ıbout eggs, they partook of a ıeal which featured nothing ›ut eggs and egg products.

National sales of eggs are ncouragıng, and consumer ttitudes are favorable lespite the negative ımpact f cholesterol publicity. This urn of events ıs perhaps ›est signified by the good esponse the American Egg 3oard (AEB) ıs exıerıencing at ıts American Egg House at Dısneyland, Jalifornıa. The egg estaurant, which was ›pened last Summer, ıs eported to be doing good ›usıness ın more ways than ›ne. Both sales and good public relations are beıng "hatched" at admırable levels.

All thıs ıs causıng consıderable enthusıasm among egg promotıon people such as Christıne Bushway, who ıs the AEB coordınator for 11 Northeastern states and an employee of the Northeast Egg Marketıng Associatıon, (NEMA).

In Lancaster to address the regular monthly meetıng of the Pennsylvanıa Egg Marketıng Associatıon, Mıss Bushway saıd that everyone ın the NEMA office "ıs enthusıastic about what they're doıng. Thıngs are happenıng all over the country."

Mıss Bushway promotes eggs and egg products ın 11 Northeastern states, ıncludıng Pennsylvanıa, Maryland, New Jersey, and Delaware. Her responsıbılıtıes brıng her ınto televısıon and radıo studıos, magazıne and newspaper offıces, home economıcs classes, and a varıety of other functıons. Wıth such a large geographıc area to cover, she is too busy to accept all the requests, says Mıss Bushway, a slender woman with a pleasant smile.

But Mıss Bushway and egg producers and marketers ın the Northeast may soon receıve some help to promote their products New York State, ıt was noted, wıll have a full-tıme egg promotıon person begınnıng Jan. 1, 1979. The possıbılıty exısts for Pennsylvanıa to have a full-tıme egg promoter, although the feasıbılıty needs more study. According to Mıss Bushway, Pennsylvanıa has the bırd populatıon and concentratıon of large cıtıes needed to merıt the program. It's just a questıon of establishıng and fundıng it.

All of the states ın the South each have their own full-tıme egg promoters, Mıss Bushway contınued, as do many areas ın the Mıdwest and Far West

Bıll Rent, general manager of NEMA, has hıgh praıse for Mıss Bushway and her accomplıshments. "She ıs very busy and the most outstandıng egg promotıon coordınator ın the U.S. She has done a great job," he saıd.

Among Mıss Bushway's more recent achıevements ıs the productıon of a brochure describıng the preparatıon of eggs ın mıcrowave ovens. The cost - $1700 - was underwrıtten by the manufacturers of Sharp mıcrowave ovens. Accordıng to Mıss Bushway, eggs are best when prepared ın a mıcrowave, but the use of the applıance for eggs demands specıal knowledge. "You have to know hat you're doıng," warns Mıss Bushway. The hand-out ıs complete wıth recipes and ıs avaılable from the NEMA office at Box MM, Durham, N H 03824. A separate feature on mıcrowave cookıng of eggs will appear ın Lancaster Farming ın the near future.

Mıss Bushway describes the response to egg promotion as beıng "terrıfıc." The crowds at the Amerıcan Egg House ın Dısneyland are just one example. Recollectıng her own experıences durıng a televısıon show on Philadelphıa's statıon KYW, the AEB coordınator saıd that audıence reactıons were much better than anıtıcipated She dıd the show last Spring and has had requests for encores from statıon programmers but has had to declıne because of her busy schedule. She did a sımılar show ın Pittsburgh thıs week.

Requests also come in from Extensıon offıces and home economıcs departments at hıgh schools. Magazıne and newspaper edıtors have her card. Time does not allow for all of the requests to be fılled.

The egg industry

According to the NEMA people, Pennsylvania's egg industry has enough to crow about to have its own promoter Having the money available to pay the salary and operating costs of an egg promotion office is one one of the drawbacks so far. However, the AEB matches fund-raising efforts which could offset those costs Pennsylvania egg producers and marketers must take the initiative in these efforts

It was evident that whenever eggs are featured, and Miss Bushway is doing the talking, people listen Her schedule is filled through May of 1979

Describing AEB promotional programs, Miss Bushway said that the organization's teacher's kit is being very well received. Home economics instructors marvel at the content, quality and low price of the teaching aid. Also enjoying popularity is a special program designed to promote eggs and egg products to restaurant operators. Pennsylvanians can take special pride in that since it was developed by the Keystone State's egg marketers.

Bill Rent

Christine Bushway

To help promote eggs in Pennsylvania, the American Egg Board is funding promotional programs here to the tune of $3000. Pennsylvania egg marketers have raised an equal amount through the check-off program, and are thus funded with a total of $6000. Last year's budget, according to Bill Patterson, chairman of the Consumer Research and Education Committee of PEMA, of the Pennsylvania Egg Marketing Association, was $5000. The 1979 budget and sources of funding are being looked into now, he said.

According to the bird population in the Keystone State, the volume of egg production and sales merits a grant of up to $16,000 from the AEB. But since Pennsylvania only raised $3000 on its own, the AEB will match it with $3000, instead of $16,000, which is given as the state's potential.

Last Friday's PEMA meeting not only featured egg promotion through the spoken word, but also in the menu. The dinner was exclusively eggs and egg products. It was only the fourth time that such a dinner was served in the state by the egg marketing association. Restauranteurs will be introduced to it in January, said Patterson. The Treadway Inn, where last Friday's meeting was held, was reportedly impressed enough with it to add the selections to their regular menus.

In other news from the meeting, NEMA general manager Bill Rent noted that his organization, which is a member of United Egg Producers, is taking part in an association-sponsored insurance program which is saving members $1.50 to $3.00 per thousand dollars worth of insurance. Describing the success of the program as "phenomenal," Rent said $250 million worth of insurance has already been contracted for by producers, processors and millers.

Rent also noted that the U.E.P. offices in Washington, D.C. have been reorganized and that the national egg marketing cooperative is enjoying considerable respect and credibility among the nation's lawmakers. "Senators call the U.E.P. office to call for information about a bill's impact on the egg industry," Rent noted.

The next regular meeting of the Pennsylvania Egg Marketing Association will take place on Dec. 8, at 7 p.m. in the Treadway Inn, Lancaster. It will be Ladies' Night and the Eshelman Studio will provide the entertainment, entitled "America the Beautiful."

NEMA honors Krieg

Charles O'Reilly, manager for the mid-Atlantic area of the Northeast Egg Marketing Association, last week presented words of appreciation and a plaque to Lancaster Farming editor Dieter Krieg for "outstanding reporting of egg industry activity." A. Roger Grout, left, Penn State Extension agricultural engineer, receives Epsilon Sigma Phi Ruby Award from William R. King, Armstrong County Extension Director.

Grout receives Ruby Award

UNIVERSITY PARK - A. Roger Grout, professor of agricultural engineering extension at The Pennsylvania State University, has been named recipient of the Ruby Award presented by the Penn State Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Phi, national honorary extension fraternity.

The award, based on excellence in Extension educational programming, was presented to Mr. Grout at the chapter's recent annual meeting on the University Park Campus.

William R. King, Armstrong County Extension director and awards committee chairman, points out that the award recipient works with farmers throughout the state in remodeling outdated barns or constructing new facilities. The estimated value of the completed work is in excess of $40 million.

During Mr. Grout's professional career in Pennsylvania, he has provided individual assistance to more than 5600 farmers. One of his significant activities has involved the engineering design of dairy barns, milking centers, and livestock management facilities.

In charge of the Pennsylvania Extension Plan Service, he is responsible for the preparation or acquisition and distribution of hundreds of plans for farm structures

Currently he is working with an ad hoc group representing farm organizations, state and federal agencies to develop a better understanding of the environmental issues affecting farmers and regulatory agencies.

Mr. Grout is a member of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers, Extension Professors Association, Epsilon Sigma Phi society, and Alpha Zeta fraternity.

A native of Kennedy, NY, he has been a member of the Extension staff for 30 years.

Oct. milk price: $11.56

Dover Young Farmers hold crop show

DOVER – The cafeteria of the Dover Area High school took on the appearance of a haynow during the first of what promised to become an annual event, a York County crops improvement show.

Sponsored by the Dover Chapter of Young Farmers, under the direction of adult education supervisor William Fleet, the November 8 exhibit brought out 64 entries in a dozen-plus classes of forage samples.

Champion overall of the hay division went to Thomasville R2 dairyman Phillip Laughman. Although his winning six-inch slice of third cutting alfalfa was a pleasing deep green, Laughman noted that the hay had performed well against some heavy odds.

It came from a five-year-old alfalfa stand and had laid drying in windrows for several days after the mid-October cutting date. Also, the field had not been sprayed, limed or fertilized, and rain had been falling lightly as the baler criss-crossed the field.

Steve Green captured the corn silage championship with a sample of the feed-stuff that had been packed away in an upright cement stave unit during early October. Green is crops supervisor for the dairying operation of Ralph McGregor at Kralltown, where the silage was put up as part of the winter livestock feed supplies.

Winning ear corn samples came from the Ellis Crowl farm at Airville R2. The collection of long full ears of grain represented Doeblers Variety #77.

Although the Dover Young Farmers have held a hay and forage show for the past several years, this marked the first time that the categories were opened to entries from outside the chapter membership. About a hundred people turned out to view and take part in the exhibit, including several agri-business representatives who set up promotional displays.

Top winners in each division received complimentary bags of seed corn for their exhibitors, and will be entered for Farm Show judging during January. County Agent John Smith judged the contest entries.

Fleet, the chapter's advisor, is one of a mere three or four agricultural teachers in Pennsylvania hired specifically to direct adult agricultural programs. He views the crops improvement competition as just one of many kinds of educational tools.

With the anticipation of expanding the present 49 person membership of the chapter, Fleet plans a corn clinic night, a session of veterinarian question-answers, record management classes and commodity marketing studies.

The list of class winners from the forage exhibit included: Mixed hay, Charles Rauhauser, Dover, first, and Martin Livingston, Kralltown, second; timothy and clover mixed, Crist Shearer, Dover; haylage, Steve Green, Kralltown; miscellaneous grasses, Ashecombe Dairy, Dover.

Alfalfa mixed, Rodney Smyser, York, first, and Wayne Myers, Dover, second; high moisture corn, Joe Stump, York New Salem.

The turkeys that got away

By KENDACE BORRY

Deep in the woods of central Pennsylvania every year about this time a group of turkeys gather together to sing and dance Nobody knows quite where they come together, for no one has ever seen them meet, but they join together every year to celebrate that they escaped Thanksgiving

On Thanksgiving Day, they form a big circle around a fire and dance and gobble to their heart's delight Then, exhausted, they fall to the ground, where they eat field corn on the cob until they're stuffed Then they disappear back into the woods where they won't be seen for another year

Just by chance when walking through the woods recently I met a few of the turkeys that were on their way to their celebration, and they talked to me

All of these turkeys once started out as little turkeys on farms There the farmers fed them and watered them every day through the Spring and the Summer, taking good care of them And the turkeys thought they had the best life that they could have

But, as one turkey put it, "Gobble, gobble, when Fall came, that farmer started to look at us funny He seemed to be measuring us up and weighing us with his eye I just got the idea that it wasn't too safe to stick around "

And so one night when nobody was looking, that turkey quietly slipped out of his house, crawled under the turkey fence, and slipped away in the darkness Today he is living a life of ease in the woods with no worries of becoming a Thanksgiving dinner

Another turkey put it this way, "One day I was standing at the fence, gobble, when I heard my farmer talking to another man, and they said that they were going to eat me Here all my life I had been the pet of the farmer's daughter, and he was going to make roast turkey out of me Gobble! That was enough for me I just flew over the fence right by them and took off for the hills The last I saw, they were still trying to catch me "

Then he smiled as only a turkey can, and added, "But they never, gobble, gobble, did "

Ten turkeys that had gone over the fence together said that it had been hard at first out in the wilds

"We were so used to being fed and pampered, it was hard to realize that we would be on our own," they noted "At first we thought we would starve but we soon started finding our own bugs and worms and berries to eat "

Turkey talk for little folk

And with that, one turkey showed how he could quickly snap a bug that was passing in the air I was impressed

When I asked how many turkeys there are out roaming the wilds instead of staying on the farms where they belonged, the turkeys just gobbled to each other and ignored me Ruffling their feathers, they finally admitted that there were a lot more out there than the farmers ever realized

"We do a special kind of turkey dance at our meeting," one young turkey proudly stated, while demonstrating a few of the fancy steps "Every bird must learn it to be a part of the group We spend a lot of time practicing throughout the year "

A wise old turkey that had been on his own for more years than he could remember stepped up to me, pecked me on the shoelaces to get my attention and said, "All the turkeys should be out here. They shouldn't be eaten It's not fair. We like to celebrate Thanksgiving too And besides, most turkeys aren't around long enough to even start to get the Christmas spirit Santa Claus never comes to see the turkeys. They're always gone by then " And a big turkey tear fell down his beak

"But we have all the holidays to celebrate out here, and we do see Santa," one of his friends piped up And the turkeys grew gobbily cheerful again

I could tell the turkeys were getting restless to be on their way, so I let them go and watched them disappear over the hill, wondering how they knew where to go Then I turned back home again, thinking over what they had said.

I don't know, maybe I'll have roast popcorn for Thanksgiving this year the first place winner in the 7000 Modified class, with Polly Landis coming in second, and Ethel Zimmerman taking third place.

Entertainment for the evening was provided by Boyd Gartley, director of member and public relations for Interstate Milk Co-op.

Using his guitar to illustrate his points, he told of his life growing up in the hills of Pennsylvania, where music was picked up by ear and not learned.

Water study continues

HARRISBURG - The Susquehanna River Basin Commission has approved a proposed fiscal year 1979 work program for the special Susquehanna River Basin Groundwater Study and selected an accounting firm for the FY-79 audit of its financial records.

At the conclusion of the regular meeting, the Commission convened a public hearing at which public comments were received on the proposed water conservation policy and standards. The proposed policy and standards are one part of a three-part program to fulfill the Commission objective of assuring the availability of water for all users.

The proposed policy requires that all new water users and suppliers maximize their water use efficiency by using available, feasible water conservation technology. Existing users and suppliers would be asked to comply within a reasonable time.

The implementing standards will be incorporated into the SRBC "Regulations and Procedures for Review of Projects" and will set water conservation requirements for public water supply utilities, industrial water users, and agricultural irrigation.

Expected benefits from implementation of the policy include reduced water use, wastewater flow and treatment costs, and energy consumption in the basin's water supply-wastewater management systems.

For those unable to attend the public hearing, written comments may still be submitted to the Office of the Executive Director, Susquehanna River Basin Commission, 1721 N. Front St., Harrisburg, PA 17102. These comments must be submitted by December 8, 1978.

The Commission will not meet in December. The next meeting of the Commission is scheduled for January 11, 1979 at the Penn Harris Motor Inn, Camp Hill, Pa.

Teresa Wolfskill

Happiness is being a dairy farm girl

By LAUREL SCHAEFFER
Staff Correspondent

ROBESONIA – Teresa Wolfskill truly enjoys her duties as Berks County's dairy princess. She first became enthused about the idea after she had attended the 1977 Berks County Dairy Princess Pagent and decided right then and there that she would enter the contest the following year.

Teresa not only entered the pageant held last June, but also won the coveted title, replacing Sandy Miller, the 1977 Berks County Dairy Princess. Teresa knew what she was getting into and was well prepared.

Appearing before large audiences was nothing she had to become accustomed to. This talented young lady has previously been in musicals while attending Conrad Weiser High School where she graduated as the class historian in 1977. Teresa also performs in the English Hand-bell Choir of Saint Daniels Lutheran Church, Robesonia, and serves as the assistant organist there.

At 18, Teresa is very enthusiastic about promoting the dairy industry and it's primary product. Presently she lives with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Wolfskill, Robesonia R1, where she also works, attending to the dairy herd of which 55 are now milking.

Teresa's duties include milking morning and evening, raising and registering the calves, keeping the records and mating the cows. She will also assist with many of the other aspects involved in the farming operation as help is needed.

The Wolfskills maintain a rolling herd average of 18,030 pounds of milk and 692 pounds butterfat. The entire operation consists of approximately 625 acres, the dairy herd and a beef fattening operation numbering 200 head.

This dairy princess has three cows and a heifer of her own. The first cow was acquired from her father, because Teresa had saved it's life. This happened several years ago when she had wandered in the dairy barn and unexpectedly found a cow giving birth to a calf that was positioned wrong. Teresa had to assist the cow by pulling the calf which would not have survived without her help. Because of this endeavor, the calf, named LuLu, was given to Teresa.

This year LuLu was classified 86-VG and of course, Teresa plans to keep her and continue to increase her herd. However, next Summer Teresa's cows will be moved to a new home: her fiance's farm, which is also a dairy.

With all of her duties at home and as the Berks County Dairy Princess, Teresa doesn't have very much for anything else besides her music.

As of October, she has already traveled 1282 miles and visited 600 elementary school children as Berks County Dairy Princess. Teresa has set a goal to see at least 1000 school children during her reign and will probably surpass that number.

Being the dairy princess for Berks County keeps this young dairywoman busy every week. She made 13 different appearances in October alone. She has been in parades, on radio and television, attended meetings and banquets, appeared in supermarkets and at local fairs, as well as at Ag Progress Days.

Best of all, Teresa enjoys the grade schools and finds them the most rewarding. "The kids ask funny questions," she remarked with a smile. "They are a big help in promoting milk too, because they go home and tell their parents." she added.

As part of her program aimed at the grade school children, the dairy princess passes a jar containing whipping cream around the room. Each child takes a turn at shaking the jar until butter is formed.

"Talking to people in supermarkets also helps to sell dairy products," Teresa remarked. "Everyone is very receptive, and interested in what I have to say." Dairy princesses let people know that the dairy industry exists, and handing out appealing recipes help to sell our products.

One recipe that Teresa has found to be good and easy to make is Cottage Noodle Bake. This dish is full of delicious dairy products and fits in well with leftovers such as ham, corned beef, or even turkey. The recipe is as follows:

COTTAGE NOODLE BAKE

1 package (8 oz.) medium noodles
1/4 cup (1/2 stick) butter
1 cup chopped celery
1/2 cup minced onion
2 cups cottage cheese
1/2 cup dairy sour cream
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1/4 teaspoon hot pepper sauce
Dash of pepper
1/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese

Preheat oven to 350° F. Cook noodles according to package directions; drain. Melt butter in a small skillet. Add celery and onion; saute 5 minutes. Combine noodles, sautéed vegetables, cottage cheese, sour cream, salt, Worcestershire and hot pepper sauces and pepper. Turn into a buttered 1 1/2-quart casserole. Sprinkle Parmesan cheese over top. Bake until top is golden, about 20 minutes. Excellent when served with ham.

When Teresa happens to find some free time from all of her many activities, she likes to participate in volleyball or softball games, bake or sing. She is looking anxiously towards her future in the dairy industry, and can not think of any happier or more fulfilling way of life.

In the mediumweight division, those chosen were: Michele Dean, Strasburg R1; Mary Huepenbecker, Conestogar R1; Gerald Hess, Conestoga R1: Brain Hess, Conestoga R1; Tom Baum, Elizabethtown R3; Steve Long, Peach Bottom R2; Bonnie Frey, Refton; and Deb Greider, Columbia R2

From the light heavyweight class, Fritz Frey, Quarryville R2; Marty Burkins, Holtwood R1, Bob Hess, Lancaster R2; Meil Bushong, Columbia R3; Brett Holzhauer, Holtwood R1; Dora Jo Geib, Manheim R5

And from the heavyweight class, Ernie Frey II, Quarryville R2; Sandy Landis, Lancaster R6; Ed Nissley, Manaheim R5; Tim Hess, Lancaster R2; and Emily Weaver, Ephrata R1

Commenting on the steers travelling to Harrisburg in January, Lancaster County Extension Agent Max Smith said that he thought the county had a good chance at the coveted state championship.

"We have some really nice steers going this year," he stated "We always have a good chance, but this year looks really good"

In the showmanship contest, Sarah Lynn Brubaker was placed first. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Brubaker.

But she was not to be given the Intelligencer Journal calf due to the fact that there is a good chance that her family will be moving out of Lancaster County next Spring.

Sarah, who said that she simply entered the contest to see how she would do, came about the closest one can without walking home with a new four-legged animal. Two years ago she had placed second in the contest, losing to Gary Eberly.

Winner of the calf was second placed Tom Baum, Elizabethtown R3

The sixteen year old youth, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clair Baum, has earned national Angus heifer titles and shown cows at both the Keystone International Exposition and the Pennsylvania Farm Show

Grant challenges Carter's ag decisions

PARK RIDGE, Ill. - Allan Grant charged last week that President Carter's feed grain set-aside announcement has "laid the groundwork for further build-up of price-depressing government controllable stocks."

Grant, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, said Carter ignored farmers' plea for an earlier announcement, and called the delay a "deliberate political ploy," adding that most important crop decisions have already been made by many of the nation's feed grain farmers.

The farm leader said the lateness of the announcement, coupled with the inadequacy of the feed grain set-aside program, plus the president's veto of a meat import bill, indicates that the administration intends to continue to pursue a "cheap food policy at the farmers' expense."

"Instead of balancing production with demand," Grant said, "we are headed toward uncontrollable surpluses building huge, market-depressing reserves and forcing down farm prices, already below the profit level in many cases. In the long run such unwise actions will mean higher costs to the consumers."

Allan Grant

As early as mid-September, Farm Bureau had urged an early announcement of a set-aside program that would have limited the 1979 corn crop to 5 5 billion bushels, which would have been adequate to meet domestic needs and fulfill export commitments.

The administration estimates that the announced set-aside program will result in a 6.34 billion bushel crop folowing this year's record setting 6.89 billion bushel crop.

The meat import bill vetoed by Carter was a "countercyclical" formula favored by cattle producers. The bill as passed by Congress, would have sharply curbed the powers of the president to allow increased beef imports, removing such actions from the political arena.

Evergreens need protection

FLEMINGTON, N.J. - Evergreens such as rhododendrons, azaleas and andromedas, as well as hollies and hemlocks, that were planted on the north or northwest of buildings last Spring or during September should be protected by windbreakers during the Winter months. Plants on the south or southwest side exposed to a lot of sun during Winter should also be protected.

Windbreakers or barriers will reduce the amount of water loss caused by the wind and protect the plants from being burned by the sun which happened this last Winter to many hollies, pines hemlock and rhododendrons.

Gardeners won't have to worry about wind and sunburn until January, February and perhaps March, but now's the time to put in the posts before the ground freezes. The protective covering can be put around the posts the middle of December. As long as the ground isn't frozen the plants will be able to absorb moisture. Make sure that the plants go into the Winter with ample moisture in the soil.

The best material to use is burlap. It can be purchased in rolls at better garden centers. Plastic can be used as a windbreaker, but it lets in light which will burn the plants and do as much damage as wind. The use of plastic is fine if wind is the only problem.

Reed matting fastened to chicken wire can also be used to protect newly planted evergreens.

Maryland places in top ten for FFA award

KANSAS CITY, Mo. - Winners were recently announced in the National FFA Agricultural Mechanics Contest held in conjunction with the National FFA Convention in Kansas City, Mo. The Utah State Team placed first in the competition against 40 teams. The participating Maryland State Team came in ninth, winning a Gold Emblem plaque award.

Individually, Edward Shaw, Frederick, Md., was the only Gold Emblem medal winnter for the Maryland team. John Younkins and Bill Etchison, both of Frederick Md., were Silver Emblem medal winners.

The New Jersey State Team placed 30th in the contest. Frank Wieszczek of Columbus N.J. individually won a Bronze Emblem for his efforts.

This contest is designed to test the knowledge and skills of agricultural mechanics. Contest activities included solving agricultural mechanics problems, demonstration of shop skills and a written examination in such areas as soil and water management, farm power, farm machinery, carpentry and concrete. The contest is one which FFA members put into practice the lessons taught in the vocational agriculture classroom

The contest was sponsored by the Firestone Tire & Rubber Company of Akron, Ohio.

Pa. fares well in N.C. show

RALEIGH, N.C. - Two Pennsylvania exhibitors, Dennis Grumbine, Myerstown, and John Strawbridge, Stewartstown R1, fared well in the swine competition at the North Carolina State Fair, Raleigh, N C , held recently.

In the market barrow show, Grumbine placed 10th and 12th in the lightweight live placing, and sixth and 16th, respectively, in the carcass placing.

Strawbridge placed seventh and fifth in the mediumweight live placing, and moved up to second and third in the carcass placing.

In the senior swine show, Strawbridge captured the Hampshire grand champion boar title with a December boar he exhibited. He also showed the reserve champion Yorkshire boar and grand champion Yorkshire sow

Thanksgiving programs featured

KENNETT SQUARE - Two special musical programs will highlight the annual Thanksgiving chrysanthemum display at Longwood Gardens, Kennett Square. Both concerts start at 7 p.m. in the Main Conservatory and will feature the Devon Brass on November 24, and the Philadelphia Archdiocesan Choir, directed by Peter LaManna, on November 25.

The Devon Brass is comprised of six musicians from the Philadelphia area with individual experience ranging from recording sessions to positions with major symphony orchestras

Included in the November 24 concert will be Bach's Fugue from "The Well-Tempered Clavichord," a selection from Moussorgsky's "Pictures at an Exhibition," and a Scott Joplin rag.

The 300-voice Philadelphia Archdiocesan Choir to be presented on November 25 was organized early in 1976 by Dr. Peter LaManna.

Admission to the Thanksgiving concerts will be the regular Longwood entrance fee - $2 for adults, $1 for children 6-14, and children under 6 admitted free. Seating is limited, but the music can be enjoyed from throughout the central greenhouses.

During the Thanksgiving holidays, the Longwood conservatories will open at the usual time of 10 a.m., and on November 23, 24, and 25 will remain open from 5 p.m. until 9 p.m. Visitors will have ample time before and after the concerts to view this year's holiday chrysanthemum display, resplendent with 15,000 mums in golden harvest colors.

Longwood Gardens is located on U.S. Route 1, three miles northeast of Kennett Square. For information, one can telephone 215-388-6741.

Pen-Hort Society to meet

NEWARK, Del. - The Peninsula Horticulture Society will hold its annual meeting December 4 and 5 this year, at the Wicomico Civic Center in Salisbury, Md.

As is customary, the Monday session will be devoted to vegetable crops, while Tuesday's program will cover greenhouse and ornamental crops. Sessions both days start at 9:30 a.m. and last until about 3 p.m., with an hour-and-a-half break for lunch.

Included in the vegetable program will be a presentation by a representative of the United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association on the packaging and marketing of fresh fruit and vegetables.

There will also be a panel discussion on economical production of vegetable transplants, plus talks on vegetable production with plastics, and new pesticides. Another highlight of the Monday program will be a talk by Al Evans, executive director of the Maryland Food Dealers Association, on "The Potential for Vegetable Marketing on the Delmarva Peninsula."

Tuesday's program will include a discussion by Dr. Robert Aldrich of Penn State University on the most economical greenhouse design - from the standpoint of overall energy, labor, and space efficiency.

Other topics to be covered on the Dec. 5 include: ways to irrigate greenhouse crops, home garden design for energy conservation, and fertilization and liming of new and established plantings. Norman Cannon, a plant producer from Greenwood, Del., will talk on new and tested landscape plants for the Delmarva area.

The meeting is free and open to the public. No advanced registration is required. For further information one can contact his county Extension office.

PURINA HIGH OCTANE COW CHOW 36

WHAT GIVES PURINA Hi-O COW CHOW 36 IT'S "MILK POWER"?

Purina Dairy scientists have produced many outstanding Dairy rations through the years, but none offer a greater milk-making potential than Hi-O Cow Chow 36. This "super performing" supplement contains 36% protein. When mixed with grains according to Purina Research approved formulas it produces a "super" energy milking ration.

It is the unique scientific blending of a carefully calculated balance of proteins, minerals, vitamins and extra high energy milk-making ingredients that provides Hi-O Cow Chow 36 with its unusual power to produce extra milk.

Use Hi-O Cow Chow 36 for on-the-farm mixing or let your Purina dealer Check-R-Mix a Purina milking ration for you containing Hi-O Cow Chow 36. He has specific formulas to make a quality milking ration with the right protein level to fit your roughages and your herd.

Records show Hi-O Concentrate 36 not only increases milk production, but dairymen report significant increase in fat test.

PURINA FEEDING PROGRAMS SAVE $$$

YOUR EAR CORN + HI O 36 CONCENTRATE = 16% HIGH ENERGY DAIRY FEED FOR UNDER $137.00 PER TON
